COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, Oct. 28, 1880. The only response made by those who are trying to keep down the wheat market to the position taken by the WILLAMETTE FARMER last week that tonnage will be abundant...

The wheat coming to this city now is much less in quantity than at the same time in 1879, when the arrivals were double the quantity now received...

The bear movement is extensive there and here, and the newspapers don't seem to oppose it seriously; in most instances they seem to be in with the bears.

Tuesday there came news of a healthy advance in all directions, based on the improvement of the Liverpool market. The more the world knows of the wheat crop of 1880 and its probable surplus for export, the firmer the market seems to be.

At the close we have to record that cablegram dated Liverpool, Thursday evening, shows a better feeling and firmer market. Freighters are offering at Portland for 72s 6d to U. K., which is a drop of a trifle within a week.

Green apples are coming in very abundantly and prices drop a little to correspond. Good eating fruit can be readily sold, but not as well as a week or two ago; 75 cents is considered a fair price now.

Large Ferry Boat.

The O. R. & N. Co. will commence this week at Celilo the construction of a ferry-boat, to be used between Ainsworth and the opposite shore. It is to be large enough to carry 15 cars on a triple row of tracks...

During the Fair.

A constant throng of people congregated around the tastily arranged and excellent exhibit of Frank Abell's photograph gallery. The gems of photography consisted of likenesses from the little card to life size. It is only necessary to say that it was the finest collection there and would hold its own alongside any similar display on this coast.

The Ashland Tidings says: Several farmers in this part of Jackson county have raised corn to a considerable extent this year, some of them trying it for the first time, and from all the reports it is that the crop exceeded their anticipations both in quantity and quality.

Gold Specimens from the Swank Mines.

The Dalles Times says: We were shown some beautiful specimen of gold yesterday by Mr. J. A. Shoudy, merchant of Ellensburg, W. T., taken from the Swank and Pechastin mines, on a tributary of the Wenatchee. They consist of a handful of large 'chunks' of the native ore, weighing from $10 to $20 each.

New Bishop for Washington Territory.

Sorghum Syrup.

We are indebted to Messrs. Wrisley & Walker for a can of sorghum syrup of their manufacture. They have had their mill in operation nearly three weeks, and are turning out about seventy-five gallons a day. The syrup is very good, indeed, for the first product of their enterprise.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

Masters, of Sumner, says the Marshfield News, was killed by a tree falling on him last Sunday. I appears that several children were standing near the tree at the time, and on seeing it move ran away, but the little fellow who was killed, stumbled and fell to the ground, and before he could get up, away the tree fell, crushing him to a jelly.
