PORTLAND POINTS. Four Depot Facilities—The E. O. Man Turns Good Samaritan—An Emigrant Family Gets Left.

PORTLAND, Oct. 19.—Things are in a very bad shape and decidedly inconvenient at the railroad terminals in the north end of town, where the several trains of the O. R. & N., Northern Pacific and the west-side division of the O. & C. arrive and depart daily.

As to the O. R. & N. company's facilities, it may be said that they are decidedly poor, but perhaps the company are in a measure excusable, as they were left nothing but Hopkins' choice of grounds by the time they got trains to run over the bridge.

UNDER WHICH FLAG? From the Indianapolis Labor Signal.

For some days the friends of General Harrison have scattered broadcast through the city placards bearing the red ensign of the British nation, and beneath forged extracts from English newspapers purporting to approve President Cleveland's tariff views.

FOR PRESIDENT. BENJAMIN HARRISON. HARRISON ON THE CHINESE. [Washington Dispatch to San Francisco Chronicle, June 18, 1888.]

General Harrison took the most radical position on the subject (Chinese Immigration) and argued that there would be precisely as much justice and propriety in excluding Germans and Irish as in excluding the Chinese.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT. LEVI P. MORTON. Late of the Canadian Pacific, and present partner of the English banking firm of Rose, Morton & Co.

HARRISON'S CHINESE RECORD. On April 28th, 1882, Ben. Harrison voted in the United States Senate to admit to this country free of the Chinese Restriction Act all Chinese "skilled laborers" and "Chinese engaged in mining."

Section 12, of the Chinese restriction act reads: "Section 12. That the words 'Chinese laborers,' wherever the same occurs, shall be construed to mean both skilled and unskilled laborers and Chinese employed in mining."

Senator Harrison voted to strike that section out. (Cong. Record, April 28, 1882, vol. 13, p. 3411.)

When the Miller twenty-year exclusion bill passed by a vote of 29 yeas to 15 noes, Senator Harrison was absent; but Senator Maxey, his "pair," announced that if present Senator Harrison would have voted no.

In the effort to pass that bill over President Arthur's veto, which failed for want of a two-thirds majority, Senator Harrison's vote was one of the 21 yeas against 29 yeas cast. (Cong. Record, vol. 1, p. 2517.)

On Senator Hoar's amendment, providing for the admission of Chinese artisans, the vote stood 19 yeas to 24 noes, Harrison voting aye. (Cong. Record, vol. 1, p. 1717.)

On Senator Ingall's motion to change the period of restriction from twenty to ten years, the vote stood, yeas 20, noes 21. Senator Maxey, who would have voted "no," stated that he was paired with Harrison, who would have voted "aye."

April 28, 1882, Senator Harrison voted for the Edmunds amendment to the clause providing that "Chinese laborers" should mean persons usually engaged in manual labor. (Cong. Record of that date.)

The second anti-Chinese bill, prepared after President Arthur's veto of the twenty-years bill, suspending Chinese immigration for ten years, passed the Senate April 28, 1882. Senator Harrison voted no. (See Cong. Record, April 28, 1882.)

On April 25, 1882, Benjamin Harrison voted in the United States Senate to strike out the Chinese restriction act section 14, which reads as follows: "Section 14. That hereafter no State Court and no Court of the United States shall admit Chinese to citizenship, and all laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed."

The difference between the two cards is simply this: The first is forged, and the monopoly managers are circulating it with a full knowledge of the fact. The second is absolutely true, as the Congressional records show. Mr. Harrison cannot dodge his Chinese record. It is a matter of history, and he must answer to the organized laboring men of the country for his action on the coolie labor bill as well as his attitude toward the railway strikers in 1877.

The Signal does not believe that any Knight of Labor, who has the least conception of the objects and aims of the order, will be found training under the Chinese flag. On the other hand we believe that every intelligent man will this year vote to make the fold stars and stripes an emblem of equal rights and justice to all citizens of the Republic. Down with the flag of China!
