Where Four States Meet.

It is queer to think of the possibility of being in four states at once, yet there is one spot in the United States—the only place in the world—where it is possible. Look on your map of this country, says the St. Louis Republic, and you will find an intersection between four straight lines, where Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona meet. The place is not often visited, as it is not easily reached. The stone erected there by the government surveyors is on top of a spur in the Carriac mountains. The nearest railroad town is Mancos, Colo., nearly 100 miles from the "four corners."

The region about was once densely populated by cliff dwellers, but now there are no human beings within miles.

THE FAMOUS GOLD HILL CAMPS.

An Interesting Story Told of That District.

R. C. Pentland, a local mining man, returned the other day from a visit to the Gold Hill district in Southern Oregon where he went to inspect the Crystal Springs claim. It is much more than a mere prospect and he was making an examination of it for other parties. Among the samples of ore which both galena and gold, a combination which is but rarely found. One portion of the rock was pure silver and lead, while the opposite side was freely impregnated with small particles of gold.

Mr. Pentland did not remain long enough in the district to visit any of the leading properties, but in Gold Hill he heard an interesting story regarding the founding and growth of that lively camp. The first ground worked there some 20 years ago yielded an immense fortune in a very few months. Out of this excavation 20 feet deep, 18 inches wide and 40 feet in length $350,000 in gold was taken, hence the name of the camp, Gold Hill. It proved to be a pocket, however, and no amount of prospecting has ever been sufficient to secure the continuation of the vein.

When the pocket had become exhausted the claim was sold for a good price to a local mining character known as "Quartz" Smith. He spent several thousand dollars without success to rediscover the lost vein. Finally a San Francisco clairvoyant wrote him that for a certain consideration she would direct him in which way to drift to strike the lost vein. He replied that he did not need her assistance, having fully decided that he was up against it and that the property was valueless. A month or so later a San Francisco man showed up and offered him $2,500 for the claim. He jumped at it, and the transfer of the ownership of the property was at once made. It later developed that the owner had been a victim of the clairvoyant and he went broke acting upon her suggestions, for which he paid high, in search of the vein that has never been re-located. ## A Mistake.

Charley to the altar led the lovely Jane and to her fathers' house returned again, where, to convey them on their wedding tour already stood a brilliant coach and four. When lo! the gathering showers at once descended clouds and warning winds contented; this moves him not, in his hands his bride, and seats himself enraptured by her side; when thus to cheer the fair one he begun: "I hope we shall soon have a little sun." But she to whom the weather gave no pain, who most about her future state bethought she replied: "My dear, I'd rather have a daughter."

READ IT IN HIS NEWSPAPER.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back, and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will bear the wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by A. P. Estabrook.

Mrs. Thomas Ross of Central Point is seriously ill with diphtheria.

SPRING FEVER.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels means a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such systems. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and causing a "spring grippe." I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundeville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." A. P. Estabrook.

Daniel Bante of Otterville, Iowa, writes, "I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures in the market and have received from physicians in New York and other cities, but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar, which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without it in my house. I sincerely recommend it to all." For sale by Gold Hill Drug Co.

FILTHY TEMPLES IN INDIA.

Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that's polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid untold misery. They give lively livers, active bowels, good digestion, fine appetite. Only 25c at A. P. Estabrook's drug store.

Deserted Newly Made Wife.

Word comes from Klamath Falls that A. P. McMillan, teacher of brass instruments string music, baseball enthusiast and late candidate for justice of the peace of that town has taken French leave without consulting his wife or anyone else. Mac also took a bicycle that belonged to another man and departed several confiding friends from their spare cash on a borrow. He did not want to overlook anyone, desiring to be remembered by all his friends so he appropriated $75 or $80 that had been entrusted to him to buy instruments for a young ladies' brass band he proposed to organize. He learned that the authorities of Seattle, Washington, were on his trail for some offence committed in that city, and not desiring to go back to Washington because the climate was not conducive to his health, he left for other parts. It is said he forgot to say goodbye to his young wife. A few months ago he won the love of Miss Edna Mitchell, a Klamath Falls young lady, and they were married.—Town Talk.
