

East Oregonian Branch Office.
The office of the EAST OREGONIAN is established in Portland in the ABINGTON building, second floor, under the management of Homer H. Hallock. He will be glad to have residents of Pendleton, and other Eastern Oregon generally, to make a visit when in Portland. He will be glad to render them any service in his power.

BREVITIES.

The paying drug business for sale on Walla terms. For particulars, inquire at this office.

Houser is now occupying the place in Houser's meat market lately occupied by Charles Rayburn.
Whittaker and J. A. Marston were on a hunting excursion Monday, and secured twenty-five prairie chickens of their skill as Nimrods.

Pendleton Academy, in charge of Slaughter, will be re-opened the Monday in September. This educational institution deserves patronage.
There is not a man in town who can be called the Daily EAST OREGONIAN one. Every little helps. Get one for the Daily. It's publication often helps the town.

Ask every reader of the Daily and Weekly EAST OREGONIAN to endeavor to secure one or more campaign tracts to it. Semi-Weekly, to November 15, 1888, 75 cents; Daily, $1.25.
The semi-weekly passenger train was held both Saturday and Sunday evening "hot box," one of those pleasurable events of travel that fills the hearts of conductor and passengers with number of drummers' sample for transfer in the depot warehouse Sunday evening was simply fine, and was only equaled by the more afforded the baggage-master reception.

Fraker, who is now engaged in his work at Milton, came down on Sunday evening for a holiday, and left to spend it in the mountains. He returned Sunday evening, and departed for Milton again this morning.

Deedy was released from jail and is in the care of his relatives, and is sick from his long confinement. Poor devil is to be pitied, despite the loss of largess which he has common. Loss of reason is a dreadful misfortune.

"Circus procession" to-day consisted of a band wagon, occupied by a number of drummers, who seemed anxious to make as much noise as possible on their instruments. It was a very poor affair for a "circus procession," to say the least.

J. P. Bushee has returned from his farm at Hot Springs, Union county, with considerable improvement in health from an indulgence in the hot baths at this invalids' resort. He will be received with pleasure by many friends.

Members of the law were out Saturday looking for a Chinaman who had stolen a leather Mongolian fifty dollars watch. They were unsuccessful in their attempts to "skip out," in the words of the "Moleman." He did not, but at last accounts his whereabouts remained a mystery.

Family of Mr. Latimer, formerly a member of the firm of Latimer & Fifield, now located in Ellensburg, W. T., are now to join him at that place. Mr. Latimer being located there at Knapp, Burrell & Co.

Reason was a quarter Saturday on a wager between him and George carrying a box of chickens on a table from the latter's place of business to a restaurant on lower Main. His friends are now anxiously waiting for his recovery in an advertisement under "New to-day."

A. B. Rothrock is in town from Adams today. He reports a yield of twenty-five bushels of splendid grain to the acre on his ranch near Adams, which yield will probably be duplicated throughout that entire section.

J. O. Kuhn writes from Union and says that McMahon's circus, which is in Pendleton to-day, gave excellent satisfaction at Union, every one who attended the show being delighted with the performances.

G. W. Babcock, of Walla Walla, was in Pendleton again Saturday evening to examine the work done on the new court house building, and returned Sunday morning.
At LaGrande a protective tariff club has been organized, with W. J. Snodgrass as president and J. W. Strange as secretary. Strange and "Snoddy" isn't it?

Watermelons are now plentiful in the Walla Walla market, and doctors are happy. Pendleton is always a month or so behind hand on the fruit question.
The excelsior and shoddy factory of Jonathan Tice was burned in Portland Saturday. Loss, $15,000 with no insurance.
W. C. Tilton, Link Jay, and Misses Belle Crisp and Ella Ward have returned from North Fork.
A. P. Sharpstein is dangerously sick at Spokane Falls with typhoid fever.
Red Lobenstein has returned from his mountain excursion.

The operators of the combined harvester have experienced considerable hard luck. When the huge machine was transported to Temple's farm, and was ready for operation, it was discovered that the counter shaft for the header was missing. It was shipped here among the other portions of the machine, and was seen by several parties in the court yard, but diligent search failed to discover its whereabouts. It was probably stolen, though what a thief would want with a counter shaft is a mystery. Its loss necessitates a delay of a week, until another can be shipped from Stockton, which is extremely vexatious.

From a private letter received by Chas. Isaac from Frank La Dow, it is learned that he and his mother are enjoying fully a tour of the New England States, visiting all their principal cities, and "taking in" their many points of interest to Western tourists. The letter gives an interesting description of a trip along the Hudson river, and other pleasant excursions, and also describes the "streets of New York" and the Brooklyn bridge. Frank has secured a furlough from the military academy he is attending, and together with his mother, is enjoying his new-found liberty to the utmost.

Charley Rayburn left Sunday evening for Portland, after bidding his friends a final good-bye, and expressing continually his regret at leaving Pendleton. His absence will be severely felt by his chums in this place, who liked and respected him at the same time. He goes to take a position in the great produce and meat market of Zimmermann, at Portland, the largest in the city. Charley deserves and will achieve success in Oregon's metropolis.

W. D. Fletcher, who spent Sunday in the mountains, brings back the report that there are perhaps two hundred people strung along the Umatilla and Meacham creeks as far up as Meacham station, there being nine families camping at the latter place. This estimate does not include Purdy's Springs. It is safe to say at least three hundred Pendletonites are now rusticated at various mountain resorts.

On one farmer's ranch near Weston, the wheat crop "panned out" fifty bushels to the acre, a surprising yield, even for that fertile section. The yield in that portion of Umatilla county will be all the way from twenty-five to fifty bushels, or an average of thirty to thirty-five bushels to the acre. For a boss wheat country, Eastern Umatilla takes the plum.

Emesley Ridenour, of the Weston Leader, will leave soon for the Greenhorn mountain mines, on a prospecting and recreation tour, to remain for some time. Mr. Ridenour has had considerable experience in mining in Alaska, and this will probably enable him to "prospect" intelligently. Anything is better than journalism, anyway.

E. R. Wheeler, Fred Waffle and R. C. Langry spent Sunday at North Fork camps up the Umatilla, and James Howard and L. Culp paid their respects at Meacham station on the same day. Both parties report a superb time in the "grand old mountains." Dancing was indulged in Saturday night at Meacham.

F. C. Campbell will leave for Teel Springs to-morrow. After remaining there a day or two, he will depart for the Greenhorn mountains, to look after his mining interests there, and to prospect for rich ledges yet undiscovered. He will remain until August 15, when he will return to Pendleton and establish a dental office.

Mr. Ed E. Sharon is ably editing the Pendleton Tribune while Mr. J. B. Eddy is visiting relatives in California. This notice is paid for by the Pendleton Electric Light Company who are under obligation to Mr. Sharon for his broad, cheerful and comprehensive puff in to-day's Tribune.

A game between the Stars and second nine of Pendleton, together with a large contingent of scrubs on both sides, took place Sunday, and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of twelve to ten. It was a pretty fair game, considering the promiscuous make-up of the contestants.

At a meeting of the Pendleton Baseball Association Sunday forenoon, articles of incorporation were drawn up and signed, and other business relating to the purchase of grounds, etc., transacted. It looks as though the baseball stock company is a "go."

The shade of the court-yard trees is the favorite resort of the idlers on Sunday, and on every other day also. The thought of what will become of the idle when the court-yard is partitioned into lots is a sad one for the philanthropist.

Two sorrel horses left or were taken from Estes & Guild's livery stable on Saturday. A reward of ten dollars is offered for their recovery or information leading to their recovery in an advertisement under "New to-day."

A. B. Rothrock is in town from Adams today. He reports a yield of twenty-five bushels of splendid grain to the acre on his ranch near Adams, which yield will probably be duplicated throughout that entire section.

AN INTERESTING SERMON.

Archbishop Gross, of Portland. Lectures at the Catholic Church.

Archbishop Gross delivered a lecture in the Catholic church Sunday at 11 A. M., as announced. He chose as his text the parable of the Pharisee and the Publican, who went up into the temple to pray, and the Pharisee swelled up in his pride, and averred that he was incapable of sin; the Publican prayed: "God be merciful unto me a miserable sinner." The latter's prayer could only be accepted by God. "He that exalteth himself shall be humbled, while he that humileth himself shall be exalted." The speaker then continued, in his earnest, forcible, eloquent manner, to explain the wide-spread hold upon the human race of the first and greatest of all sins of the human race, pride. Pride in man was detestable in the sight of God, inasmuch as he created the universe, and gave life to all its creatures, while insignificant man could create nothing—could not even give life to a blade of grass or to a simple seed. Man could manufacture a ship, a house, or an artificial flower, but he could not create the materials necessary in their manufacture, and he could not endow that flower with life. Such was the province of God alone, and pride in man was an attempt to set himself up as a god to be worshipped by himself and others, in imitation of the Deity, which could not be tolerated by God. Why should man be proud when he owed his very existence, his very being, the air he breathed, the food he ate, to the Creator? It was an almost unpardonable sin, but yet it had taken a firm hold upon us all. We were all proud, proud of our accomplishments and our standing among our fellow men. We should try to rid ourselves of this sin. Christ, in all His existence, had taught a lesson of humility, and His death upon the cross showed to what extent He was humbled. Humanity should follow the example of Christ, the great Savior and Teacher. The fallen angels had lost their place in Heaven through pride. Adam and Eve were driven out of paradise because of their sin. It was the first and greatest sin of the human race, and should be purged from the hearts of the people. The speaker's address was simple yet forcible, plain, yet eloquent throughout, and contained many beautiful thoughts and illustrations, which it is impossible to give here. The foregoing brief synopsis, can of course give no idea of the eloquence and power of his address, which could only be appreciated by full hearing. The lecture closed with an exhortation to the congregation against the sin of pride.

A Splendid Show Splendidly Advertised.

The Sells Brothers who, with their splendid amusement organization, have been before the public for over sixteen years, were never known to do any thing by halves. Whether in concentrating or in exhibiting the newest and most noted attraction that capital, energy and good judgment can procure, or in prominently, conspicuously and unprecedentedly announcing them to the public, they have no equal in America or, in fact, the world. Fame has been blatant in the praise of amusement organizations, other than theirs, which, in fact, does not deserve a moiety of popularity and patronage that should be, and is, extended to the Sells Brothers' always stupendous and always artistic exhibitions. Yet fame has never denied her laurels to the Sells Brothers' show, but the trophies she has bestowed have ever been for true and not for meretricious merit. They not only have an exceptionally entertaining and instructive exhibition but none know better the methods of bringing it prominently, noticeably before the people. Every bill board and dead wall within the city, and in the surrounding suburbs for a radius of twenty miles, is ablaze with most artistic and effective pictorial posters. Illustrated and curious programmes have been disseminated by the thousands, and the advertisement columns of the various city papers are replete with appropriately worded advertisements. As elsewhere announced the show will be in Pendleton on August 8th, afternoon and evening.

A Pitiful Story.

Charles Bushma, an old French trapper, who has been on the Pacific coast since he was a boy, was removed to Steilacoom Saturday, from Lewiston, Idaho, bereft of reason and paralyzed in his lower limbs. While in Pendleton, he was placed on a cot and sheltered in the warehouse, where a crowd of sympathizing spectators soon gathered. It was learned that he was badly frozen twelve years ago on a hunting excursion in the mountains, and had since that time been unable to use his legs, a terrible fate to live under. Nine months ago he lost his reason because of the horrible nature of his condition, and is now on his way to the asylum to die. He would jabber at the bystanders in an unintelligible way, probably in an attempt to relate his misfortunes, in a manner that was positively heart-rending. He is seventy years old, and is a pioneer of Oregon who was with the State in its infancy.

A Gang of Italians.

An emigrant car, choke-full of Italians, was hauled into Pendleton by the west-bound passenger, and left here over night, departing on the Walla Walla branch this morning. This gang came from Denver, and is destined for Riparia, where it will be put to work. Its members say they will receive from $2 to $2.25 for their labor from the railroad company. A trip through the car would have impressed upon the mind of the most obtuse the necessity for the restriction of foreign immigration; the senses of sight and of smell will generally appeal to the minds and reason of the average American, and would have been a most convincing and unanswerable argument. It was a very, very tough crowd, and hardly a degree above the despised Chinese laborers. Men have been passing through Pendleton for the same destination and purpose for the past fortnight, but this is the first importation of Italians; and it is hoped it will be the last.

We ask every reader of the Daily and Semi-Weekly EAST OREGONIAN to endeavor to secure one or more campaign subscribers to it. Semi-Weekly, to November 15, 1888, 75 cents; Daily $1.25.

The Pendleton Building Association has declared a dividend of eight per cent. Benj. B. Beekman, son of C. C. Beekman, of Jacksonville, graduated with high honors from the Yale College law school this year.

The Centervillians still continue to believe they can defeat the "Stars" in a game of baseball. If it does them good, they can flatter themselves in this regard all they please. It hurts nobody.
Two carloads of immigrants came in on the last evening's west-bound passenger, and left on the Walla Walla branch this morning, bound for the Palouse country. Immigration from the East continues. "Westward the Star of Empire takes its way."

An immense quantity of deceased eels floated down the Umatilla Sunday, a number of them lodging on the water pipe under the bridge. Some enterprising fisherman must have been exploring the river above town with dynamite, to cause such a surprising wholesale destruction.

The Milton Eagle man is mistaken. He says that the Umatilla river is so dry that not a drop of water runs through Pendleton; one mill is closed down and the other runs only on half time. The fact is both mills are running on full time and abundance of water is running down the river. What's the matter, Mr. Eagle man?

Union will have a baseball tournament. Premiums amounting to $450 are offered, first $200, second $150, and the third $100, is to be competed for by clubs from Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho, every club's members to be composed of resident players of the county in which it is organized. Besides these, one grand premium of $300 is offered to all clubs wishing to compete, the entrance fee being $10, and all entries to be made before August 20. The tournament begins August 27 and continues six days.

Walla Walla Statesman: Friday morning, near Waitsburg, the friction of the tumbling rod of Willard & Witt's threshing machine caused a fire, which consumed the separator, derrick outfit and 5,000 bushels of grain. Three hundred and fifty bushels of grain had been threshed, the balance being in the stack. The horse power was saved unharmed. The machine was bran new and cost $1,000. It was purchased on condition that it gave satisfaction, and was being tried, not yet having been accepted.

The Bank Don't Mature.

Neither Centerville nor Weston got the bank, and the banker that they were negotiating with, J. H. Bentley, the capitalist from the East, after considering the advantages and inducements of both places, was probably satisfied with neither, for he has gone to Medford, Jackson county, for the purpose of establishing a national bank there. In behalf of the people of both Centerville and Weston, and the East End generally, it is to be regretted that they were thus sorely disappointed; but Bentley is not the only fish in the sea of capital. Another may be safely angled for and landed by some one of the little towns of the East End, which, it would be hard to say.

Mayor Hewitt on Top.

Mayor Hewitt is resolved that there shall be no firing of cannon in the city of New York by political parties. Hence no cannon will be fired on Mr. Blaine's arrival. "I refused to permit the firing of salutes for the nomination of Cleveland, and again forbade it for Harrison," the mayor said, "and the ordinance against ordinance, so to speak, is going to be enforced right through this campaign. The law against cannonading for noise is good, and politics shall not nullify it. The boys may shout, but they can't explode gunpowder in this town."

NEW TO-DAY.

Protection or Tariff Reform.

Beyond question, the Tariff is the issue on which the coming campaign will be fought and it behooves every citizen who would vote intelligently to inform himself upon a subject which so closely affects his temporal welfare.

GEN. LIEB'S BOOK,
The Protective Tariff.
WHAT IT DOES FOR US,

Senders what is usually considered a most abstract subject, easy of comprehension. It will serve as a Tariff primer for the learner as well as a text-book for the learned. This book shows the practical effect of the Protective Tariff upon the country. Perhaps the most conspicuous feature of the book is its exact agreement with the message of President Cleveland.

The position of Mr. Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress" is taken up, his assertions upon the Tariff analyzed, criticized and made to furnish their own refutation.
INDORSEMENTS:
The form as well as the substance of the book is most admirable, and I have seen nothing surpassing it for use in the great work of spreading the truth among the people.
DON M. DICKINSON, Postmaster General.
It is an able and logical exposition of the injustice and delusions of the protective tariff. The work is timely, and a very valuable contribution to the literature of tariff reform.
R. W. TOWNSEND, M. C.
I notice that this book is receiving great commendation. It is bolstered upon fundamental truths, and I wish that the facts and arguments may be in the hands and minds of every citizen called upon this year to vote upon the great economical questions of surplus and tariff.
We take pleasure in giving this work our hearty indorsement, and recommend that local committees and clubs assist in extending its circulation among the voters of Illinois.
STATE DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF ILLINOIS.
And many others.
