position on the team, and the players will be divided accordingly for this contest.

Gold Panners to Compete
Gold-panners and horse shoe pitchers of this section will come in for their part of the program after the ball game, and keen competition is promised in both tests of skill.

The rich sands of the rivers and streams of this vicinity have attracted many gold-seekers in the past seventy-five years, and many of these still live here and will have a chance to prove their ability in saving the fine gold found. Those who wish to enter this division should contact R. E. Blankenburg, at the News office, Toney Ross or Wm. Bailey.

RELIEF TAX IDEAS READY

This proposal won over a plan for a graduated tax on businesses and professions.

Higher collections up to 10 per cent on boxing and wrestling shows and fight exhibitions were approved.

The committee will also propose that a tax on luxuries as defined by the federal government be levied.

The Oregon granges have proposed that a bond issue against delinquent taxes be used to raise relief funds, but as this is unconstitutional the committee approved a recommendation that the legislature amend the constitution to allow this.

Another similar proposal to allow individual counties to issue bonds up to 50 per cent of their delinquent taxes, was also made. It will be submitted to the attorney general as to its legality.

S. P. Extends Low Fares To Chicago Fair

To accommodate autumn travel to the Chicago Fair, and other middle western and eastern destinations, sales dates and return limits of all classes of eastbound summer excursion tickets are to be extended, according to announcement by the Southern Pacific Company.

Under the new arrangement, the limit for the commencement of the low-fare trips will be advanced from October 15 to October 31, it was stated by Felix S. McGinnis, vice president in charge of system passenger traffic. The final return limit for season tickets, he said, will be extended from October 31 to November 15.

The same low fares established at the start of the summer tourist season will remain in effect for the longer period, it was announced.

Martin Kupers, and son Fred Kupers, of Pendleton, Oregon, were guests in the home of Mrs. Leila Bowers, and her father, Jap O'Hara, of this city from Tuesday to Thursday of this week.

Powers-Agness Road Said to Be Toughest CCC Job

The toughest job of the road-building in the Siskiyou forest, a piece of forest construction that eventually will be a main road between Powers and Agness, is being handled by the Coquille camp of the CCC according to the forest headquarters office.

This piece of road is up the Coquille river from the forest boundary for four or five miles, and has been passed up by the forest service for a number of years because the construction costs are so heavy that very little mileage would be obtained from the small allotment that were available to the forest in years past. Under CCC arrangement, it was felt that this was an opportune time to secure the construction of this piece of road because it was the key location to the entire road system north of the Rogue river.

Principal difficulties are bluffs of solid rock, but patient and tedious location work, and the stretching of standard grades, a location has been decided upon, which it is hoped to have cut through by spring. Along with this piece of road, the Coquille camp has 17 miles of telephone line to build, 22 miles of roadway, 23 miles of trail, 4 temporary dwellings, 3 tool houses, 19 bridges, an equipment shed at Powers, besides the maintenance of some 85 miles of telephone line, 200 miles of horse trail, and the boundary survey of 43 miles of forest boundary.

Because of the difficulties in transportation to the camp site, the camp was not fully organized until early in July. Since then they have been concentrating primarily on the road down the Coquille river, and while they have made a splendid showing for hand work, they are still a long ways from opening up that stretch of road into Powers. Some 12 to 20 miles of telephone line have been maintained, which means the cutting out of all interfering brush, and hanging the wire up in good condition. About 30 miles of trail have been maintained, and 3 new lookout buildings constructed. Many of the jobs listed for this camp could not be completed this year, due to restrictions on the location of spike camps. It is hoped that another season these camps will be possible, and jobs farther away from the main camp may be completed.

The camp is located about 8 miles up the Coquille river from Powers at a place known as China Flat. A road was built to this site by Pepper Bros. for mining purposes. While this road is exceptionally steep, it has served as a summer road, but cannot be used during the winter time, owing to its unsurfaced condition, and also to the fact that a Pontoon bridge across the Coquille river, which is possible to use during the summer, will be taken out when the first heavy rains come in the fall.

Major Ford was in charge of the camp until recently, and now Frank G. Ringland is in command. J. B. Parker is the camp superintendent, and the camp is comprised principally of local woodsmen, and enrolled men from Illinois. They have one of the most beautiful camp sites on the forest.
