drive their cars. In many counties relief clients who are known to spend their money for beer are being cut off the relief list.

The good old days were the days in which good sized families were supported on what many families spend for gasoline.

A Vermont woman is suing another woman for a million dollars for taking her husband. We know several women around here who would give that much to get rid of their husbands—if they had it.

Henry Ford could shut up shop and quit. There isn't a thing more he can gain for himself. He won't live long enough to spend his money no matter how lavishly he might spend it. Ford prefers to continue, in spite of a multitude of harassments. Most men operating businesses are like that today.

Ask a woman what she would do if she should suddenly come into the possession of ten thousand dollars and in nine times out of ten the reply will be: "get the house fixed up."

One of the most difficult problems that comes with the depression is adjusting the scale of living to the reduced income.

Scientists state that it requires nature thousands of years to build one inch of top soil. It appears most wasteful in view of this that so little attention has been paid to conserving this precious accumulation of the ages. Under present wasteful methods the life and fertility of this continent is being drained into the ocean at the rate of millions of tons every year. Traffic when one recalls that for every such loss man's lot on earth becomes more difficult.

It often happens that a failure is that man who took a chance and lost and the successful man is one who took just as wild a chance and won.

Some one is responsible for the statement that Uncle Sam is spending money at the rate of $13,450 a minute. It means something when one one asks Uncle Sam to "wait a minute".

We would have to have seen the methods being used to get the country out of the depression applied at a time when there wasn't a general crop failure to complicate things. If the scheme finally works it will rob the next depression of a lot of its terrors. A depression isn't half as bad if a man of stopping it is definitely known.

There is a lot of good advice that might be given, live within your means, and keep out of debt. The troubles one has, if he follows this rule, are all little ones.

The man or woman has learned one of the really big lessons in life when he or she can live above the fog of petty things. It is a waste of energy and nerve force to allow little and petty annoyances to fret. They cloud the mind and the vision to the big things and the important things.

Most every man who has failed at about everything else will tell you if given the opportunity, about an invention that he has in mind that would sweep the country if he ever got it patented.

April 17 is Easter Sunday.

The reason why so many foolish things are proposed in the average state legislature is that in the average state legislature there is to be found a certain number of foolish and thoughtless people.

To the campaign promises that have been proven false may be added the one "The saloon will never come back."

The most substantial thing that will come out of the several programs launched by the national administration is the soil building program. If the soil is rebuilt prosperity may come back, but there can be no enduring prosperity with an impoverished soil.

We are not disturbed over the fact that Japan tried to get cute over her naval program and pull a typical Jap fast one. We have a feeling that when it comes to building gunboats, and cannon and flying machines, that this nation doesn't have to step aside for any power in the world. If we ever make up our minds to really build a navy it will be big enough that we can use it for a pontoon bridge to Japan if we want to. We have a way of doing whatever we undertake on a big scale.

An Illinois woman attracted considerable attention recently by using an ax on a number of slot machines. At that she was smarter than a lot of the foolish men who seem to have the idea that there is any other means except an ax by which money can be gotten out of a slot machine.

In certain sections of the country the better class farmers are banding themselves together to operate their farms under scientific direction. A standard set of account books is furnished which show the cost and return on each farm operation. The books are checked by an expert auditor who makes a report to the co-operator on the degree of success or failure of each particular project. Farming of the future is going to be conducted in a more business like way than it has been conducted in the past. The profit or loss on each project must be definitely known, that the losses of the unsuccessful projects will not consume the profits of the successful projects.

After all, the weight of any defeat is measured by the spirit in which it is met. No man was ever whipped by defeat until he thought he was whipped and admitted he was whipped. Mere adverse fortune cannot whip a man, because fortune, good or bad, has to do with the things that are without the man. No man is defeated until he admits he is defeated, and few men worthy of the name are willing to do that.

For some reason educators seem to feel that only certain facts of history should be made available to the young student of history. Every one who has delved into history beyond were really human beings subject to human failings, and not gods at all. Those whose study of history does not progress beyond the school books, go through life with a fantastic picture of many of the leading men and events of history. The disillusionment is apt to come with quite a jolt once one gets access to a true record.

There is no system of law or sound economy that can be put in effect that will enable the lazy, shiftless, individual to earn as much as the man who is willing to work hard and long, and any system of readjustment that attempts to bring anything else about is doomed to failure because it is unsound, and wrong, and uneconomic.

President Zachary Taylor never lived in one place long enough to qualify as a voter.

George Washington was never outside of this country with the exception of one trip to the West Indies.

Nearly one-third of the world's population follow the Buddhist religion. Most of them living in Asia.

Although we generally associate igloos with Alaska, ninety-five per cent of the people of Alaska have never seen an igloo.

About ninety-four per cent of the people of Austria are Catholics
