FRIDAY, MAR. 5, 1897.

Some men become acquainted with hard facts through the school of bitter experience.

Instead of hanging Burchard, the convicted Salem rape fiend, they are going to give him another trial. The more foul the crime, the slower is justice nowadays.

In Colorado, a female school superintendent has refused to grant a teacher's license to a male principal because he smoked; and he didn't smoke cigarettes, either.

The advertiser may not personally like a certain paper, but if it reaches the class who buy his wares, it is more than quixotic not to use it. Personal prejudice does not enter into intelligent advertising.

If the wind exhausted at this session of our legislature in the jangle over speaker of the house, had been utilized on wind mills it would have raised enough water to have run all the placer mines in Southern Oregon all summer.

A Spokane, Washington, detective has come to the front, and in an interview with a reporter on a local paper gives a column of advice on how the Roseburg train robbers could be captured. As he has great faith in his scheme, it's a wonder he doesn't make use of it himself.

It is said that arrangements are being made to permit women to see the fight at Carson. If this is done it will convert the affair into a sort of social event, which may require the treatment usually accorded to such functions, namely, lists of those present and descriptions of their dress, etc.

The old canal which was constructed many years ago, between the city of Tampico and Tuxpam, Mexico, at great expense, is to be cleared and dredged and opened for traffic. An American company has a concession for operating the enterprise. The canal passes through a country rich in dye woods and native tropical products, which will be taken in boats to Tampico and exported to the United States and Europe.

There's only one kind of printing that we don't do. That's the poor kind. That's the kind you don't want. But when you do want something that is neat, clean and right up-to-date, printed on good paper, with fine ink, from type that is new, and of latest face, set in an artistic and intelligent manner—in short, when you want a strictly first-class job, give us a call, or make your wants known by mail. NEWS PRINTING CO., Gold Hill, Or.

A good family regulator. The GOLD HILL NEWS. Regular dose once a week.

The American people have a lot of patience, but Spain must be made to understand that the supply is not inexhaustible.

The only point upon which all people seem to agree in reference to the Cuban question is that every one of them would do something entirely different if he were president of the United States.—Chicago Record.

Sargeants-at-arms are out arresting members of the house. Unfortunately, they cannot arrest those who ought to be arrested and locked up, to-wit, the "claimant" and his cohort of the lobby. These are the men who have produced all the mischief.—Oregonian.

The Globe Advertising Agency of St. Louis, Mo., is again in the field asking rates from publishers for a series of readers. For the benefit of the fraternity we desire to caution them against dealing with the company named on anything but a cash in advance basis. Accept no promises.

The business of the country during the week just closed compared with the corresponding week of 1896 showed a falling off of 13.4 per cent, if the story of the clearings of the principal banks can be relied upon as an accurate diagnosis of the situation. The new Congress can meet none too soon if the country is dependent upon a revision of the tariff laws for a return of prosperity.

A game of foot-ball was recently played in the City of Mexico, and the natives condemned the brutality of the sport. This is now the national American game, and yet we claim to be the most civilized race of people on the globe. Mexicans draw the line at bull-fights, but we can go them one better—yes, we can go them two better—foot-ball and prize-fighting.

Gallant Dan Stuart, after giving the momentous subject much careful consideration, has decided to admit "ladies" to the great slug-ging match at Carson on St. Patrick's day. He only stipulates that the gentle creatures come to the entertainment under proper escort, and guarantees every facility for their comfort and enjoyment. The "new women" will, of course, appreciate the consideration thus shown her, and to the extent that she abounds in that vicinity will avail herself of the precious privilege.

"If you must drink," I overheard a Portland man say to a friend the other day, "why don't you buy a gallon of whisky outright, take it home and make your wife the bar-keeper?"

"But I don't see the sense of that," replied the friend.

"Simple enough," continued his advisor, "say, a gallon of whisky costs you about $3.00. It contains something like sixty-five 15-cent drinks. Now, whenever you want a drink, give your wife the 15 cents and when the whisky is gone, she will have $6.75 left over after paying for the gallon. By following this rule, you can drink all the whisky you want and still make a big profit—if not for yourself, at least for your wife."

This advice, no doubt, is excellent, but if all the whisky-drinkers followed it, I've been wondering where the retail liquor dealers would get off at. The idea, however, may become popular in the state of Washington should they enforce the prohibition law there.—Portland Chronicle.

Wants to Hide His Head.

Geo. Brownell, the Clackamas county statesman; Mitchell's grand mogul of carpet-bag "pap suckers" from the sun-kissed prairies of Kansas, says "I want to adjourn. I want to go home. I want to hide my head in a haystack where the people of the state can't see me and say I was a member of this legislature." There is no mention in the biennial reports of the state officials to the effect that this great legal light was invited to change his residence from Kansas to Oregon. It is believed that important reasons of his own necessitated the change. As for hiding his head, he probably has reference to the label of the ostrich, and his head is all that he wants to hide. The world is wide, very wide, and there's plenty of "dark places" if he is sincere in his wish to become obsolete.—Portland Chronicle.

Competitor.

Competitor, now referring to one who strives with another to attain the same object, originally meant just the opposite, and was used to describe one who assisted in carry-out a joint intention. Thus Shakespeare, in "Anthony and Cleopatra" says: "That thou, my brother, my competitor In top of all design, my mate in empire, Friend and companion in the front of war."

Reasons for Bargains.

Nobody sells dollar things for 75 cents for the fun of it. Such sales exist from necessity, and are always with a definite and honest reason, and that reason must be a part of the advertisement.—Fowler.

A Confession.

I kiss our cook whenever I please, And yet my wife does not object, But smiles and blushes—actions that You'd hardly look for or expect. The reason plain is not so strange; We live in one small three-room'd flat And she's the cook—which goes to show Why these kisses cause no spat.

The Sultan Journal says that it is reliably reported that when Senator Pepper, of Kansas, entered the United States senate he was without means, and that now he needs never fear the approach of the wolf to his door. Will some of our carping reformers rise and explain how a populist can enter the senate poor and after spending one term there retire with a competency?

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give $100.00 for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
