VEST'S BRAVE SPEECH. The Pension Schemes a Great Political

Auction, with Plumb, Frye, Manderson, Cullom and Other Bidders. Following is a mere detailed account of Vest's notable speech against the proposed immense pension steals, a brief mention of which was matter in our telegraphic columns Thursday,

He asked: "Whence then came this talk of federal soldiers in the almshouses? They were not there. He was tired and sick of insinuation of robbery, and pretense, and hypocrisy, in the name of the true and gallant soldiers of the Union. He would give every disabled or dependent soldier of the federal army, and widows and orphans of those who have lost their lives in the service, last acre of land and the last dollar. He would have done the same for the Confederate soldiers, "if God had blest our cause." Why this talk that Congress has not done enough for the soldiers, when the country had paid out, since 1865, $883,000,000 for pensions, a liberality unparalleled in the history of the world. The great military and political organization, the Grand Army of the Republic had thrown its lance into the debates of Congress, and sent bills to their accredited senators for the purpose of being enacted. When the President of the United States had honestly and bravely discharged his executive duty, and vetoed enactments which he considered improper, he has been threatened by officers of that organization with personal insult if he dared make his pres-ence known in the city where it held its annual meeting. There was a limit to human endurance. He (Vest) had voted for pension bills, coerced by his position, because he had been a Confederate, and because he was honestly anxious for the glory of the country. He had voted for them because he wanted to evidence to the world that the men with whom he had acted in strife respected the soldiers of the Union, and were willing to give them even more than they demanded.
"But there is a limit, and I have reached
it. It will be driven no further by claim agents and plunderers in the garb of soldiers. For honest and real soldiers 1 am willing to vote any amount of pension.

years of war, there were applications from 1,200,000 for pensions on account of dis-ability. Such military execution had never been known in the history of the world. Who believed they were honest applicants? Who believed these pension bills had not degenerated into political abuse which cried aloud for redress? He had great regard for many of his friends on the opposite side of the chamber, and in the words he had spoken he had wished to give a chance to some of them men were made widows and forty children orphans by the explosion of the believes of the Julia derry boat, which accidently accurred here Monday about 6:10 o'clock in the morning.

When the senator from Nebraska took his seat (Vest) had thought the bid was in his favor. But the senator from Maine (Frye) had "caught the eye" of the auctioneer, the G. A. R., and had "gone one better." The senator was prepared to vote a pension to every man who had served a day in the army. He Vest) was about to knock down the prize to the senator from Maine when his friend from Kansas (Plumb) came to the front and outdid Frye by an amendment which would increase the expenditure fifty or seventy-five million dollars. He (Vest) then had been strongly of the opinion that the prize should be given to the senator from Kansas; but then the senator from Illinois (Cull-m) had come to the front and made a bid which had staggered his convictions as to the priety of closing the sale. Since that time he had been in a condition of anxiety, waiting to hear from other bidders in the great national auction. The Serate had not yet heard from his dulcettongued friend from Iowa (Allison); nor had the Senate heard from the distinguished senator from Ohio (Sherman), who, in such a contest, ought certainly to come to the front and bid something for the vote which the candidates thought was to determine the contest. Neither had the Senate yet heard from the pre-siding officer (Ingalls), who would be nominated by the District of Columbia. WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Feb. 24th., 1888. Washington has been the Mecca towards which the eyes of all good democrats have been devoutly turned during the past few days. Here the first steps were taken towards the great victory which is to be won this year again by the party. The Democratic National Committee which met in this city to select the time and place for holding the National Nom-inating Convention, held a three days meeting of intense interest and every rival city worked its hardest for the prize. The only other business of importance transacted by the committee was the election of Mr. Wm. Steinway, the piano manufacturer, of New York city, to fill the vacancy on the committee caused by the death of Hubert O. Thompson. This selection was a great dissappointment to the republicans, who confidently expected a great row in the committee over it.

Representative Scott, of Pennsylvania, was in favor of holding the convention before the republicans held theirs, be-lieving that having possession of the Government, it was the proper thing for the democrats to take the initiatory steps the democrats to take the initiatory steps in opening the Presidential campaign. Senator Gorman, of Maryland, opposed an early convention, maintaining that there was no reason why the democrats should change their policy of following the republicans: that with a late convention they could take advantage of any mistakes of their opponents, whereas, by preceding the Republicans it would enable them to make capital out of any able them to make capital out of any blunders that might be committed by the Democrats. Senator Gorman's views were shared by nearly two-thirds of the committee, hence the selection, at first of July 3. The next day a reconsideration of this vote was secured, and Mr. Scott's views accepted by adopting June 5 as the date for the convention. It was not until near noon on Thursday, that St. Louis was fixed upon as the place; up to that hour it was believed that San Fran-Vest went on to say that of 2,300,000 men enrolled as soldiers during the four cisco was sure to win.

Mr. Mills, chairman of the House committee on Ways and Means, has just returned from a flying trip to Providence, Rhode Island. He says he is delighted withthe spirit of the New England people in regard to the revenue question.
Throughout the manufacturing districts
the tariff for revenue theory is popular, and they are pleased with the President's tariff message.

It is now said that little Phil. Sheridan's declination of the nomination for President was a case of "sour grapes." He is not eligible. Even granting that he was born, as his mother says, several months after the arrival of his parents in this country, said a naturalized citizen of this city, that would make him an alien, under the law, as his father was not naturalized, and no more eligible to the presidency than if he was born in Ireland. quantity or locality. The Senate had know, because I had a son born several months after my arrival in this country, and he was obliged before he was allowed to vote, on reaching the age of twenty-one, to take the oath of allegiance, as he was held to be alien born. The same law would apply to Sheridan's case. Charges having repeatedly been made in a number of Republican papers, that the Commissioner of Pensions had given the soldiers of Democratic States an advantage over those of Republican States in the amount of pensions allowed them, a table has been prepared at the pension office, which effectually disproves the silly charge.

Another bad break is to be charged up to the Republican leaders of the House. They see it now, but it is too late to stop the deluge. They proposed and passed a resolution to investigate the Government Printing, or rather to investigate Mr. Benedict, the first Democratic public printer, promising to show us many start-ling things. The proposition was readily agreed to by the Democrats, after an amendment was added providing that the investigation should include the four-years term of Mr. Benedict's Republican predecessor. The committee appointed under this resolution has already begun work, and enough has been done to make the Republicans very sorry they started it; and the indications are that their sorrow will continue to increase. Here are some figures taken from the books of Government printing office, that speak volumes: In January, 1886 (under Rounds) there were 2,352 persons on the rolls receiving $168,826, and in January, 1888, under Benedict, there are 2,041 on the rolls receiving $153,457. Notwith standing the great reduction in the number of employes-over 300- and the large saving in cash-over $15,000 in a monththere was more work turned out of the office in Jan. 1886.
