

Died Suddenly.

Mr. Hugh Owens, one of the oldest citizens of Salem, a merchant in south Salem and much respected, died Wednesday after a short illness. He was a man of kind heart and excellent character, and will be much missed from that locality by many warm friends.

Annual Commencement.

Dr. Lindsley, of Portland, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon for the annual commencement exercises of the Willamette University, on Sunday, June 8th. Hon. Rufus Mallory will deliver the address to the graduating class on Thursday evening, June 12th.

Land Leased.

Mr. J. M. Coulter, the East Portland cooper, has leased one hundred feet square of land adjoining the East Portland depot for a term of ten years. In a few days the building now occupied by him at the ferry landing will be removed to his leased lot and business carried on as of yore only on a much larger scale.

The N. P. R. R.

By dispatches received from New York it is stated that the subscription for bonds and stock for the Missouri division of the Northern Pacific Railroad, limited to two million dollars, has all been taken; also that General J. W. Sprague has been appointed General Superintendent of the business west of the Rocky Mountains.

Road Work Within City Limits.

The city of Salem is at outs with Marion county concerning the right to collect and expend road taxes within the city. Heretofore the city and county have united on the same supervisor and thus have secured harmony, but the county appoints its own supervisor this year, and the city also appoints its own, and the question of law is to be tested.

An Innocent Indian.

The condition of Okh-kho-not, the Indian acquitted of the murder of Brown, is not so forlorn as was first supposed. It appears the three witnesses—two bucks and one squaw—were paid $162 each, and after paying their necessary expenses, will have from $60 to $80 apiece remaining. As the woman Anna was living with him previous to the trouble, and as the two men are friendly toward him, it is not likely he will be left to wait.

New Music.

The popular music dealers, D. W. Prentice & Co., have laid on our table the first number of their Monthly Musical Journal, which contains one dollar's worth of new vocal and instrumental music and choice reading matter. The subscription price is put down at the low price of 75 cents per year, thus furnishing subscribers with $12 worth of new music and musical news during the year for 75 cents, postage paid. We hope that this new enterprise will receive the liberal patronage of all our musical people. Send in your names, together with the subscription price (75c), to D. W. Prentice & Co., publishers, Portland, Oregon.

From Sitka.

The steamer California arrived last night, at 7 o'clock, from Sitka, Alaska. She made the trip in seven days, including anchorage on the way. She encountered during the trip the severest storm her captain ever experienced in the trade, and was compelled to anchor several times. The Indians in the country are very quiet now and will remain so as long as a man of war is in port. The weather is very pleasant; more ice formed in the Columbia river than at or around Sitka during the winter. The California brought a quantity of halibut, hide, household goods and machinery. She will sail about the 29th or 30th.

Naughty Okh-kho-not.

The Alaska Indian recently acquitted of the murder of Brown, who is stopping at the Thompson house with his tillieums, made a raid on the treasury of his kiootchman Anna yesterday, extracting therefrom sufficient wherewith to go on a rip-roaring jamb. In the melee which ensued the whole party dusky participated, including, we understand, some pale faces, and did not terminate till Okh-kho-not was adorned with the most improved style of munsard. He was arrested and fined $5 by Judge Stearns to-day, and sent on his way rejoicing. The question naturally arises, who furnished the whisky?

The Midnight Assassins.

Night before last as a man was going home at about ten o'clock and when near First and Yamhill, was felled to the ground by two heavy blows in the face. He remained in an unconscious condition until past midnight, when he revived and found his way home. His pockets had been rifled and a few paltry dollars taken. The assassins had hid themselves in the dark recesses of the building and probably waited for the first one to pass by. The object was robbery, of course, but at the cost of a human life if necessary to accomplish the purpose. There is too much of this kind of work going on and the only way to drive these robbers and assassins from the city is to have no mercy on them.

John B. Gough is sixty-two, and he is still able to lecture like sixty-two.

Spring Fashions.

Marabout feathers are most used in millinery this spring.

The turban is the fashionable cap for young ladies and young married women.

The panier scarf draperies of Paris-made dresses are stiffened with crinoline.

Fichu collarettes and jabot collarettes give a dressy effect to a plain toilet.

Caps made of silk handkerchiefs, in turban of Normany form, are much worn.

Bandana and gay plaid handkerchiefs are made up into dresses for misses and little girls.

Shades of yellow, from pale straw or corn, to deep tan and old gold, are very fashionable.

The marked feature in new overskirts are the shirred fronts and bouf-front back draperies.

Scarfs of fine net, edged with Breton lace, are as often worn for bonnet-strings as for neckties.

Rhine pebble buttons look like diamonds at night. The price varies from seventy-five cents a dozen up.

French bunting, a fine light wool goods, is the material in use for Spring and Summer half-mourning costumes.

Very large flowers are used in millinery this spring, a single rose in many cases forming the crown of a bonnet.

Damasse bunting is a new material designed to take the place of granadine; it is much stronger and equally as cool for summer.

Bonnet strings are tied in a large loose bow under the chin, not at the side, or they are simply crossed in front, the ends forming a jabot.

Neckties and fichus are made of Breton lace in all shapes. A very pretty fichu is of cream colored crepe lisse, embroidered with a garland of flowers in pale, natural shades.

Fans are now made to correspond with the spring suits. Some are of "Pekin satin" in all shades, trimmed on the upper border with a very narrow galloon embroidered with different flowers.

The panier basque is the foundation of the many rumors about large paniers being again worn. It consists of a long side form, plaited and caught in the back drapery, to form the small panier on the hips.

Slippers are of fleece kid, embroidered at the end of the foot with flowers of every hue, and trimmed with a rosette made of satin loops in all the shades of the embroidery. Black silk hose are worn with these slippers, which are embroidered on the top of the foot and upper part of the leg with many colored flowers.

The Green-Eyed Monster.

Mr. Kroeger was tranquilly eating his breakfast a morning or so ago, when his boy broke the silence by asking him for fifty cents to go to the minstrels with that night. Mr. Kroeger promptly refused on the ground of hard times.

Mr. Kroeger's boy is more than a boy, and when he sets his heart on having anything he generally succeeds in getting it; so, when his father refused to comply with his request, he moved over by his mother, and said:

"I guess I'll tell ma what the cook said to you last night."

Mrs. Kroeger's eyes flashed like two balls of fire.

"You're a nice man," she said, sarcastically, "to come home and pet me, and kiss me, and call me your little dew-gemmed tulip, and then go and receive the caresses of the cook. You miserable, frog-eyed runt, for two pins I'd go over there and rake the eyes out of you!"

"I, ah!" stammered the lord of the manor, when his wife broke in.

"Oh, yes, I'll ah you!" and turning suddenly to the boy, she demanded an explanation of the whole affair.

"Will you give me fifty cents?"

"Yes," she responded, "what did she say to him?"

"Give me the fifty cents first!" said young hopeful. "I'm opening the year on the C. O. D. principle."

He soon had the money and relived his mother by telling her.

"Last night the cook came up to pop, and got pretty close to him and—"

"O, you wretch," hissed Mrs. Kroeger. "And when she got beside him she smiled very sweetly, and said:

The boy moved cautiously toward the door, and his mother yelled:

"Come, out with it!"

"And when the cook got pretty close to him, she whispered:

"Mr. Kroeger the potatoes are getting pretty low, and you had better get another barrel in a day or two."

And then the boy got outside as fast as possible, while his mother sank into a chair. Mr. Kroeger lifted the morning paper before his face to veil the smile which made it look like a calcium light.

—N. Y. Dispatch.

A blacksmith, in Burlington, Vermont, who must have graduated from Boston, has opened "a conservatory of horse-shoeing."

A Virginia colored man was indicted for selling liquor without license. When he saw the jury before whom he was to be tried, about equally divided between white and black, he exclaimed: "For God's sake don't let them niggers try me!" Efforts were made to pacify him, but he insisted that "niggers would hang a man just to see him kick."

State and Territorial.

Willamette Valley.

Wheat is 86 cents a bushel, sacked, and 80 cents unsacked, at Dayton.

The Town Talk says that diphtheria is prevalent on Howell Prairie.

Freight between Portland and Dayton has raised from $1 50 to $2 per ton.

J. L. Collins, of Dallas, is offered the re-employment of that thriving place.

Wednesday morning the express train from Albany reached Salem without a passenger.

Dr. Watta has removed from Lafayette to Oregon City to take charge of the land office.

Sheriff Dickey has collected all but about $10,000 of the county taxes. This is a good showing.

The Courier says Mr. Weiser's children, who were ill of diphtheria at Lafayette, are recovering.

Turner was lately enlivened by a stand up encounter. Too much practical joking and such nonsense.

The wolves are very troublesome to the sheep owners in the hills of Benton county, the Gazette says.

Dr. Herbert McCormack, of Mendocino City, California, was married to Miss Nellie Condon last Thursday morning.

Eugene had a narrow escape from a most disastrous fire last week. It originated in the south end of the brewery.

The Oswego Iron Works commenced operations again on Tuesday after a suspension of several months in repairing.

It is current that $20,000 is to be raised to build a steamboat to run between Dayton, Yamhill county, and Portland.

E. C. Keet, of Perrydale, contemplates taking a trip East at an early day. He will be accompanied by a son and daughter.

The Albany Register tells of a fellow full of whiskey and natural cunningness, who knocked down a Chinaman and belabored him.

The Itemizer says: Dr. A. Sprague, for several months a resident of Dallas, has concluded to locate in Perrydale for the practice of his profession.

Rev. Isaac Belknap, from Nebraska, is visiting among his relatives in the "Belknap neighborhood," Benton county. He likes our valley and intends to send for his family and settle among us.

A temporary race course, two miles from Lafayette on the Salem road, has become the locality for Saturday gatherings and lively races.

Last Saturday there were three races and 600 people attended.

The Fall sowgrass looks very promising in the forks of the Santians, and, if the Spring crops can be counted upon as average, the people of that region will be blessed with an abundant harvest and "easy times" this Fall.

The Salem Statesman says: J. C. Johnson, a nephew of H. A. Johnson, Esq., arrived in Salem on Saturday last, 15 days from Chemung county, New York, says when he left New York they had fine sleighing and he was surprised to find vegetation so far advanced in this country.

A man giving his name as Wm. H. Crawford, was arrested at Cottage Grove on Tuesday of last week by Jerome Knox and E. B. Baber, who is supposed to be the person that robbed the safe at the depot at Eugene a short time since. He was bound over in the sum of $300.

Mr. H. Boen, one of the old settlers of Benton county while at work in his blacksmith shop in Monroe last week, accidentally struck over a piece of iron; being lame, he could not help himself, and in falling, broke one of his thighs the Corvallis Gazette says. He is doing well, and is in a fair way of recovery.

A terrible combat occurred at Independence between Professor Garrigus and his advance agent, Mr. Miller. Mr. Miller drew the first blood from his antagonist's nose, but Garrigus got some claret before the parties mutually agreed to quit. Afterwards Miller tried to go into Garrigus' castle, which was nobly defended by himself and his beautiful daughter Annie. The result was that the foe was gallantly repulsed and he fell over into the arms of the town marshal.

The Democrat also says: Scio has a population of between 400 and 500 (including both sides of the river—"Jerusalem" and "Jerico") and contains 3 stores, 2 saloons, (both about "froze out"), a drug store, a livery stable, millinery store, 2 tinshops, the usual number of blacksmith and shoemaker shops, and two excellent hotels. Scio has 3 churches, a city hall, a commodious school house, a Grange, a Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, a Masonic and Odd Fellows Lodge, a Blue Ribbon Club and a Temperance Society of the Legion of Honor.

From the Democrat we learn that Halsey is situated 13 miles south of Albany, on the O. & C. R. R., in one of the richest agricultural regions of Linn county, and, although only about eight years have elapsed since it was founded, it now contains a population of something near 300, and is one of the neatest and most orderly towns in Oregon.

Its business houses are up to the first order as follows: Three dry goods and general merchandise stores, owned by Messrs. Thompson & Sons, Koontz, Lane & Co. and Pearl, Black, Porter & Co.; 2 drug stores, 2 tin shops, 1 shoeshop and one large planing mill and sash factory. As a proof of Halsey's high moral standing, there is not a saloon within its limits and never has been but one, and it closed by the tragic death of Mr. Hayes and the execution of the proprietor for his murder. There are 5 large grain warehouses with the aggregate storage capacity of about 300,000 bushels, nearly all of which is annually occupied by the products of the thrifty farmers of the surrounding country. The railroad company claims that Halsey is the best shipping point on the line, excepting Albany.

Late freshets have cleaned out tailings that have accumulated for years.

The Sentinel says a vast number of quartz ledges are being discovered in Jackson county.

Foot racing is all the go in Jackson county, and last, but not least, the fat men are going to go it.

Wool of the new clip was coming into Jacksonville. It will not be so large as last year.

A daughter of J. D. Caldwell, of Williams Creek, was thrown from a horse and had a fractured skull. Is doing well.

The Sentinel protests against the removal of the Kamath Indians as contemplated in the bill introduced into the U. S. Senate by William Slater, as inhuman, impolitic and a violation of good faith.

An emigrant pre-empted a piece of land on Applegate on which a school house had been built, and notified the directors to remove it, forbidding them to open school. A number of persons attacked him with knives and clubs and were arrested. No trial reported yet.

East of the Mountains.

A telegraph line will soon be built from Dayton, W. T. to Roseburg.

Palouse people threaten the longevity of horse thieves, of whom they have too many.

The Palouse Gazette denies that there was great suffering there last winter, both with people and animals.

Mr. Rock, of Iowa, is visiting Palouse to report to a large circle of friends at home. He speaks well of his discoveries.

California Joe, in jail at Colville, confirms that the evidence he gave to convict Mr. Vallin of burning Mr. Bruce's hay stacks was a lie.

The Lewiston Teller is informed that a new chief of the Nez Percé Indians has been elected, by the name of Felix, and James Lawyer steps down and out.

George Kline, who was arrested some time ago for shooting at Mr. Reis at Lewiston, was indicted by the grand jury, and, on arraignment, plead guilty to the indictment.

Mr. Offield, who has a land claim on Snake River, near Wa-wa-wa, has had his life threatened by a man named Trimble, but the Justice refused to bind him to keep the peace.

The Owyhee Avalanche tells of the discovery and location of a coal mine 12 miles from there, on Sinken Creek, which has been tested and is believed to be valuable. The vein is 12 feet wide.

Last Thursday morning a mule pack train, 30 or 40 animals passed through Dayton, W. T. going in the direction of Lewiston. Just a few years ago all the commerce of the country was carried on in this manner, and the only persons seen here were miners going to and from the mines.

A Mr. Overeiser and John McKinney were arrested and brought before Judge Warner, at Lewiston, on a charge of shooting at Mr. Whitmore and Mr. Spencer (with intent to kill). The former was examined on Wednesday evening and held to bail in the sum of $300. The latter waived examination.

The Columbia Chronicle says: Major Vedder informs us the wire for the new telegraph line from this place to Lewiston has arrived, and the poles for the line are all cut out, the hauling and delivery of the poles will soon be completed. The Major estimates, if the weather is favorable, the line will be in working order by the first of June.

A Fatal Feud in Wasco County.

On Monday evening, Wm. Wilcox, constable from the neighborhood of Pine Creek, Wasco county, brought to The Dalles Harrison Huntley on a charge of murdering his brother, William, more generally known as "Budd" Huntley. It appears that William, in company with one or two of his sisters, was passing Harrison's place on Friday last, and the girls stopped and went in the house, while William remained out in the front yard. Previous to this, however, there had been trouble between the brothers, and Harrison had hidden in the house to come into the house. Harrison seeing William in the enclosure went out and ordered him to leave; but refusing to do so, he picked up a spade that happened to be lying convenient and approached his brother. As he did so, he says, his brother acted as if he was about to draw a pistol, when he struck him, first on the arm and then on the side of the head. Harrison was arrested for murder, waived examination and then taken to The Dalles to await the action of the grand jury. Harrison says he is very sorry for what he has done, but thinks he was justified in doing as he did. The parents of these boys are very old, and we are told that the mother is about to die from the effects of the result of this sad affair.—Mountaineer.

The Huntley family consists of Joseph Huntley and wife, their two sons Harrison and William, three daughters and the family of Harrison Huntley, the eldest son. They reside in Wasco county on the John Day river.

The Philosophy of Poulitices.

The effect of poulitices is probably different from that of blisters, although ultimately productive of similar relief; for if we again take the simple instance of an inflamed hand in consequence of a thorn having run into it, we find that we can relieve the pain in two ways, either by putting the hand into cold water or by plunging the finger into a warmth poultice. Both of these measures, apparently so dissimilar, will produce a like result in regard to the inflamed point; that is, both will lessen the pressure of blood in the vessels where stasis has already taken place. The cold, applied to the whole of the hand, will cause the arteries leading to the finger to contract, and will thus diminish the supply of blood to the inflamed part, and lessen the pressure in the blocked capillaries. The warm poultice will also lessen the pressure, not by diminishing the flow of blood to the part, but by dilating the vessels around the point of stasis, and affording the blood a ready exit into the veins. In the case of internal organs, the blister applied to the skin probably acts like the cold water applied to the finger, while the warm poultice placed upon the surface of the thorax or abdomen affects the deeper-lying organs in the same way as it does the superficial ones, the warmth penetrating through the thin thoracic or abdominal parietes. On this account, when we wish to relieve pain in the chest or belly, we ought to make our poultices in a particular way. The common practice of mixing the linseed-meal with hot water, and applying it directly to the skin, is quite wrong, because if we do not wish to burn the patient, we must wait until a great portion of the heat has been lost. The proper method is to take a flannel bag the size of the poultice required, to fill this with the linseed poultice as hot as it can possibly be made, and to put between this and the skin a second piece of flannel, so that there shall be at least two thicknesses of flannel between the skin and the poultice itself. Above the poultice should be placed more flannel or a piece of cotton-wool to prevent it from getting cold. By this method we are able to apply the linseed boiling hot without burning the patient, and the heat gradually diffusing through the flannel affords a grateful sense of relief which cannot be obtained by any other means. There are few ways in which such a marked relief is given to abdominal pain as by the application of a poultice in this manner.—Popular Science Monthly.

Lady Jane—"Your great ancestor! You come from a French stock, then?" Parvenu—"Well, yer ladyship, you may say that; he came over with the Conqueror." Lady Jane—"What, in the costume of Louis Quatorze?" Parvenu—"Eh! Well, no. Fact is—our people was always so perticular about being in the fashion, that they had him painted fresh every time a new 'em come up."—Punch.

Valuable Land for Sale.

Mr. Clarke, of the FARMER, having removed from Marion County, offers to sell 640 acres of land situated at a point where the Minto Pass Road leaves the valley, in the midst of a thickly-settled and very healthy region, most of the land being under fence, and at least half of it can be made good wheat land at a cost of four or five dollars an acre for clearing. It is well wooded and watered, and is a region unexcelled for health. The improvements are of value to a new settler. Price $5.00 an acre. $2.00 an acre can be left on annual payments for a term of years at low interest. This is one of the best land tracts to be made in the State. It is a favorite region for Germans, and several German families could divide it among them. It would make an excellent ranch for sheep and Angora goats, with which it is now stocked.
