Reports are daily sent out from Seattle about strikes at Nome and other Alaskan points. They should be accepted with a grain of salt for obvious reasons.

Several members of the English parliament have recently been mobbed for indulging in free speech. Is this the sort of liberty that "Her Majesty's government" is busy forcing upon mankind?

It is figured out that the South African war is costing England $760 a minute. Yes, in interest bearing bonds which the labor of coming generations will have to pay, provided they are ever paid.

There was once a saying that "one good turn deserves another." It is said that President McKinley has changed the wording of this saying just a bit. His version of it is "one bad turn deserves another."

Ben Franklin was a democrat, a real democrat. He said "there never was a good war nor a bad peace." It is a pity that those who are responsible for government in England and America do not take this saying of Franklin's to heart.

There are a few men, who imagine they are democrats, that are trying by hook and crook, by trick or trade, to nominate some one in place of Bryan at the national democratic convention, and with the aid of money they hope to carry the country and turn it over to the same influences that now prevail over the republican party. Will they succeed? is the question.

The republican organs of the county having failed after four years effort in making people believe that Bryan is an imbecile have now started out on a new tack. They are now declaring he is an invalid, having destroyed his strength with his tongue. But Bryan says he never felt better in his life, and intimates that he even feels as well in every way as President McKinley.

The newspapers continue to do more to advance "fake" mining booms and excitements than all other influences, and much of it is done for nothing. Promise a man something for nothing and you can invariably get him to go on a fool's errand. This is true of the present "boom" in Alaska, by way of Seattle. There are some very nimble liars interested in that Northern stampede.

The strength behind W. J. Bryan is the confidence that the people have in the man. They believe that he is sincere, that he is earnest, and that he will do what he says. A great body of voters feel that he stands alone among the leaders in both parties as being more in sympathy with the plain people than with the privileged and the plutocratic. They know that he is not in the toils of the trusts, syndicates and combines, and that the Money Devil has no strings on him. Bryan is a free man, free in the same sense as was Abraham Lincoln when he was elected president of the United States in 1860. There is no hero worship about it. More than half the people favor the principles he advocates and have absolute confidence in his honesty, independence and courage. He may be an idol, but he is not a hero. The people are with him, because they are certain that he sympathizes with them.

It is intimated by the diplomats at Washington that the sultan of Turkey does not care whether or not an ultimatum is issued by the United States, because of his neglect to pay the $100,000 which this country is now demanding after years of promises, as the sultan is said to have means of reprisal at hand, in the fact that he has 3,500,000 followers in the Sulu islands of the Philippine group, whose devotion to the Caliph is fanatical. The sultan would have but to lift his finger and these Malays and Moros would join forces with the Tagalos. The war in Luzon would be extended in every direction throughout the islands, and the American forces would necessarily have to be greatly increased. The sultan is a sly dog, and owing to Uncle Sam's position in the Philippines he will have to await the Turkish potentate's pleasure. As this country becomes entangled in its alliances it will be made more and more the football of the old world's monarchs, the victim of their whims and fancies.

JIM HILL—RAILROADER.

James J. Hill is preparing to flood the Orient with American commerce.

For this purpose he is building the biggest steamships in the world—and they will be American ships.

Mr. Hill is an interesting man—a remarkable man.

He is president of the Great Northern railway and has been called the Jay Gould of the west. This phrase gives a meagre idea of the man's force. A better one was coined by Elbert Hubbad who said of him:

"You've either got to agree with him or kill him."

The comprehensiveness of his genius reveals itself in his latest move. A big railroad man—one of the biggest in the world—he is not afraid to become a big steamship man. He is gifted with the financial imagination.

Having with his railroad reached the Pacific and seen the Orient languishing for American goods, while the Great Northern languished for more Oriental freight, he resolved to force the connecting link.

To bring business to his railroad he will create business for his country.

* * *

China and Japan, he saw, were willing to consume all the American wheat and cotton they could get. They could not get much, because there were so few vessels in the Pacific carrying trade. James J. Hill by building five Great Easterns would give them more.

He saw, too, trade follow the flag in the Philippines and an open door preserved in China. He pictured himself with the facilities for carrying wheat from Minnesota to Shanghai and cotton from Tennessee to Tokio.

"Jim Hill's luck" is a current phrase in the Northwest, which owes everything to him and swears by him. He himself acknowledges luck as an important factor in his success, but that is either modesty or an amiable superstition. He must know that "Jim Hill's luck" is compounded of unsleeping sagacity and a fire of determination that melts all obstacles.

He is worth $50,000,000. If he lives another ten years, railroad men say, he will be worth $100,000,000.

His home is in St. Paul, which was a town of 5000 inhabitants when he settled there, a poor boy, at the age of eighteen.

Though an active worker all his life, Mr. Hill has a fine taste in art and literature. He owns a magnificent private library.

* * *

Hill practically owns the Great Northern railway system.

He has a large interest and is a controlling factor in the Baltimore and Ohio, the Northern Steamship company, in valuable iron, gold and copper properties, in terminal companies, in express companies and in real estate and private enterprises.

From a bankrupt road of less than three hundred miles in length he has created the great system of which he is president and which comprises more than six thousand miles of main track, reaching from St. Paul and the Great Lakes across the continent to the Pacific coast—a property which is paying handsome dividends upon a capitalization of $142,000,000, but which is valued at twice that amount.

Twenty-five years ago the St. Paul and Pacific railroad, then constructed as far as the western boundary of Minnesota, was sold to satisfy a mortgage. Mr. Hill saw an opportunity, but he was without means.

He had the confidence of moneyed acquaintances, and to them he unfolded his idea. It was local capital that he obtained, but it was sufficient.

This was his first streak of luck. Mr. Hill bonded this road and secured Eastern capital and began building west. He branched out into the big wheat fields and his road began to pay. The facility with which he has obtained money has been the wonder of financiers.

Having reached a point where he could obtain no more capital in this country, he went to Berlin and London. With money raised abroad the line was extended to Duluth, and then began the race across the continent to parallel the Northern Pacific, which had passed into the hands of Henry Villard after the collapse of Jay Gould. Soon after the Great Northern was completed to the Pacific coast the Northern Pacific again went into the hands of a receiver. The Northern Pacific had then and has now the better and more prolific territory, yet it did not pay.

All these achievements by one man served to strengthen him in the estimation of his financial backers.

That is because his method of making a railroad pay is to build up the country, and his method of building up the country is to encourage and help and educate the farmer.

Other railroads follow this policy today. They owe it to the example set by James J. Hill when he became the Father of the Northwest.

He improved the breed of stock throughout the country by buying blooded bulls and placing them at the disposal of farmers. He established farmers' institutes, which taught the best use of fertilizers, and the adaptability of certain soils.

These and a hundred other acts of intelligent helpfulness cost him large sums of money, but they made the Northwest and they made the Great Northern.

In technical matters of railroading Hill was equally sagacious. He was the first to see the ceremony of large freight cars, and the first to see that so-called "freight-car famine" could be done away with by enlarged terminals. The Great Northern terminals are relatively the best in the country.

POLITICAL NOTE AND COMMENT.

The populist party, which carried Spokane county, Washington, four years ago by 3000 majority, is now all in the ranks of the democracy. Bryan's recent visit largely brought this result about.

According to the Albany Democrat, a Lacomb man borrowed an overcoat to wear to the republican state convention, perhaps as an advertisement of prosperity. While there the coat was stolen from the cloak room of the hotel. The warning is a plain one.

The Dalles Times-Mountaineer: It matters but little to the taxpayer whether the public servants he chooses to serve him are republicans, democrats or populists, just as long as the money he pays as taxes is expended judiciously and economically. The taxpayer is more directly interested in local affairs, especially at county elections, than he is in national questions. It is good local government and economical administration he wants. He cannot afford to put grafters and jobbers into office.

Temperance

Women hold up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Favorite Prescription" as examples of what all medicines should be in absolute freedom from alcohol and narcotics. They are strictly temperance medicines. They contain no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic. False formulas of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Favorite Perscription" having been published by ignorant or unscrupulous persons, Dr. R. V. Pierce as president of the World's Dispenary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., the manufacturers of his remedies, offers one thousand dollars for any bottle of these medicines which on analysis shall show the presence either of alcohol or of opium, cocaine, or any other narcotic.

Suits against the originators and publishers of these false formulas have been instituted, and in order to effectually stop the publication of these malicious falsehoods, Dr. Pierce asks that his friends will send him copies of any circular, pamphlet, or other advertisement, in which the statement is made that "Golden Medical Discovery" or "Favorite Prescription" contains alcohol or opium or other narcotics. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Shilohs Cough and Consumption Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine ever known to science; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough, we earnestly ask you to try it. In United States and Canada 25c., 50c. and $1.00, and in England 1s. 2d. 2s. 3d. and 4s. 6d.
