A PLEA FOR EXISTENCE.

A Review of Pendleton - What a Paper Can Do for a Town.

From the Salem Capitol Journal. Eight years ago this editor rode through Pendleton on his way from Walla Walla to Kelton, a five days' ride by, stage. It was then a mere way station, of perhaps seven hundred inhabitants, its only hope of growth and future greatness lying in its proximity to the Umatifla r ervation. Last winter we passed through Pendleton again, coming this way, riding on an expre. train with Pollman coaches along. During the interval the town had grown to a city of 4000 people, with a number of prosperous business houses, a fine school building, court house and other public edifices. President Cleveland has also appointed a special agent to select allotments for the Indians; when these are all settled on their farms the remainder of that in population and importance in the State. We reserve the second place for Salem, which relative position it holds now, and which it proposes to retain by corresponding growth.

In l'endleton there is the East Oregonian, a well edited daily, with a good telegraphic service, and all the attributes of a live paper. It is Demogratic to be of a live paper. It is Democratic, to be sure, which shows how some people with brains and enterprise are lacking in they will give it up. The paper is altogether too creditable to the city to be allowed to die, and we hope the business men of that progressive city will see it is to their interest to chip in is not to be measured by the direct return it renders for the money it costs; it advertises the town, it goes abroad on the wings of the wind an exponent and exemplar of the community for whom it spe.ks, and the benefitz derived from its advocacy come home invisibly, in many community, and it ought not to suffer from cold neglect.

HE IS MARRIED.

Gld Calloway is a Married Man, but Denies

Several weeks since the East Orego-NIAN published a letter from Mts. Lizzie Calloway, of Knoxville, Tennes ee, fol-lowed by a statement that the letter was lowed by a statement that the letter was a fraud written to injure the character of Gid Calloway in this community. The news of the publication reached Mrs. Calloway, the author of the letter, and she writes and re-asserts that she is Calloway's wife and that he described her without cause or provocation. She says she does not wish to punish him, but she does wish to warn young girls, with whom he might associate, to beware, as he is a smooth talker and means mischief. Mrs. smooth talker and means mischier.

The storm exhausted used it is widest of four miles, and reached at its widest him nearly ten years ago, and that all the point a distance of two miles. him nearly ten years ago, and that all the particulars can be gained in the community in which she resides, and where she has resided all her life, within eight miles of Knoxville, Tennessee. Her add ess for the present is No. 22, Grand Avenue,

Celebration Pledge.

I, the undersigned, agree to pay the sum set opposite my name toward a Fourth of July celebration in Pendleton. If $500 or more is not secured for the pur-poses of a celebration, then this pledge is null and void, and not binding upon the undersigned:

When Allen G. Thornean was a student town of Pendleton vs. Saunders & he was so famous in mathematics that he was nicknamed "Right-angle-triangle" Something About Job Printing.

thinks he knows a lot about the printer's prices, but he doesn't. Some men have come to us-we won't mention namesand dictated the price. Such men would not feel pleased to know our opinion of them: but we are too polite to think of telling them. One can't reason by analogy in the printing business, and the price of one job will not give the cost of another. There are so many things to be taken into consideration. The quality of paper may be different; there may be more matter, or the type may be changed, too; the paper may be a little larger or smaller; a change in price may seem unreasonable; the sheet may cut even originally, and to a waste next time, or a slight increase may necessitate printing signt increase may necessitate printing on a cylinder press instead of a jobber. All these considerations must enter into the printer's estimate. He can't sell his work like cheese or chalk, for so much a rich reservation will be sold in quarter section tracts to bona fide settlers, and Senator Mitchell has a bill in Congress to for us to give you, or any friend of yours, and to tell you, right here, that it is a pleasure for us to give you, or any friend of yours, want change the place of sale of these Indian an estimate on any job you may want lands from the land office at La Grande to the reservation. There is nothing to us, see our work, examine our facilities lands from the land office at La Grande to the reservation. There is nothing to binder Pendleton fulfilling its destiny in a few years, and becoming the third town in population and importance in the State. We reserve the second place for Salem, which relative position it-holds now, and which it proposes to retain by corresponding growth.

In Pendleton there is the East Orestonian, a well edited daily, with a good talearmhic service, and all the attributes and note heads, circulars, or blank books in the decision who need bill heads, cards, letterand note heads, circulars, or blank books. and note heads, circulars, or blank books of any kind, will find that our work is "all prizes and no blanks." Do you know the blind can read? They can, and judgment; but with this we have nothing to do just now. The question is about the survival of that paper as a daily. The publishers say they are sinking $250 a month on the daily issue, and they must have more patronage or later with the sinking have more patronage or later with this is how. The letters in books for the paper as a later with the sinking have a later with the sinking have more patronage or later with the sinking have a later with the sinking have a later with the sinking have a later with the survival of that paper as a later with the sinking have a later with the sinking have a later with the sinking have a later with have more patronage or later with this we have not have a later with this is how. The letters in books for the paper as a later with the survival of that paper as a later with the sinking have a later with t ing his hand over the page, feels the shape of each upraised letter, and thus spells out whole words and sentences. Novel idea this. Now, some of our rivals, so-called, have fallen into the mistake of supposing that their customers have lost and furnish patronage to keep the paper their sense of sight. As the printer has on its legs. The unefulners of a good it, their work is "printed for the blind." newspaper, such as the East Origonian. Such botch work would put old Guttenberg to shame, and might well cause Ben Franklin to turn in his narrow cell. We don't give away a chromo with every job. There must be a serious weakness some where when such means are resorted to to sell; but we do present with every job something, something better, and that is

A Cloud-Burst.

Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock a heavy storm swept over the Klickitat valley, across the river, the edge of it passing over Goldendale. The cloud came from the south, crossing the Columbia near Grants, and another came from the east, the two meeting west of Goldendale near the Happy Home settlement. The result of their meeting was a regular cloud-burst, the rain falling in torrents and washing the plowed ground away, to the full depth of the furrows.
On the hillsides rocks weighing a ton or more were washed out and into the canyons. Near the mountains hail fell to the depth of from two to four without cause or provocation. She says she does not wish to penish him, but she does not wish to penish him, but she does wish to warn young girls, with whom he might associate, to beware, as he is a smooth talker and me, as mischief. Mrs.

The North Pacific Industrial Association will, on Friday,June 15, at 10 o'clock a, m., lay the corner-tone in Portland of its magnificent Exposition and Zeological Gardents. The Grand Ledge of Masons of the State of Oregon has been invited to conduct the ceremonies, and Hon. Geb. H. Williams, of Portland, and Hon. El-rood Evans, of Tacoma, will be the principal speakers.
