WOULD FORESTALL STRIKE

Railroad Transforms Telegraph Into Telephone System.

Springfield, Mo.—In anticipation of the strike of 1100 telegraphers employed on its lines, the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad laid off indefinitely 400 telegraphers and began to transform its telegraph lines into a telephone system of railroad communication.

Twenty-four special trains, consisting of an engine and caboose, went out on the Frisco lines with right of way over all trains except passengers. The crew of each train removed the instruments from every station it passed and joined the telegraph wires at every mile. Thus 12,000 miles of railroad telegraph lines were converted into a telephone circuit.

This was confirmed by both players, who also said their salaries had been guaranteed by a bonding company which assured them full payment for their three-year contracts, regardless of what fate may befall the league.

FAIRS TO BE INSTRUCTIVE

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Calls Conference.
Salem.—With the object of making the educational features of the county fairs more prominent, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Churchill, general director of the industrial school fairs of the state, called a meeting of secretaries of county fairs, school supervisors and all persons interested in the proposition Friday at the capitol. The action was taken by Mr. Churchill because of many requests that he take the lead in calling the conference, inasmuch as his department had charge of one of the most important features of the fairs. A movement has been on foot for some time to enlarge the scope of the exhibitions and make the educational features more important than racing and carnival attractions.
