PAMPHLET TRIO TRIAL WILL BE SET NEXT WEEK

Electa A. Fehl, wife of the penitentiary detained Earl H. Fehl, serving four years for vote stealing conviction; May Murray, and E. L. Fitch, indicted by the last grand jury, Floyd Ross, Central Point, foreman, for criminal libel for the alleged distribution of slanderous printed matter, will be listed for trial next week. Fitch is held in the county jail where he has been since May 19, and the two women are at liberty on bonds of $1000.

Fitch and May Murray requested the court to appoint counsel and Mrs. Fehl has consulted Attorney E. E. Kelly. the court has as yet made no definite appointment.

County authorities have stated emphatically they will invoke the Oregon laws to curb any and all attempts to revive inflammatory agitation in this county.

Several other criminal cases are scheduled to be docketed for early tral including Chester O. Webb and Evan L. Crow, indicted for taking an auto belonging to Perry L. Ashcraft, Ashland garageman. Webb is at liberty on bonds. Crow is held in the county jail. Crow has been the beneficiary of several paroles issued by courts, in the past.

Al Poston of Pinehurst, indicted a year ago for alleged threatened assault with a dangerous weapon, is also slated for early trial. The indictment grew out of a roadside argument over an aleged game law violation. Poston is alleged to have threatened a state trooper. His trial was set for last winter, but postponed when Poston was unable to reach court because of auto trouble en route. —Medford Mail Tribune.

Melon and Tomato Marketing Agreement Goes Into Effect

The Oregon and Washington melon and tomato agreement is now in effect. This agreement is the first of its kind in the entire United States, wherein the growers in two states have attempted to control the marketing of their products. It controls the distribution of 1,000,000 crates of tomatoes and 300,000 crates of melons.

The agreement as now in effect guarantees the grower a minimum price on tomatoes and melons. At present the minimum price that tomatoes can be sold to retailers is 50c for each 20 pound lug. The cost of picking, packing, furnishing of containers, freight, selling and stamps is 36½c per crate. This nets the grower 13½c for growing 20 pounds of tomatoes.

The minimum price to the retailer on melons is $1.25 per crate which nets the grower an average of 42½c to pay the cost of rent, taxes, water, labor and supervision.

Administration of the agreement is invested in a control board which also sets the minimum prices. The board consists of five members, two from Oregon, two from Washington, and one member at large, representing the general public. Office of the board is at 516 Oregon Building, Portland, Oregon.

Members of the board consist of Morton Tompkins, chairman, Dayton, Oregon; C. Wesley Williams, Roseburg, Oregon; C. H. Dills, Wapato, Washington; H. N. Hampton, Hover, Washington; and Roy Hewett of Salem, Oregon who is the member at large. H. G. Hawkins of Yakima, Washington, is manager of the agreement. He is an experienced fruit and vegetable man of 20 years experience.

"This agreement will assure the consumer of high grade melons and tomatoes at no increase in prices, yet the producer will get a decent income from his crop. Most of the evils of the old speculative, cut throat method of competition that existed up until this time have been eliminated", according to Morton Tompkins, chairman of the board. "We have received the fullest cooperation from retailers, produce men and growers", he said.

Each crate of tomatoes grown in the two states will bear a 3c stamp, each crate of melons a 7c stamp. The income from these stamps will go to defray the expense of enforcing the agreement.
