Newsy Items of Interest from the Metropolis.

PORTLAND, Jan. 11.—The jury in the damage case of Mrs. Langford vs. the Drs. Jones returned a verdict at 9:15 this morning, awarding the plaintiff damages in the sum of $5000. Geo. H. Williams asked for and was allowed ten days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Meyers arrived last night from Tillamook having in charge C. J. Kellogg, charged with selling liquor to Indians. The defendant says that he furnished the liquor to the Indians while he was under the influence of liquor and when he got sobered up he immediately departed, but was soon overtaken by the officers. Another man by the name of James McGraw was brought down from Pendleton to answer to a charge of furnishing liquor to Weet Soot, a Umatilla Indian.

This morning a crazy woman appeared at the Quimby House in a semi-nude condition and was immediately put out. Some time this afternoon, she was captured on Taylor street and taken to the jail. She was crying for her eight-year-old daughter who she said was in the care of the Boys and Girls' Aid Society, and that they would not allow her to see her. The woman has been living a life of lewdness and that accounts for her child being taken in charge of the society. She was taken to the asylum this afternoon, and appeared rather better than when she was first captured, making very lucid replies to questions asked her.

Judge Shattuck held court at The Dalles today and Judge Bird has taken his place in this court till he returns.

A FIGHT OVER A WOMAN.

Two Young Men Meet in Battle on the Banks of a River with Fatal Result.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Particulars of a bloodthirsty and barbarous duel, fought near Louisville, Quebec, has been received here. Two young men named Charpentier and Trochette were aspirants for the hand of Mlle. Chimene, quarreled, and agreed to settle the matter by going to a point on the river bank and fighting with any weapon which came to hand. Firearms or cutting weapons to be excluded, until one of them was killed or fell insensible. Yesterday the meeting took place, the battle lasting about ten minutes, both using their fists at first, after which both took to stones. The end came when Charpentier's skull was crushed in by a blow from an iron bar, which Trochette had picked up. He then escaped. Charpentier is still alive, but the doctors say he cannot live. Mlle. Chemine has been out of her mind since the tragic affair happened.

Engineer Howe was thrown into the water tank and from there he fell to the ground. Fireman Lacey jumped out, fracturing his skull on a sharp substance, and dying instantly. No accident happened to the train, which came to a stand-still, the engine not even leaving the track.

FOREIGN NEWS.

AN ARAB KINGDOM ESTABLISHED

A Fine Old Time in Africa—Several Christians and a Large Number of Native Converts Murdered.

ZANZIBAR, Jan. 11.—News of a revolt massacre has reached here from Uganda. King Mewanga's country, on Lake Albert Nyanza south of Emin's province, which occurred last October. King Mewanga plotted to destroy his entire body guard by enticing them to an island in Lake Inger, and abandoning them to starve. The men of the guard were forewarned, however, and refused to do his bidding but instead, returned to the capital and attacked Mewanga, who fled in alarm, and his brother, Kivewa, was proclaimed king by the tribe. Kivewa, however gave great offence by appointing Christians to the principal offices in the kingdom. The enraged Arabs then murdered many of the Christian officers, forcing the king to replace them with Mohammedans. The Arabs then completed their work by burning the English and French mission stations and killing many of the native converts. The missionaries, who fled from Unganda, reached Gambois in safety. An accident happened to the mission boat near Eleanor, it being overturned and sunk by a hippopotamus. Five French convicts were drowned and a number of letters for Emin Bey and Stanley were destroyed. Mewanga is now a prisoner at Maga, from where he has appealed to the English missionaries for assistance. The Arabs are rejoicing over the whole occurrence and have written a letter to Missionary Mackay, exulting in their triumph, and prophesying the extinction of all the missionaries in Central Africa in revenge for England's slavery policy. Unganda is now a Mohammedan kingdom.

CONGRESS.

Proceedings of Both Houses—Filibustering in the House.

THURSDAY.

Weaver, of Iowa, raised no objection to the reading of the journal, but the clerk having concluded that, Weaver brought forward his two dilatory motions to adjourn, and that when the House adjourned it would meet on Saturday. Ballots and roll-calls were then the order until 1:40, when the House, recognizing its helplessness, adjourned.

Regarding the deadlock in the House over Weaver's persistent efforts to force consideration of the Oklahoma bill, the Democrats believe it would be useless for them to discipline Weaver by means of a caucus, as he refused to obey the edict of the last one. One Democratic member significantly remarked that the House would not brook Weaver's action many days longer, but that if necessary, a resolution of expulsion would be brought in.

Such extreme measure, however, is hardly to be expected, especially as Weaver is merely exercising a right which the rules accord him. Some of the Republican members contend that the speaker should decline to recognize Weaver or to make his filibustering motions. They claim that although such action of the speaker would be in the nature of a despotic exercise of power, it would be justified by the present exigency and would be in accordance with a precedent set by previous speakers.

Several measures of interest to the Pacific coast are being jeopardized by the filibustering tactics of the house. Lighthouse bills, life-saving bills and the river and the harbor bill are all delayed, and many, if not all, are in jeopardy. The friends of the Oklahoma bill have made up their minds that no business shall be transacted until this bill is voted on, or until a day for a vote was set. Having failed to secure a change in the rules so as to place some restriction on the power of obstructionists, the Oklahoma folks are going to try giving the house an exhibition of the practicial workings of the present rule. They declare that they might as well use the time of the house fighting against the abuse of the minority power as to let it be consumed in the ordinary way under the rules, in doing nothing.

If this plan is carried to its utmost, as General Weaver proposes it shall, it will make an extra session of the Fifty-first Congress unavoidable and fix the responsibility for it upon this House. It is the purpose of General Weaver to antagonize the appropriation bills, as well as all others, and such a course, if in any measure successful would be apt to result in the failure of one or more of these bills. The House appropriations committee has completed the regular annual appropriation bills, and passed three of them through the House. None of the appropriation bills from other committees have passed.

The extra session sentiment is very strong among Republicans, and has already been made apparent. They expect the fifty-first Congress to be called together in April, or May anyhow, but if they charge the responsibility upon this House it would be made easier for them. This fact, together with the general feeling of distrust on the part of Reed and his associates at the failure of the committees on rules and resolutions, will be calculated to make them anything but anxious to help the Democratic party out of the difficulty. If that party suffers from the minority power they have decided to uphold. Reed will not feel it his duty to come to their relief. If any extra session is made necessary by filibustering, it will cause him no concern.

After routine business, the Senate resumed consideration of the tariff bill at the paragraph taxing leather not especially enumerated at 15 per cent ad valorem. No amendment was offered.

Vance moved to amend the paragraph taxing calf-skin, etc., 25 cents per pound by reducing to 10 per cent ad valorem; lost.

On motion of Allison, paragraph 415, taxing manufactures of alabaster and amber 25 per cent ad valorem, was amended by omitting from it the words "cork or cork bark," and adding to it the words "osier or willow prepared for basket makers' use."

Paragraph 416, taxing manufactures of bone, etc., 30 per cent ad valorem, was, on motion of Allison, amended by adding to it "cork, or cork bark."

Allison moved to amend paragraph 425 by reducing the duty on pearls from 25 to 10 per cent ad valorem; adopted after some discussion.

Brown moved to increase the rate on precious stones, set, and not especially numerated, from 25 to 40 per cent ad valorem, so as to make it correspond with the amendment adopted yesterday as to jewelry, agreed to.

Brown moved to amend paragraph 440 (the last on the dutiable list), taxing watches and watch cases 25 per cent ad valorem, by adding to it "gold watches and gold watch cases 40 per cent ad valorem;" agreed to.

The clerk then proceeded to read the free list, beginning at paragraph 441.

Vance objected to the paragraph as to braids, plaids, laces, etc., suitable for ornamenting hats and bonnets, and moved to tax them 20 per cent ad valorem; rejected.

Plumb moved to make paragraph 527 read "fresh fish," striking out all other words.

No quorum voted and the bill was laid aside, twelve pages having been disposed of to day. Adjourned.

The Hunt road will in all probability be completed through Milton early next summer, says the Eagle.
