that there is a need for training for marriage and home making.
This, the most important venture in our whole scheme of living, is gone into without any previous knowledge or training. The wonder is that the ratio of failures is not higher. In conjunction with this there should be a course on child psychology and the rearing and training of children. Many parents undertake the responsibility of rearing a family of boys and girls to take their place in a most complex civilization without any knowledge of how to go about it. It is an injustice to the child. Will even elementary training in child psychology and child rearing many mistakes, that are most costly to the child could be avoided. The child always pays not only for its own mistakes that it makes as it grows up, but for the mistakes of the parents also.

The reason why a democracy is not better governed, or more efficiently governed, is many times due to the type of persons who are given places of responsibility. In the majority of instances they are selected because of their political activity, and without any relation to their ability to intelligently handle the affairs of the office. All of us know of important positions filled by men and women who know nothing of the duties of the office.

and who merely sign their names to reports prepared by the office help. Another danger lies in the fact that those who are best at pushing themselves in, and ballyhoo their virtues.

The great wall of China, a wonderful piece of masonry, some 2000 miles long, was built to keep out of the country an invading enemy. It served its purpose effectually in its day and was a source of protection to China. Today the wall, as a source of protection, is without value, due to modern fighting equipment and facilities. In like measure, old methods will not apply in farming, merchandising or advertising.
We are living in a world and an age that is moving rapidly some place, and if we are to fit in to the scheme of things, we must do the things, and use the methods, that fit into the present day scheme of living.

"How you have aged", is the first thought that runs through the mind of two persons who have not seen each other for a number of years.
Strange we do not feel that we have changed much but that our friend has grown grayer or heavier or hinner as the case may be. If we could but stop to think we would now that he is thinking the same things of us.

We view with suspicion and distrust the proposal by Congress to combine J. Edgar Hoover's organization, the G-Men, with other federal law enforcement agencies.
Hoover's organization of young men chosen because of their ability, and without reference to their political application, have accomplished great things in this country in the matter of wiping out crime and running down and bringing to justice major criminals. The organization should not be disturbed and its usefulness possibly destroyed by mixing it up with any other organization where there is a likelihood of political control of favoritism. Let's let well enough alone. Let's have one organization in this country that cannot be emasculated by politics.

er told them that when repeal came bootleggers were supposed to disappear.

When conditions began to resume normal the trained workmen were the first to be absorbed into industry. There will continue to be, even after normal times return a large number of untrained workers who will be unable to find employment because of their lack of training.
The time is coming when every school system of any size will have a trade school in which the rudiments of trades are taught, not with the thought of turning out skilled workmen so much as making available an exploratory course by means of which a young man or a young woman can discover themselves and find out what they are best fitted for and the work they would be happiest in doing.

Our feeling that the human race and do it the inexpensive way, too.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin — 15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece.
Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water.
Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.
Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

night dressed in dark clothing walking with his back to the approaching traffic. Everyone knows that under such conditions it is most difficult for a car driver to see a traveler in the road, especially when the lights of an approaching car are in his eyes. It is a most foolhardy act.
Every one walking on the highway at night should face the approaching traffic and, if wearing dark clothing should carry a white handkerchief in his hand.

SAFETY SLOGANS
