

FOOTS CREEK NEWS

(By Mrs. Marton Lance)

J. L. Rowe of Sams Valley and Bob Cook of Gold Hill, owners of the Highland mine, are spending several days on Footh Creek. They plan to put their quartz mill in first class condition and will be able to do custom work.

Attorney Kurl of Albany, Oregon, was in the community Thursday in the interest of the Black Channel mine owned by F. A. Bates.

Louis Druff returned Monday from a very pleasant vacation spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Pickett and Mr. and Mrs. Max Beswick at Los Angeles, California.

Mrs. Minnie Byerly, who went to Portland to spend Thanksgiving with her daughter, Ruth, and sister, Mrs. Baldwin, returned Sunday from a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Galbreath have bought the property near the Alaska Auto Park, formerly owned by Misses Ruth and Dorothy Wallace of Council Bluffs, Iowa, sisters of Mrs. Thomas Galligan.

Mr. and Mrs. Batten, who have been living at the Black Channel mine, have moved to the Chisholm place formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Twombly and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Prefountain were shopping in Medford and Grants Pass during the past week. Frank Lusin made a business trip to Hugo Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn DeJanavir and son of Bend, Oregon, arrived during the week to operate their placer mine on the left fork of Footh Creek near the C. Carr property, formerly owned by Fred Durham of Rogue River.

Joe Woodcock returned to his home Saturday evening from the Josephine General hospital at Grants Pass, where he spent ten days following an appendicitis operation.

The Footh Creek Sunday School planned Sunday to give a Christmas program and treat for the children, December 29. Election of officers for the ensuing year will be held.

Mr. Hurley and Howard Huffman of the Maybell mine on Birdseye Creek left last week for Portland on business.

Mrs. Marie Conway who has spent the past two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Veltie Biles, at Gold Hill, is now visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Biles.

House to house solicitors are visiting homes offering FREE enlargements of photographs, the Portland Better Business Bureau announces.

Some of these solicitors carry a bunch of envelopes. They extend them to the housewife, telling her if she is lucky enough to draw one containing a "special advertising coupon" that she will get a photograph enlargement absolutely free. The trick lies in the fact that practically every one of the envelopes contain a lucky coupon.

The coupon used by one such company says:

"This certificate entitles the holder to one portrait 10x16 inches in size absolutely free, for the purpose of extending and advertising our business. The only condition is that you purchase the frame for this portrait from us."

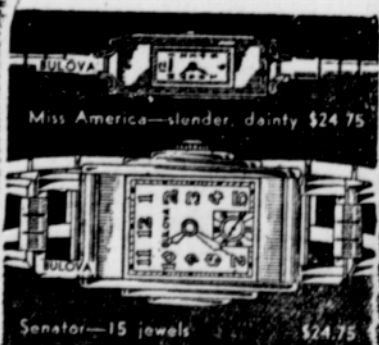

The condition is printed in ordinary type and is often overlooked by the customer.

There are many variations of the photo enlargement scheme. THE PURPOSE OF ALL OF THEM IS TO SELL FRAMES. The enlargement may be technically free, but complaints in the files of the Portland Better Business Bureau prove that it is hard to get back even the original photograph unless one buys a frame.

Do not sign any memorandum for a photograph until you have read it carefully and understand it. The signed agreement fixes your obligation—not the talk of the agent.

Those who have had tuberculosis in their family will not fail to help the anti-tuberculosis campaign by purchasing Christmas Seals. Others should buy seals to help protect themselves, and their families from the disease that is the greatest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45.

His Wedding Day Is Full of Excitement

Bowling Green, Ohio.—Charles Miller's wedding day was quite an eventful day.

Besides getting married, he beat his new wife three hours after the ceremony when she accused him of flirting with another woman during the wedding celebration.

The wife's ex-husband swore out the drunk and disorderly charge.

Then the police car in which he was being taken to jail skidded and went into a ditch and had to be pulled out by a team of mules.

Justice Sam Peoples fined him the costs and sentenced him to 30 days, which he is now serving out in the county jail.

TREATMENT OF TOTS IN BRITAIN BRUTAL

Country Aroused Over Neglect and Cruelty.

London.—Stripped, strung up by a hook to the ceiling and flogged by her father because she returned empty-handed after he had sent her out to steal.

It is just one of the cases appearing frequently now in British courts—dreadful blights on the country's childhood.

It's similar to many more of the 44,886 cases of brutal treatment or neglect of Britain's boys and girls—reported in this country last year.

It's just another of the cases of juvenile delinquency which help to make up the total of more than 40 per cent of England's criminals who are below the age of twenty-one.

This story was told by the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest James Archer, in a Liverpool court when the man and wife were arraigned on charges of receiving property stolen by their children, the girl and a son aged twelve.

While an unusual case of savage treatment of helpless youngsters, it illustrates the type of tragic problem with which England's society is struggling.

The Archer girl testified that when she came home without the bananas she had been sent out to steal, her father took her and her brother down to the cellar. She said:

"I was hanging in the air ten minutes while he beat me with the belt. When I screamed he said: 'The more you scream, the more I will hit you.'"

The father and mother were sent up for trial, and the children placed in a juvenile home.

Experts here are in general agreement that the question of saving England's underprivileged children is linked with the problem of banishing misery, privation and hunger from English homes resulting from the last war. It is the spectre prodding British statesmen to head off another war in which England would be drawn.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.
