

"WHITE" SHIRTS GO.

The new chlorine conservation ruling will have as profound effects on your life as any war order yet issued. You will notice its lack where you never even thought of its use—as a bleach for foods and cosmetics, for instance. Chlorine for textile bleaching will be limited to half of what is usually used, and since there are few substitutes available, some yardage will have to be darker. There will also be less bleaching in shellac, the color being a little more yellow than in so-called white shellac. And your husband's favorite white shirts will lose some of their dazzle; all commercial laundries must do without chlorine, except for a very small amount which may be used for the most stubborn stains. This, of course, doesn't affect the clean-obtaining other commodities certain to be rationed subsequently, the number or name of which he declined to state. In amplification, Mr. Price pointed out that "we recognize that many people, in the normal course, buy sugar in sacks. People who do so should not be considered as "hoarders" in that sense of the word" he declared, laying stress on the fact that the bleaches you buy from the grocer for home laundry will also be effective because they will contain 40 percent less chlorine. Although it won't affect most of us, owners of private swimming pools must get along with only 25 percent of the amount formerly used.

SHORTENING THE RUBBER SHORTAGE.

Practicing what it preaches, the War Department thru the office of the Quartermaster General announces that huge amounts of rubber are being released for certain phases of the war effort, through a recent program ordered by the Quartermaster Corps. New designs for tires, boots, shoes, raincoats, and other items formerly requiring great quantities of this critical and strategic material, are resulting in substantial savings. The Quartermaster Corps are re-writing specifications for shoes, boots, and other equipment, which will effect a saving in rubber as high as 50 percent. Rubber is coming out of Army foot gear in great quantities, but where it is indispensable, it stays in the shoe or boot. And so the Army puts its shoulder to the wheel, along with concerted efforts by industry and civilians in general, to the end that victory may be speeded. Work to prevent fires!

PLENTY FOR ALL

In a joint announcement, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Price Administrator Henderson recently said that food stocks in this country are abundant, and that there is no need or justification for hoarding or abnormal buying. Consumers should remember that "Scare buying" is one of the surest ways to produce price inflation. Temporary shortages are created as demand runs far ahead of supply. The retail industry has been and is doing a magnificent job in the consumers' interest. Ten of thousands of stores, operated by both chain systems and independent merchants, are pursuing an aggressive purposeful "rice control" program of their own and are saving the public untold millions of dollars by preventing price increases that would otherwise take place. One of the most important elements in this program is wise buying. Stores are keeping inventories at reasonable levels, instead of rushing in and building up stocks to an abnormal extent. They are buying at the most favorable season, when prices are advantageous. They are doing everything in their power to maintain orderly markets. What the stores do on a big scale, all consumers should do on a small scale. War will cause us all to forego many a luxury, but there will be plenty of necessities to go around. An intelligent, calm public is essential to workable price control of any kind.

GOOD NEWS FOR SUGAR BUYERS REVEALED BY STATE RATIONER.

O. L. Price, Oregon state rationing administrator, returned to Portland Tuesday from an OPA rationing administrators' conference at Chicago with these assurances about sugar: 1. For canning purposes, housewives will be able to obtain ample sugar, over and above the weekly quotas, which will be announced later. 2. There will be no penalty for persons who have in their possession at the time of registration more than two pounds of sugar. The only penalty will be for those who make false statements. All Must Register. 3. It's essential that all people register for sugar rationing for those who do not may have difficulty in
