Grange Department.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in his allwise providence to remove from our midst by death our worthy brother, Charles W. Froman;

And whereas, we as members of West Union Grange, No. 72, P. of H., while desiring to submit humbly to God's will in this trying and mournful dispensation, feel very deeply the loss of one who by his amiable disposition, upright conduct and agreeable manners had greatly endeared himself to all of us; therefore,

Resolved, That we offer our tenderest sympathy to the parents and relatives of the deceased in this their sad bereavement and try to assure them that the memory of his virtues which so highly commended him to us will long be cherished and remembered in our midst.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to ingress these resolutions on the minutes of the Grange and also send a copy of the same to the parents of the deceased, also a copy to the WILLAMETTE FARMER, Hillsboro Independent and Oregonian for publication.

THE BEST GRAIN FOR MILLING.

The Convention of millers of the United States was lately in session, and its proceedings were very interesting; we publish below what they concluded relative to the best varieties of wheat raised here for milling purposes:

Mr. Hilbard, Vice President of the English delegation of millers in attendance, in an address, complimented the grain-growers of the United States, and paid a high tribute to American winter wheat. He said:

Your winter wheats we value very highly in our country, and we find they make a very large percentage of flour of splendid quality. I do not think that we are importing any other wheats from any other part of the world so good.

There was a committee appointed to report on the "best grain for milling purposes," and as that report discusses quite fully, and from the millers' standpoint, the relative merits of a large range of kinds of wheat, and the effects or changes produced on the varieties by different soils and climates, questions very important to every grain farmer, we give the report in full:

Your committee to whom was referred the subject of "Grain for Milling" have had the matter under consideration, and, after getting together all the information possible in the brief time we have had the subject before us, respectfully submit the following report:

In the first place, we have met with much difficulty in determining which is the best wheat for milling in the United States, on account of the vast extent of wheat-growing districts, extending through twenty-three degrees of latitude and fifty-seven degrees of longitude, having a length of 2,800 miles and a breadth of 1,700, covering an area of 3,250,000 square miles, embracing all the States in the Union but three, and the entire Territories, with every variety of soil and climate.

We find the same varieties of wheat grown in different States, while possessing the same general properties, differing materially in value for milling.

The Fife wheat of Northern Minnesota and Dakota is far superior to the same variety grown in Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois.

The Boughton or Tappahannock wheat of Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia is much more rich in gluten than the same kind grown in Indiana, Ohio or Illinois.

We also find a great diversity of opinion as to the merits of particular kinds of wheat grown in same localities, making it a difficult matter for your committee to determine which are really the most desirable varieties for milling purposes.

We are of the opinion that a general discussion at this meeting of the Association, where all the large wheat districts are fully represented, will do more to settle which are the most desirable wheats to use than any report your committee would be able to make. From the information before your committee, mostly obtained by correspondence, we find the following varieties among the best for milling purposes:

Winter wheat—Longberry amber, Lancaster, Indiana red, Alabama, orange, velvet chaff, Boughton or Tappahannock, Jennings.

Spring wheat—Minnesota Fife, China, Mammoth or Rio Grande.

The Longberry amber is extensively grown in Indiana, which, with the Lancaster, is most sought by millers, being rich in gluten and possessing properties very desirable for shipping to warm climates.

The Indian red is spoken highly of as a fine glutinous wheat; also, the Alabama, the latter but little raised, owing to its light yield per acre.

STATE NEWS.

Hay is now selling at Jacksonville at $8 per ton, delivered.

Wheat in some portions of Marion county is beginning to head.

Cayuse horses are now selling at The Dalles for $5 to $20 apiece.

The county officers elect of Benton county, will qualify next week.

Wool is selling at from 18 to 20 cents in Jacksonville. The clip in that region is large.

On last Friday more wool was shipped from The Dalles than was ever known before in one day.

The road from Crescent City to Jacksonville is now passable, and Smith's river is fordable.

Timber yard at The Dalles has sold 300,000 feet of lumber the past year, all for building purposes.

Thos. Keaton and others will soon windam Rouge river below Fisher's ferry, with the intention of mining on the bar.

The grain prospect in Linn county is splendid, and if nothing happens the crop will cancel many a mortgage.

Maynard, a soldier stationed at Camp Chanlan, was drowned in the lake; he was rafting logs, got frightened and jumped off.

A young man named Ferguson, at Monroe, Benton county, was thrown from his horse last Thursday, fracturing his skull.

A little eight-year-old son of Henry Gerber fell from the porch of the house and broke his right arm, at Corvallis, last Saturday.

The twenty-eighth annual session of the M. E. Conference will be held in Eugene City, commencing August 19th. Bishop Wiley, of Cincinnati, will preside.

The Dalles wool market is still dull, with very little apparent change of improving. Parties here are paying from 15 to 19 cents per pound, according to quality.

Mr. McCoy, of The Dalles, shepherd for G. F. Wells, of Portland, finished shearing the other day. He came out with the modest amount of 40,000 pounds of wool.

We understand the Agricultural Society of Linn county has resolved upon holding a county fair here in the Fall. This is a good move which we hope will be carried out.

Mit-nv Arnsperger, living east of Harrisburg, met with a very serious accident last Monday while running his horse about stock. The horse fell throwing him off and falling on him.

Last Monday Sheriff Dickey conveyed an insane man named Curtis P. Patterson to the asylum. The unfortunate hails from Benton county. His father is at present an inmate of the institution.

Mr. G. W. Woodson, of Amity, recently had brought from California a lot of young catfish, which he turned loose in Salt creek. He also intends bringing another supply with which to stock the Yamhill river.

Last Sunday an accident occurred on the Abiqui. Mr. Mike Cooley and William Cline engaged in a friendly trial of strength at the latter's house, and in the scuffle that ensued Cooley received a broken leg.

Two bicycles in Hillsboro. Luelling has taken out a policy for accidents, and Hanley will write out his obituary notice for our next issue. Several surgeons are watching the evolutions with great interest.—Independent.

Mr. Rasmussen, who lives five miles from Hillsboro, while chopping brush on Tuesday, made a miss lick and cut his knee over the blow. The knee cap sustained the force of the blow, and thus prevented the serious accident of laying open the joint.

Mr. Ann Smith, who lives in Glencoe, met with a serious accident on Monday last. She was riding on horseback to a neighbor's house, when her horse becoming frightened ran off and threw the old lady violently to the ground. Her head and one arm were badly bruised and her right leg was fractured just above the ankle.

A silver ledge is reported to have been discovered within thirty miles of Seattle. Its location is secret.

Several persons in Lake county have been doing a good business by picking the wool from defunct sheep.

Quite a number of new buildings are in course of construction at Roseburg, and a great many others are in contemplation.

A vast amount of wool has been brought to Roseburg during the week, and we understand that 25¢ cents was the price paid.

The Eagle Point people are vexed because the annual delegation of salmon from the ocean has not paid them a visit this summer.

A large delegation of red men, with their families, from Klamath reservation, were in Ashland on a trading expedition, last week.

A fine three-year-old Percheron horse (by Gen. Fleury) belonging to Asher Marks of Roseburg, was taken out to Goose Lake valley last week.

Mr. Geo. Wells, several years ago a resident of Roseburg, got in a drunken row at Benton, Coos county, a few days ago and received a severe cut in his shoulder.

Mr. Joseph Holman, an old pioneer of Oregon died in Salem, June 25th. He was well known all over the State as a good citizen and enterprising man. He leaves many friends.

W. Beeson has completed the census enumeration in Table Rock, Manzanita, Willow Springs and Rock Point, and has registered nearly 1,700 persons, including 42 Chinamen.

Campbell's camp of Chinese, who have been engaged in cutting brush on the line of the narrow gauge, between Brush creek and Pudding river, have all been ordered to the river at Kay's ferry.

There is in Roseburg, a pear tree that is loaded with nearly grown, well developed pears and also the second crop in bloom. This tree furnished two crops last year and promises to do so well this.

Quinton's surveying party passed through town on Tuesday en route to the Waldo Hills. The party will run south to meet Eastwick's party, who are in the vicinity of Brownsville working northward.

Mrs. S. E. Price, who, with Mrs. Meeker and daughter, was held captive by the Ute Indians, after the massacre at White River agency, arrived in Ashland last week, having come with her two little children to live with her father, Archibald Parker.

The camp meeting at Wilbur closed Monday last, after a couple of week's duration. It was very interesting and profitable to the participants, and they all appear well pleased, considering it a success.

Mr. George Harris, of Yamhill, a few days since met with quite a remarkable adventure with a rattlesnake. The venomous reptile left marks of his fangs upon Mr. Harris' boot legs, but the boots were too heavy for it, and it was crushed.

Nelson Stewart, a young man who was employed by Mr. James Burnett of Round Prairie, on a barn which he was building, fell backwards off the scaffold, striking on his hands, which he had thrown out to break the fall, breaking the bones of one wrist and dislocating the other.

TERRITORIAL.

Sheriff Steen of Dayton, W. T., has a two-year colt, sired by Wisconsin Boy, 16½ hands high, weighing 1,200 pounds.

The Postmaster-General wishes the people of Palouse City to indicate the man they want for Postmaster—which is the proper thing to do.

The Watchman says: Levi Stubblefield broke his leg below the knee by being run over by a load of wood while coming down the mountain.

Colfax has a lake in its midst, and in dry weather it dries up a good deal and turns green and isn't healthy, and the Gazette wants to have it drained.

Wm. W. Root left Humboldt county, Cal., last Fall for Palouse, and was to return and bring his parents, who do not hear from him and suffer great anxiety.

Cyrus Davis shows at Walla Walla sample of wheat 6 feet high and good in proportion, raised three miles below town on land that a few years ago was a mat of weeds and sage brush.

The Walla Walla Union says: From all directions comes the report, "the crops look better than they did a year ago now." There is every indication of the coming of a very bounteous harvest.

A young Indian was sent by Baxter from Quillibute to Hoelle about twelve days ago with $200. Since that time neither Indian nor money have been heard of, and the impression seems to be that the boy was murdered and robbed.

The final survey of the O. R. & N. Co. into Colfax, the Gazette says, was made last week by Mr. Kennedy's party. The grade coming down to the Palouse is 120 feet to the mile. Mr. Kennedy says this grade is a practical one and much lighter than several on the road between Celilo and Wallula.

The Union says: The workmen are busy putting up the railroad bridge across the Walla Walla river this side of Wallula. Fears are entertained that portions of the grade between Wallula and Celilo have been put too low high water mark. Mr. Zahner is getting ready to examine the Blue mountains for a railroad pass. The grade between Wallula and Umatilla is completed. Track laying is progressing slowly on the N. P. R. R.

The Grant county News says of John Darby and J. G. Beauchamp: the former goes to the Penitentiary for life and the latter for ten years. Their actions while departing was quite noticeable. While Beauchamp was crying and seemingly realized the crime he had committed, Darby was cursing and calling some of the citizens very hard names and seemed to be but little exercised in regard to the beastly and double crime he had committed in this place a few months past.

A FEW WORDS ON GRAPES.

Editor Willamette Farmer:

I have seen nothing in the FARMER for a long time on grapes. Certainly no fruit is more worthy, and so far as my experience has extended, now a quarter of a century, there is not on earth, save the strawberry, a more delicious, rich and faithful fruit; nay, more, I will say the grape has more ornamental and useful qualities than any other fruit.

On a porch, on an arbor, on a trellis, by the barn, by the house, gracefully winding over trees, peeping down our windows, we admire it waving its large deep green leaves, its grateful shade, its helpless and clinging nature. We may say, as of a woman—

"Love, like the vine, accustomed to cling,
 Will lean on the nearest and loveliest thing."

Then see the rich and blushing bunches nestling beneath the glowing foliage! Ah! and are these all? See, up there! What magnificent berries! And such a delicate, blue bloom! How delicious! "Here is meat and drink! and so healthful too. How exquisitely palatable—who would not grow grapes then? grapes after repeat, grapes of long winter evenings, grapes for pies, grapes for canning, and grapes for raisins. Are these not enough to make one fall in love with grapes? But—I tremble to think of grapes for—wine! Shame, that so noble a fruit should be violated and perverted to so infernal a use.

The Willamette valley is not a good grape country; the seasons are too short, too damp and too cool. The grape loves a country with long seasons of warm sunshine. March, April, and often May, are too damp and cold for the successful growing of grapes. October, too, is often rainy, cold and frosty. It is true, the earlier and harder kinds do grow, but the climatic conditions are not favorable. A few can, with care, be grown, and a few are all we need.

The Delaware, Diana, Concord, Isabella, Brighton, Lady, and especially the Eumelan, can be grown. These are American grapes, early and hardy. The foreign grape is successfully grown, requiring care however. The Chasselas, Rose, Miller's Burgundy, Black July, Royal, Muscadine, Black Chester, Black Hamburg and a few others succeed.

Ruptured Colts.

PORTLAND, Or., June 30, 1880.

Editor Willamette Farmer:

Mr. J. B. Lister in his letter to the FARMER does not state what kind of a rupture his colt has. Colts are subject to ventral inguinal and umbilical ruptures, the latter occurs frequently; his colt is probably affected with an umbilical rupture, i. e., naval. Treatment is often times unnecessary as the sac becomes effaced with the growth of the colt; if the rupture is pretty large first put back the protrusion carefully, then tie a strong waxed silk thread around the sac very tight, as close up as possible and let it remain until the sac drops off.

Mr. Simpkins often declares that he never drinks anything stronger than claret. Last night he came home at midnight, and putting his lips to his wife's ear, he whispered mysteriously: "Hush, my dear, don't be alarmed, but there are burglars about. They have already stolen our keyhole; I had to get in by the cellar window!"
