

East Oregonian Branch Office. The office of the EAST OREGONIAN has been established in Portland in the Abington building, second floor, under the management of Homer H. Hallock.

BREVITIES.

Meals go to the Masonic re-creation at the opera house to-night. The Court adjourned yesterday till 10 o'clock.

John left last night for the Big country. Falling is fitting her new rooms in a proper manner.

W. W. Journal: The Washington & Idaho railroad has been transferred to the O. R. & N. Co., including right of way and all other rights.

The old O. K. saloon outfit was moved into the old Stewart Castle to-day. The building which it formerly occupied will be fitted up by Zo Houser for a butcher shop.

A young lady member of the Juvenile Opera Company was accidentally shot in the arm on the train this morning, by a small revolver. The wound is not serious.

Milo P. Ward, the temperance lecturer, will leave in the morning for points between here and Walla Walla, where he will deliver temperance addresses.

The house on Johnson street just vacated by E. W. Thomas will be occupied by the family of A. D. Stillman.

T. Milarky is repairing the damage done by fire on the building occupied by J. P. Dushee.

Mrs. E. Welch returned from Milton on last evening's train. Ex-Senator La Fayette Grover has returned from Europe.

MR. GEARIN'S CONDITION.

Still a Very Sick Man—Will be Taken to Portland to-night, if Possible. Hon John M. Gearin is still confined to his bed at the Villard House.

His eye is badly inflamed and very painful, and he is suffering from severe pains in his face and chest. He has had serious symptoms of pneumonia and the condition of his eye indicates erysipelas.

The long ride to Heppner Monday and the return Tuesday, though the raw wind, especially when jacked out at early from travel and loss of sleep, were too much for Mr. Gearin's physical strength and it may take several days, if not weeks, for him to recover from his present illness.

His engagements for the present will have to be cancelled. Dr. Egan, who is attending him, will probably advise him to go to Portland to-night, if it is considered safe for him to travel so far, where he can receive the best of attention.

The appointments missed on account of this unexpected illness will be filled later on by some one in Mr. Gearin's place.

A New Hose Company.

For the last few weeks the organization of a new hose company has been discussed by our firemen and citizens generally. This would be a move in the right direction, and add greatly to the strength of our already good fire company.

The city has two hose carriages and but one hose company, consequently the hose cart is handled by volunteers, who however enthusiastic, have no organization, no training, no knowledge of the various appliances or water system of the town, and no recognized leaders.

If there was a well organized company placed in charge of the cart it would nearly double the effectiveness of the fire department, and be scarcely any additional expense. There are a large number of young, athletic men in town, who would like to join a new company, and there are also several staunch firemen in Protection Company and in the Hook & Ladder Company who might go in as a nucleus.

A new hose company would infuse new life into the old company, as a very healthy rivalry, and good training and efficiency would be the result.

Dangerous Tramps.

At Walla Walla Tuesday afternoon two tramps entered a room where Miss Picard was making a bed and demanded food, and acted in an insulting manner. They were ordered out of the room by the young lady, and being met at the door by the girl's father, Councilman Picard, were asked by him what they wanted.

They became very impudent and threatened to assault them. Picard then followed them down town, intending to have them arrested, and when they got to the corner of the alley on Second street, Picard caught up with them and after some words one of them struck him in the face, having a stone in his hands at the time, breaking the bones of his nose. The tramp struck him several times before assistance arrived, Marshal Robinson coming on the scene and taking the tramp into custody. His friend interfered and the marshal was compelled to use his "billy" before they could be quelled. The two were lodged in the city lock-up, and Dr. Blalock set Mr. Picard's nose.

Mr. Pickles is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Kansas. He will make a sharp campaign.

JUNIPER JOTTINGS.

Gossip About Some of the Candidates—Many Deaths—An Afflicted Family. SOUTH JUNIPER, Ore., April 29, 1888. To the Editor of the East Oregonian.

Crops in this section are looking pretty fair, considering the fair weather, but the wheat will not be so fair if this fair weather continues very long. (N. B. This is far from being a fair sample of my jokes.) If a man has friends or enemies, they are always to be found where he resides.

The enterprising young farmer, and candidate for representative, J. H. Morrison, has a large number of the former, and a fair sprinkling of the latter, but what does a man amount to who has no enemies? The lady oak, monarch of the forest, rears its stately form amid the contending elements of nature's fiercest climes; its gigantic strength is gathered and gained by the contending factions that surround it.

The fast, rank growth made in the rich, alluvial soil of a more salubrious clime, have not the staying, unswerving qualities of the oak; and so with man—the more obstacles you place in his path, the more merit of surmounting them. A man who is petted and fawned upon from the cradle to the grave leaves no distinguishing land marks on the road he passes over.

No one lives an average length of time with opinions of his own, but finds opposition. Mr. Morrison came to this country about seven years ago, from Illinois. By good rustling he has built for himself a nice, comfortable home, and judging from the amount of "fixing" up with new furniture and the like, John will, ere many moons, take unto his bosom "for better or for wuss," one of Juniper's fairest flowers—"but such is our climate." Democrats far and near will not have cause to regret the support they give him at the polls in June.

Bentley, in fact the whole ticket, stands well in this precinct, and I see no reason why we should not succeed. J. E. Kirkland seems to be well known here, at least by reputation, and that is all he needs, for a squarer man lives not in the country.

The best represented place in Juniper is the "City of the Dead." Quite a number of deaths have occurred here during the last twelve months. Several persons from the East, with one foot in the tomb and the other hard by, made this section their last resting place on earth, and one unacquainted with the circumstances would consider this an unhealthy locality, but such is not the case. We have as many life-producing germs as any place on the continent; if you have doubts examine our "birth" rate and be convinced.

A very unfortunate family is that of Mrs. Crabbill, who came here from Indiana last year, with six children. Some one of the number have been sick nearly all the time. She has buried two of them, and were it not for the assistance of kind neighbors the family must have suffered for the necessities of life. If the recording angel takes note of the good deeds done by man, a number here need feel no fears of the reading of those records.

Some fifteen or twenty young men from "the State of Arkansas," have arrived here during the past few weeks. Some are satisfied and some are not. They appear to be nice, orderly citizens, well worthy of encouragement. As this is my first from here, I will quit.

Mikado.

From the Evening Telegram. "The Mikado."—Last night the New Park theater held as large an audience as the first evening of the Juvenile Opera Company's production of "The Mikado." A sweeter Yum-Yum than Miss Camille Cleaveland it is difficult to picture; she is decidedly handsome, and she executes her work with irresistible grace. Katscha has not been better sung here than by Miss Emma Berg. Miss Julia Martin's Piti-Sing is an excellent bit of vocalization. Teddy Gamble's Ko-Ko is nightly received with almost unceasing outburst of applause. Master Teddy is indeed a phenomenal youth. Little Stella May, the fascinating and graceful little elf, is wonderfully precocious.

At the opera house this evening.

Ex-Senator James H. Slater.

Will address the people of Pendleton and vicinity at the Opera House on Saturday evening, May 5th, at 8 o'clock, on political issues. All are invited.

Patience used to be represented as a passably good-looking female on a big piece of sand stone. Now it is different. A modern artist fixes patience up as a country editor sitting on an inverted type box wishing he had his dinner, and waiting for delinquents to pay up their subscriptions.

A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of the East Oregonian. Those who are trying to awaken interest in the improvement of our cemetery are certainly deserving of cordial and substantial thanks.

The good name of our town is involved in the care bestowed on the plat of ground where we lay away the silent forms of those who in life were the light and joy of our homes.

It is strange that steps have not been taken already for beautifying and protecting the cemetery which has been used so long, but better now than not at all. Let there be interest awakened, and a movement made at once, which shall relieve the barrenness and desolation. Strangers will not be impressed with the moral tone of our city when they observe our remissness in caring for the graves of our dead.

Neither does it argue well for our thrift and enterprise to allow that unsightly plat to lie as now while we are pushing public enterprises in other directions. We should not forget that many of those who lie there in untidy and neglected graves were the pioneers who laid the foundation of the present wealth and prosperity of our growing city. Could they see and speak, would not they accuse us of letting their graves be unhonored and possibly unknown?

Besides this we owe something to the young in the way of educating them to respect and revere the memory and resting place of the dead. This can be done by making the cemetery beautiful in appearance, with trees and flowers and artistic device.

The present suggestions for improvement are timely, though tardy. It is to be hoped that while this is being done steps may be taken for forming a cemetery association, to be incorporated to whom shall be committed the supervision of the one now in use, and in whom shall be vested the title of new ground now greatly needed. Will not some of our best citizens take hold of this suggestion and push it? Observation demonstrates that this is the only proper way to secure needed and permanent care of these places to which we shall all be carried in time, perhaps sooner than we expect.

Geo. D. DOWNEY.

The only fountain in the wilderness of life, where man drinks of water unmixed with bitterness, is that which gushes up in the calm and steady recesses of domestic life. Pleasure may heat the heart with artificial experiment; ambition may delude it with golden dreams; war may eradicate its fine fibres and diminish its sensitiveness, but it is only domestic love that can render it truly happy.
