Chicago, August 20.—Dennis Kearney spoke to a large crowd of probably 4,000 to 5,000 workmen in Market Square to-night, touching on the Chinese question as it relates to Chicago, and on general labor topics. His speech was not unlike that he has delivered in Boston and other cities of the east. He goes from here to-morrow morning to Bloomington, thence to St. Louis, and from there to Louisville, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, speaking one or more times at each place.

The following has been received by the Howard Association of Memphis: Grenada, Miss., Aug. 19.—As your representatives sent here for the purpose, we have looked carefully into the situation of everything connected with yellow fever in Grenada. The epidemic, considering the size of the town, appears to be the most malignant and fatal that has ever been known in the country, and this after only nine days. The fever is unaltered and unchecked. The great want is for nurses, and for money to pay them, for there have been persons here sick for long periods without a single attendant.

Vicksburg, August 20.—It is estimated that 209 cases of yellow fever are under treatment; 12 deaths the past 24 hours. St. Louis, August 21.—Live stock dealers of this city have made up a fund of $500 for the benefit of yellow fever sufferers. The Hebrew Young Men's Literary Association also raised over $250 for the same purpose. New Orleans, August 21.—New cases 107, deaths 40. Chicago, August 21.—There has been no general effort to raise money here for yellow fever sufferers in the south. The banks have raised and forwarded $840 to Vicksburg, and will send further contributions. St. James' church has contributed $160 for Grenada; real estate men have sent $100; Louis Sapich, formerly of New Orleans, has sent $200; Potter Palmer, $300, and the Young Men's Christian Association has received and forwarded considerable sums.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The Tribune's Washington special says Secretary Gorham who returned to his duties today at Republican headquarters says that the office holder in New York has contributed half his salary for campaign purposes. In answer to a question, Gorham also said if the president had contributed a dollar in aid of the party he (Gorham) was not aware of it.

Gov. Brown, chief manager of the Texas Pacific legislation, who is now here, predicts that the doubling of freight charges over the Union Pacific from New York to San Francisco which now amount to $2,400 for freight cars, will result in the passage of a law at the next session of congress regulating the rates of freight over the Pacific road.

Omaha, Aug. 11.—Two brothers, named J. A. Cox and Mortimer Cox, living at Millard, 15 miles west of Omaha, were arrested this morning on a charge of being two of the party of four who robbed the U. S. express car on the Kansas City, St. Joseph and C. B. railway, between Winthrop station and Sugar lake, of $5,000 on the morning of the 13th.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—A meeting of Republicans from all parts of the State, favoring the administration of President Hayes, was held today, and it was resolved that it is apparent that the success of the Republican party this fall must depend on harmony. This cannot be expected if honest differences of opinion as to the policy of the administration, or as to the claims of leading Republicans, are made the occasion of discord, and especially if Republican voters are deprived of the right afforded to the people by uniform party usage—of communicating their views by authoritative voice of a convention chosen with express reference to the living issues of the campaign, some of which have become prominent since the last convention was held.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 22.—Owing to the prevalence of yellow fever, John W. Stokes, M. W. G. S., has issued an order that the approaching session of the grand jury of the United States, U. S. F., be held in Baltimore on the 31st of August proximo, instead of at Annapolis, as expected.

Memphis, Aug. 22.—The fever is on the increase, thirty seven new cases being reported from 5 p. m. to noon today, but the deaths were fewer than for the same period yesterday. Reports from Sandston, Miss., this morning are that five cases have been developed there and the people are panic stricken to the extent of a large town.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The news of a brilliant success at Zang's has excited enthusiastic interest here. The efforts of the insurance companies and especially of the Standard, Gen. Phillipovich has been prevented and received the grand cross of the order of Leopold. Insurgents' men prisoners in Bosnia will be sent to the fortress of the Besenider, K. nigars and Gornj.

Bucharest, Aug. 22.—Minister Cernusca is about to go to the various capitals to seek speedy production of the treaty of Berlin concerning the Jews and will exert the necessity of the election of a constitutional assembly to succeed the Roumanian constitution.

Frankfort, Aug. 22.—The Congress for the reform of international law adopted a resolution favoring the freedom of the Black Sea, and similar works, in time of war.

London, Aug. 22.—The secretary of state for the foreign department at a banquet in Liverpool said "the great duty of the government now is to retrench."

Vienna, Aug. 23.—An imperial order names Gen. Philippovich commander-in-chief of the 12th corps; Grand Duke Wurttemberg, commander of the 5th corps; Gen. Scharnberg, commander of the 3d corps, and Gen. Biernert, commander of the 4th corps. These corps, numbering 180,000 men, are for the second army. This development of military force seems principally directed against Serbia and Montenegro where participation in the insurrection is manifest.

Alexandria, Aug. 23.—A protest is under consideration which it is believed the Khedive will accept to-morrow, whereby Nubar Pasha will become president of council and Rivers Wilson, minister of finance. The Khedive and family will reside all the while in the Suez, and a comprehensive scheme for the reform of the administration including large reorganizations in the civil list will be decreed.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—E. A. Haber, to whom the officers of Toure infantry, New Orleans, telegraphed for assistance, has been soliciting for contributions among our local citizens, and this morning transmitted to the infantry at New Orleans $1,000 by telegraphic order. He expects to duplicate that sum to-morrow. The call for help is generally responded to with liberality. Mr. Haber has not yet canvassed among Christians, but will do so before many days.

The committee appointed by St. John's church to-day collected and telegraphed to Memphis over $400 for the benefit of the fever sufferers.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—The directors of the Masonic Savings and Loan Bank announces that in consequence of the improvident loan heretofore made on navy pay certificates, the bank will retire from business.

Bodie, Aug. 20.—Bodie made a fourth shipment yesterday. The total for this month is $415,000. The mine was visited to-day by a number of leading experts from San Francisco and Virginia, who pronounced it the most wonderful gold field in the history of mining.

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—In the municipal criminal court to-day the case against J. C. Duceau, of the defunct Pioneer Bank, came up on demurrer to eighteen charges. On fourteen of these, viz. eight cases of falsifying accounts, and six cases of forgery of certificates of the State Deposit Company's stock the demurrers were sustained, on account of technical errors in the indictment. In two cases of forgery of safe deposit certificates, one case of grand larceny and one case of felony the demurrers were overruled.

Sacramento, Aug. 23.—Henry A. Campbell, who shot and killed Wm. G. English last week, was examined to-day and held to answer for murder. Bail refused.

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—Ten prisoners escaped last night from the brush jail by cutting their way through the wall with a jack knife. The fugitives had been serving out sentences for petty offenses.

As a prudential measure Clay Street Bank is demanding the regular time notice from depositors desiring to withdraw their accounts.

Howell Prairie, Aug. 22, 1878. Editor RECORD: On last Friday evening two suspicious-looking men called at the Howell Prairie store and post office. They came in Mr. C. Rains' wagon to the store. Mr. Rains came into the house, and one of the tramps followed him to the door, using profane and violent language. I ordered him to stop. At this time he called his comrade who sprang from the wagon, when they both rushed into the house and commenced a fuss with Rains, when one of them pushed R. when he attempted to use deadly weapons in self defense, at which time I interfered to prevent bloodshed, and forced the villains out of the house. There were several persons present, which, perhaps, caused them to leave, using violent profane language. After proceeding some distance, they stood on top of a fence beside the road, and after looking all around, they sprang down and ran into a thicket. It seems that these tramps had threatened to kill Rains before coming to the store. They were well-dressed men, large, tall, stout-looking, of villainous countenances. They were drunk, which may account for this outrage.

While our people east of the mountains have been robbed and murdered and ruined by the General Government, we of this valley are exposed to the depredations of communists who are filling our country. D. W. KLEBER.

Nearly a Bag Fire. While cleaning up the University grounds today, the parties who were at work set fire to a pile of rubbish, and in a short time after, went to dinner. While they were absent, the fire caught in the grass, and soon spread over the grounds, endangering the fence and out-building near the main building. But for the timely arrival of those who were in attendance at the Teachers' Institute and others who saw the fire, there would, in a short time have been a lively conflagration. As it is, but little damage was done.

Day by day the University of California is becoming richer and richer. Its yearly income now is $300,000, and this is constantly increasing by the sale of its lands. Recently Judge Hastings gave it $100,000 for the purpose of founding a law school, and, according to the papers, there is a donation to it of $350,000 in the will of the late Michael Reese, making three-quarters of a million which has been received in less than half a year. These donations at interest at five per cent. will increase the annual income of this institution to over $20,000.

Accident. On last Saturday, while Able, youngest son of E. C. Badaway, of Yamhill county, a lad about 14 years of age, was riding on the coupling pole of a wagon, he got his foot in the wheel, tearing his leg, just above the ankle, and compelling him to "lay up" for a time. No bones were broken.

Touching Story of a Meeting Between a Father and His Fallen Daughter.

An extraordinary scene took place in the gloom of the cell-room of the Ninth-street station-house, yesterday morning. It was the meeting and reconciliation, after years of separation, between a respectable, well-to-do father and his miserable, erring daughter, who had sunk to the lowest depth of shame. The meeting came about in this manner: Early in the morning a woman calling herself Hattie Clark, one of the most abandoned white women in that wretched quarter known as Backtown, was arrested for fighting and taken to the station-house with her face pounded black and blue and eyes as swollen from the effects of her encounter that she could hardly see out of them. She was taken before Judge Wilson, who sentenced her to the work-house for thirty days, and fined her $50 and cost. The poor creature had often had the same sentence passed upon her, and carelessly twisting her tangled hair into something like decent shape, slunk out of the sight of the police court, gapers and into a cell in the station-house below, to wait the coming of the prison van, to convey her to the work-house. She flung herself down upon the bench of her cell and was preparing to take a nap, if possible, when she heard a voice in the outer office inquiring of Sergeant Devine, who was on duty: Have you a woman looked up here named Hattie Clark? "Yes," exclaimed the woman, with a rude oath, and without waiting for the sergeant to answer the interrogatory. "Here I am. What's wanted?" The officer showed the inquirer into the cell-room, and Hattie got up and went to her cell-door to see who it was that could be interested in her. The person who had asked for her was a tall, well-built man, with the appearance of an opulent farmer who had weathered some sixty or more years of this life's vicissitudes. As soon as the prisoner caught a glimpse of his features as he drew near her she gave vent to a piteous cry and throwing her apron over her bruised and discolored face, shrank into the farthest corner of the cell. The old gentleman was deeply affected by the sight before him, but mastering his emotion, said in a gentle, pleading voice, "My God, my girl, is it thus I find you; but come to your father, dear." The tender words, to which she was so unused, and which she never expected to come from those lips, broke her down completely, and with a flood of tears she sank at her father's feet and clasped his knees to her bosom. The old man wept with her, and the scene brought tears to the eyes of the sergeant. Hattie gradually grew calmer, and the cell-door being opened the father took his daughter to his heart, rags, filth, bruised face and all. He ignored completely her wretched plight and the still more wretched manner of life it indicated, and only wanted that she should go away with him at once. That could not be just then however, there was a sentence hanging over her, and besides, she said she wanted to get the whiskey out of her, and get rid of her black eyes, before she went with him and she thought the work-house would be the best place for her to go to, as, according to her usual habit, she said that in a week or two she would be in a condition to go with him wherever he desired, and would do so with as grateful a heart as ever beat in a daughter's bosom. There can be no doubt of the sincerity of her protestations. The old gentleman regretfully acquiesced in the arrangement that she should go to the work-house—forgetting that he hadn't all to do with that part of the programme—but said that he would come in two weeks and take her away. They then parted, and Hattie returned to her cell a changed woman, let us hope, for the remainder of her life. There is no doubt, if she continues in her present mood, and shows an earnest purpose to reform, that the proper authorities will release her from the work-house at the stipulated two weeks. But whatever her course may be, the grandeur of character and tenderness of soul exhibited by that good old man, in folding that forlorn, dragged-outest daughter, to his breast, must appeal strongly to the hearts of those who know how rarely such Christian traits are displayed in this hard, wicked city.

The old gentleman was a stock dealer, living near Pleasantburg, Ky. He came to Cincinnati from wood county West Va., in 1821, and lived here until six years ago. Hattie is about thirty-three years of age, and was born in Virginia. She was married young to a conductor on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, named Gibbs, who deserted her after they had lived together but a few weeks. His wife dying, he had brought his children to Cincinnati, and found homes for them among some of his acquaintances. There are four children besides Hattie, all of whom are grown, and in good circumstances. Six years ago he went West and engaged in the stock business; soon the road to comparative wealth. Hattie went wrong soon after he left, and continued to go from bad to worse until she found herself in the lowest dens of Backtown. He had made a number of ineffectual searches for her, but only obtained a clue to her whereabouts, yesterday morning he learned that a woman named Margaret Hill had been there some time ago, but was now back to her old haunts and known as Hattie Clark. His next inquiry was among the policemen, who directed him to the Ninth street station-house with the happy result described above. Cincinnati Commercial.

The following is from the Ashland Tiddler: "The most interesting occurrence in town this week, was the arrival in our streets of Mr. W. C. Myer, driving last week and pointer, Bobby Boring and Molly, attached to a fine White Chapt. Dexter wagon. Molly was accompanied by her foal, two months old, being the smallest specimen of "horse" on the coast. This diminutive team, was dressed in a splendid set of silver mounted harness, made to their special order. That was the first time they had ever been driven in harness, but they moved off as though they had served a life time at the business. Mr. Myer has another span, which he will breed shortly, and proposes to visit our town soon, "four in hand."

Married After Burial.

Two Parisian merchants strongly united in friendship, had each one child of different sexes, who early contracted a strong inclination for each other, which was cherished by the parents, and they were flattered with the expectation of being joined together for life. Unfortunately, at the time they thought themselves on the point of completing this long-wished for union, a man far advanced in years and possessed an immense fortune, cast his eyes on the young lady and made honorable proposals. Her parents could not resist the temptation of a son-in-law in such affluent circumstances and forced her to comply. As soon as the not was tied she strictly enjoined her former lover never to see her, and patiently submitted to her fate; but the anxiety of her mind preyed upon her body and threw her into an lingering disorder, which apparently carried her off and she was consigned to the grave. As soon as the news of this melancholy event reached her lover, his affliction was doubled, being deprived of all hopes of her widowhood; but, recollecting that in her youth she had been for some time in a lethargy, this hope revived and hurried him to the place of her burial, where a good bribe procured a sexton's permission to dig her up; which he performed, and removed her to a place of safety, where by proper method he revived the almost extinguished spark of life. Great was her surprise at the state she had been in and probably as great was her pleasure at the means by which she had been recalled from the grave. As soon as she was sufficiently recovered the lover laid his claim; and the reasons, supported by a powerful inclination on her side, were too strong for her to resist. But as France was no longer a place of safety for them, they agreed to remove to England, where they continued ten years, when a strong inclination of revisiting their native country seized them, which they thought they might safely gratify, and accordingly performed their voyage. They lady was so unfortunate as to be known by her old husband whom she met in a walk and all her endeavors to disguise herself was ineffectual. He laid his claim to her before a court of justice, and the lover defended his right, alleging that the lover had buried her, had forfeited his title, and that he had acquired a just one by freeing her from the grave and delivering her from the jaws of death. These reasons, whatever weight they might have in court where love presided, seemed to have little effect upon the grand jurors of the law, and the lady and her lover not thinking it safe to wait the determination of the court, prudently retired out of the kingdom.
