AS TO THE MUD

There has been some complaint about the mud which is allowed to flow into the Regue River from the Foothills creek section, where the huge gold dredge is operating. Anglers claim that it spoils the fishing below that point and they become quite angry. However, the company which is in charge of the gold dredge, thru their superintendent, D. H. Ferry, is spending a considerable amount of money each day in an honest endeavor to make the river a better fishing ground. We feel that the sportsmen are a trifle unfair in their criticisms when we consider the extensive efforts which are being made to protect the river fishing when it is not necessary. The company cannot be compelled to control the mud. The sportsmen should feel kindly towards them for the splendid co-operation which they are giving. After all, the greatest menace to fishing in the immediate vicinity is the fish death trap maintained at Salvage rapids where an inadequate fish ladder is located and hundreds of fish plunge to their death every year in an attempt to get over the dam. If the company which controls the Savage dam would place their fish ladder where it should be placed, then the salmon and steelhead could pass over it. If the company is not able to finance such a project we have no doubt but that the sportsmen of the valley would subscribe enough

THE JOKERS CORNER

Mr. Cohen (picking himself up after a bad spill from his horse)—"And Dr. Goldbaum told me to do this for my health!"

She: Did I ever show you the place where I hurt my hip?"

He: "No-no."

She: "All right, we'll drive over there."

Whatever trouble Adam had, No man in days of yore Could say when he had told a joke, 'I've heard that one before."

The good fairy offered to grant one wish to the Catholic, Protestant and the Jew. The Catholic wished for glory. "You shall have it," said the fairy. The Protestant wished for money. "You shall have it," said the fairy. And turning to the Jew she said, "what do you wish?" The Jew replied, "I think I will save my wish for some later date. All I want is the address of the Protestant."

The Westerfield Book

The Westerfield Book, "Fifty Years With Poultry," is now available after a delay due to the author's illness last winter. We are greatly pleased to announce to our readers that copies of this great book will very soon be on sale at this office or will be mailed post paid on receipt of the price—$3.00.

The book is printed on good paper, illustrated, attractively bound in blue-green cloth. It should be on every poultryman's reading table. Enough has been said in advance of the Westerfield book by such leading poultrymen as Hanson, Kleinsmith, Pyfer, Mrs.

Tencred, M. E. Atkinson, Mrs. Densmore and others to insure its value to every person in the industry who is conscientiously trying to breed better fowls. It is a book for the beginner, the average poultryman and the advanced breeder. Those who are already successful poultry breeders commend this book so highly that it deserves the name "the book of the year" among poultry literature. Best of all it is a western product, the result of many years practical study in selecting and breeding by a man whose reputation as a scientific breeder is known all over the coast states.

"I don't want any callers this afternoon," said the business man to the office boy. "If they say their business is important just tell them that's what they all say."

That afternoon a lady called and insisted on seeing him. "I'm his wife," she exclaimed.

"That's what they all say," said the office boy.

Here's where a car leads a tough life

NO General Motors car is turned out of the factory until a fleet of exact duplicates of that model has been found good by the engineers at General Motors' Proving Ground.

Such an advance model must prove itself from stem to stern. The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease, fuel, oil, and tire economy; body strength—every phase of car construction and performance. It's a tough life.

Such testing would be beyond the means or resources of an individual. 1268 acres of land at Milford, Michigan, are devoted to this outdoor laboratory where hills are steep and roads are vicious. Men who are among the world's best automotive engineers conduct the tests.

This tested performance is as much a part of a General Motors car as the chassis. You can't see it. You don't pay extra for it. But you know it as you give the car long use on the road.
