Horrible Slaughter.

PANAMA, Aug. 31.—In a fight at Matagalpa between about 5,000 Indians on one side and a detachment of troops and some 150 citizens on the other, the Indians lost 500 in killed and wounded. The other party had 28 killed and a number wounded. Precious to this fight the Indians attacked Equiplas, killed the captain in command and commissary, and a young telegraph operator named Vega, who was stricken down while repairing a break in the government telegraph line. The slaughter of various individuals followed, some of these Indians who had refused to join the rebellion, and horrible outrages were inflicted upon others.

PACIFIC COAST.

From the Indian Country.

PHOENIX, Sept. 8.—There is much excitement here and at Globe. Two men have been killed and one wounded by the Apaches near Reno. The settlers gathered at Green Valley, Reno, Wild Eye and McDowell. The militia is organizing everywhere. The militia is calling for arms. The acting governor telegraphed to the secretary of war for arms and ammunition at once. Civil and military authorities are in full accord. Chiefs of the Pima and Maricopa tribes near Phoenix offer to provision themselves and lead their bucks against the Apaches. They have always been friendly to the whites and have hated the Apaches. The military is moving everywhere. A great meeting will be held to-night to organize the militia. One company of cavalry is now hurrying to Globe. A courier from McDowell reports all quiet at Apache and Thomas. The Indians are peaceably scattering in small bands. Settlers can't wait for authority and will kill them on sight.

Murderous Assault.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—This afternoon Philip O'Neil, a member of the fire brigade, entered a saloon at No. 202 McAllister street, and soon became involved in a quarrel over shaking dice for the drinks with the bartender, David Beal's. O'Neil left the saloon, but returned in a few minutes and, drawing a pistol, shot Beal in the back, inflicting a dangerous wound. O'Neil was arrested by a citizen and locked up. Beal was taken to the city receiving hospital.

Arming for Indian Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—A dispatch from Tucson, Arizona, says that Gen. Whittier telegraphed to the acting governor, J. D. Cooper, that he is secretly arming the militia with arms and ammunition on the ground that there are few if any soldiers at posts. He wants to know the number the governor desires to purchase, as only to organize a company can arms be drawn without a license. The governor is now in telegraphic communication with the number of arms that can be had, the price and from what points they can be furnished.

The San Francisco Election.

Complete returns of the city election show that the Democratic candidates have been elected for Surveyor and Supervisors in the Third and Sixth Wards. With these exceptions the Republican candidates have made a clean sweep. Sergeant Sturges has the highest majority—three thousand, four hundred and five. Backus for Mayor, has a majority of two thousand and ninety-two, and the majority returns of the other candidates. It is reported that the official count will change the figures in detail, but it is not likely to affect the result.

RIGHT OF WAY WANTED.

The O. R. & N. Co. have petitioned the board of trustees of East Portland for the right of way for their railroad through the city. The proposed route is through "Sullivan's Gulch," and crossing the street running north and south from E. Seventh street to Water street, including, and also crosses the full-width streets running east and west, to wit: Holladay's avenue, Pacific, Oregon, Willamette, Salmon, A, B, C and D streets, and runs eastward through Second street, where the same enters D street, and runs from said Second street westerly to the Willamette river, through Jefferson, Adams or Washington street, as may hereafter be determined.

ACCIDENT.

Day before yesterday, at 11:30 a. m., a terrible slide occurred on the line of the O. R. & N. Co.'s road, hundreds of tons of rock being precipitated from a bluff near Tunnel No. 5, ten miles below the Dalles, in drift No. 1, killing one man named Gardner, aged twenty-three, a native of Illinois, and injuring several others, among them a Chinaman, who had his arm broken. He was brought to this city yesterday evening for treatment. Owing to the recent accident and dangers incurred in working said tunnel, the men employed, over 1,000 in number, have ceased work, and the boats have brought many of the hands to this place.

"What Am De Comert?"

Address of Mrs. Johnson before the Lime Kiln Club: "What am de comert? Who is she? Which is it? What am she heah for? How many of you kin answer these questions? My friends, de study of astronomy am full of interest an' pleasure. But fur astronomy how could we hev known dat de moon am peopled by a race of one-eyed giants, an' dat de distance to de sun am so great dat if we was to sot out an' trable on a hoss kyar it would take us fo' weeks to git dar? Astronomy teaches us dat de atmosphere in de planet Jupiter am so clear and transparent dat you can see a hoss fly six miles away. In de planet Mars de air am so cool dat a dead dog kin be left in front of a first class hotel for nine weeks. In the Venus it am allus good weather for goin' a fishin', an' de air am so bracin' dat the women allus split deir own wood. De planet Saturn furnishes its inhabitants strawberries an' cream de hull yar round, and the very best kind of lager beer kin be had fur sixty-eight cents a keg. Way back in de dark ages nobody knew wheder de sun was ten miles or ten millyon miles off. De sight of a 'clipse skored children into fits an' made strong men crawl under de bed for safety. De stars war supposed to be pieces of tin nailed to de midnight air, an' men would no mo' believe dat the airth turned round dan you now believe dat de day will soon come when men will go sailin' free de air at de rate of two miles a minute. But I doan' wish to take up de valuable time of dis meetin', an' I will close by deprecin' dat all occasions seem supplementary to de general debility of de furling. Dar am no mo' reason why all of you shouldn't agitate generosity of de sincerity dan dar am fur de elocution to operate disastrously against de terribleness of de octavo." It has been long weeks since Paradise Hall was favored with such a tremendous oratorical fleet.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A Buffalo girl never has her wedding dress made in that city, for fear that somebody will say that she was married in a Buffalo robe.

"What a beautiful thing, my dear, is a rosy cheek!" "Yes, husband, but how great the contrast when the blush settles on the nose."

Somebody says that a fashionable Boston banquet consists of two beans stuck on a hair-pin, readings by Emerson and talks by Alcott.

Dr. Patterson, of Scotland, has discovered that frogs and toads will fight. Well, let 'em fight. We'd rather see them fight than hear them sing.

"Health is wealth," says a patent medicine advertiser. You are wrong, respected sir. If health were more universal, to you it would be bankruptcy.

The young lady who, when at home, is too warm to exert herself to use a fan, will now dance for three hours at a hop, and then declare it to be "just splendid."

About a million copies of Webster's spelling book continue to be sold annually, but no one would suspect it who reads the manuscript sent to a newspaper office.

This is truly alarming. A fashion exchange says: "Tan-colored gloves are worn as full dress for morning receptions and the opera." Brethren, we shall withdraw from society at once, and take to the woods.

A young New York doctor has written a treatise proving that seakain seaques are the best protectors for lungs ever known. Somehow the women have suddenly taken the notion that this young man is the ablest physician in the city.

How pleased some smokers of cigarettes will be on learning that the succulent cigar stump, discarded and trampled in the mud of the street, may reappear neatly rolled in cigarette paper, and packed in a handsomely-labeled bundle.

A professor, lecturing on the effect of the winds in some western parts, remarked: "In traveling along the road, I even sometimes found the logs bound and twisted together to such an extent that a mule couldn't climb over them, so I went around."

An exchange says a cup of water in the oven while baking will prevent bread and cakes from burning. Thanks for the information. And a ten-year old boy, loose in the cellar, will prevent apples from spoiling. About one boy to four barrels of apples, doctor.

At some of the hotels at Long Branch they charge you extra if you sit at your window and listen to the music of a hand playing at another hotel a mile away. But then at some other hotels at the same resort they charge extra for the window, whether there is any band around it or not.

Just before visiting the menagerie Johnny had a passage at arms with the young aunt who had assisted at his toilet, and with whom he flew into a rage. Arriving at the menagerie, Johnny was immediately arrested by a strange foreign animal, with a long, little body. "What animal is that, mamma?" he asked. "It is called an ant-eater, my son."

After a long silence: "Mamma, can't we bring Aunt Mary here some day?"

"A first class telegraph clerk in England," under the present system may, with good luck and good conduct combined, after eighteen years service, raise himself to a pecuniary pinnacle whereby he would be entitled to a salary of $500 per year." Young man, if you don't like this country; if it isn't br ad enough for you; if it is too new and raw and rude; if it lacks of culture and old world refinement staves your intellectual being, as it were, emigrate. Go to England and grow up with the telegraph service. There's a chance for you.

A new song is entitled "How they Parted." We have not read it, but no doubt they parted in the usual way—about two o'clock in the morning, after kissing each other "good night" at least nine-seven times. "Well, I guess I must go," he says, with a sigh, about two hours before he does go. Then, after another half hour's conversation about one thing and another, he presses her hand with much pressiveness, says he really must go, and—lovingly lingers another half hour. Then he says he didn't know it was so late, picks up his hat and moves toward the door, where he puts his arm around her to prevent her from falling into a swoon, and—kisses her five minutes in one inning, and—still lingers. Then he gives her one more kiss just for luck, and reluctantly steps down and out into the black, lonesome night, and—calls around the next night. That is how they parted years ago, if we have not been misinformed.

The Mule Vindicated.

Mr. Adolf Sutor, in his lecture before the Bullion Club, says the following kind words of mules: "We have been using mules for years, and have found out that they are tolerably good animals; but there is a prejudice against mules, though they are very intelligent. I think that I could write a chapter on their traits, as I have had very extensive experience with them. It has been said that they have a strong propensity for kicking; I have never seen them kick when in the tunnel. They become very tame when underground; in fact, they become the miners' pets. The men become quite attached to them; and as the shift mules pass along by the men at lunch, they will often receive from one a piece of pie and from another a cup of coffee, etc. When a signal is given to fire a blast the mules understand the signal, and will try to get out of the way of it just as the men do. Of course, under ground it is very dark, and the mules become so accustomed to the darkness that even when they go out into the sunlight they cannot see very well, and when they go back from the sunlight into the mine they cannot see at all. So we are in the habit of covering one eye, with a piece of cloth whenever they go out, and keep the covering over the eye when they go into the tunnel again; we then remove the cloth, so they have one good eye to see with. We had to adopt this plan for preserving their sight, because the mule is so stubborn that he will not pull unless he can see his way ahead. We have found out another thing about mules. We tried horses at first, but we found that whenever anything touched the ears of a horse he would throw up his head and break his skull against the overhanging rock; but if you touch a mule's ears he drops his head. For that reason we could not use horses. We employed mules, and they have answered very well."

Large Steam Engines.

Monster steam engines seem to be one of the features of the day. The Centennial engine, in Mechanics Hall, Philadelphia, was considered a monster in size and power. It is rated at 500 horse power. They are now putting up a 2,000-horse power engine for the Providence water works. These are very large for stationary engines. But engines of much larger power have long been in use in ocean steamers. There are now several trans-Atlantic steamers which develop from 4,000 to 5,000-horse power; but the Mail Cunard steamer service will develop 10,000-horse power.

"PORTER," said the gentleman from New York, as he stepped from his birth, "take this quarter and call me at Lyons, sure." "All right, sah." Late next morning he calls him: "Only twenty minutes from Buffalo, sah." The passenger makes a chapter of remarks in blanks and dashes, winding up with, "Why in fury didn't you call me at Lyons?" New porter ecstatically, "Lions! Fore goodness, dat's it! You did say lions, for suah, boss, and I done thought ober de whole circus, and I hope to die if I could ketch onto any animal higher dan buffalo! I'll remember de cage next time, boss." The passenger from New York is not appeased, but all the other passengers are most mightily. [Burlington Hawkeye.]

OBSERVATIONS OF REV. GABE TUCKER.

You may notch it on the pain's as a mighty risky plan.

To make your judgment by the clo'es dat kives up a man.

For I hardly needs to tell you how you often come across.

A fifty-dollar saddle on a twenty-dollar hoss.

An' wakin' in de low groun's, you diskliver as you go.

Dat de fines' sheek may hide de meenas' nubbin in a row!

I think a man has got a mighty slender chance for Heben.

Dat holds on to his piety but one day out of seven;

Dat talks about de sinners wid a heap a solemn chat.

An' nobber drops a nickel in de missionary hat;

Dat's foremost in de meetin'-house for raisin' all de charges.

But lays aside his F'gion wid his Sunday pantalons!

I nebber judge o' people dat I meet long de way.

By de places whar dey come from an' de house whar dey stay;

For de bantam chicken's awful fond o' roostin' in pretty high.

An' de turkey-huzzard sails above de eagle in de sky;

Dey ketches little minners in de middle ob de sea,

An' you finds de smalles' 'p' saums up de bigges' kind o' tree!
