FIFTH GRADERS WRITE INTERESTING CHRISMAS POEMS

The following poems, penned by pupils of the fifth grade, Mrs. Marjorie Pena, teacher, are the youngster's interpretations of the different phases of Christmas.

THE CHRIST CHILD
By Rae Clement

The Christ Child was born
On Christmas morn.
Mary and Joseph by his side.
Peoples there from far and wide.

The people came from wide and far,
Guided by the shining star.
In the City of Bethlehem,
Wise Men came to worship him.

CHRISTMAS
Charlie Rosecrans

When you deck the room with holly.
Christmas is always jolly,
When Santa brings the toys
The house is full of noise.
He leaves on the tree
Gifts for you and maybe me.

CHRISTMAS
By Stanley Robbins

On Christmas day we should be jolly,
With a Christmas tree and a wreath of holly.

While Santa Claus my stocking fills,
My mother and father pays the bills.

Santa only brings the toys
For the nicest little boys.

He brings them something good to eat,
And maybe a greaf big drum to beat.

Cartridge in His Pipe Explodes; Escapes Injury

Glenwood Springs, Colo.—Dr. J. H. Waller was badly frightened but otherwise uninjured when an explosion occurred right under his nose. A 22-calibre cartridge which he left in his coat pocket found its way into his smoking tobacco. When he filled his pipe and lit it, the cartridge exploded blowing the pipe to pieces.

Exceeds Auto Deaths

The "terrific toll" of auto accidents is less than half as great as annual deaths from tuberculosis. Buy Christmas Seals and help fight this unnecessary disease.

Wealthy Man Gets Dole; but State Gets It Back

Alamosa, Colo. — William Enger posed as a destitute and received relief until his death, then authorities found he was a man of wealth, his holdings consisting of real estate, stocks and bank holdings. Judge D. W. Dirkpatrick ordered $128.05 spent by the Colorado state relief committee on fuel, clothing, food and medical attention for Enger, paid back from the estate.

Beef pot roasts, 14c pound. Gold Hill Meat Market. adv

The picture of Santa Claus appears more often on the Christmas Seals than any other design. This is appropriate, because the greatest gift anyone can receive is health. Christmas Seals help return health to those stricken with tuberculosis.
