The Portland Oregonian is in a happy frame of mind over Quay's defeat. The Portland paper exclaims: "A cheap lot of unprincipled politicians in the senate, who voted against the seating of Corbett, have voted for the seating of Quay. But it did not geographical pole. Now suppose the avail." If Corbett had been given a seat in the senate the Oregonian would not have enjoyed Quay's defeat. But since he wasn't, it does. Here the reader can gather an inkling of the principle which at times is behind the Oregonian's editorial utterances. The "unprincipled politicians" referred to appear to possess about the same kind of principle as does the Portland paper, in that they voted against Corbett because they had no interest in him personally and for Quay because they had. The Oregonian condemns true positions. them for voting against Corbett because it had and still has a personal interest in him, while it had and has none in Quay. The right of both Quay and Corbett to a seat in the senate was nil, as the claims of each were created by personal influence, improperly and immorally used on those who had the appointing power and who were more or less under their respective control.

Herr Halm explains the variation in the amount of the disturbance that the sun produces in the rotation of the earth by means of the ever mysterious sun spots. It is a fact well established that when they are most numerous magnetic storms and disturbances of the earth's magnetism are most frequent. By comparing the statistics of sun spots, which occur in periods of about eleven years, with the statistics that show the irregular wanderings of the North Pole, he detects a singular coincidence between them. After one The increase in Japanese immigra- of the great paroxysms of the sun has on is giving cause for alarm in some passed the carthin tion is giving cause for alarm in some passed the earth's axis becomes quarters. The Japanese are no adsteader. This corresponds with what vantage to the country, at least, not magnetic influence of the sun, at the time when it is most excited by sun spots, really produces a straining of the molecules of the earth in the direction of its magnetic poles, according to

These facts certainly give one a new point of view from which to contem-plate the globe which is our dwelling place. A great outburst takes place in ninety-three million mile away. Instantly the earth thrills with a freshening of its electro-magnetic forces derived from the mighty dynamo in the sky. Its molecule strive to arrange themselves along the lines of force, and a distortion of its huge body sufficient to set its axis into oscillation and to drag its poles from their due place is the result. Then the surples of electric and magnetic force passes off into space; the atmosphere about the magnetic poles and all over the Arctic and Antarctic regions glows and flashes with the colored lights of the Aurora Borealis and the Aurora Australis. And when in this manner the great earth magnet has discharged its superabundant energy the strain is released, the deformation of its figure ceases, the poles swing back toward their regular position and the smooth spinning of the gigantic top is resumed until it sleeps again upon its unvary ing axie.

It is probable that the opening de ade of the twentieth century will see the solution of many of the questions that are suggested by this theory of the sun's magnetic and electric power over the earth, and it seems not unlikely that along this line most momentous discoveries concerning the solar influence on the origin and maintenane f life upon the earth will be made

Another question that I am asked is Another question that I am asked is:
Is professional success a bar to happy marriages? Does the author, the artist, the actor fail to be happy after he has succeeded in what the world calls success, with his early married helpmate? I would say yes, it often happens that happiness fades away in such cases. There are perhaps severa causes for this. One is the fact that a couple frequently begins life on the same intellectual footing. For a time they are companions. But soon the wife becomes wholly absorbed in housesold cares and ceases to grow. But the usband goes on increasing in know edge, and at last there is an intellectnal gulf bewteen the two.

And I am asked: Will such a thing is the petty tyranny of a woman reall; be enough to prevent a man of any genius from achieving success? sometimes—frequently, The petry tyrannies of tant that it be kept free of all impurities, or it becomes a source of disease, poisoning instead of nourishing the body, and loss of health is sure to follow. Some poisons enter the blood from without, through the skin by absorption, or Some possons enter the blood from without, through the skin by absorption, of inoculation; others from within, as when waste products accumulate in the system and ferment, allowing disease germs to develop and be taken into the circulation. While all blood troubles have one common origin, each has some peculiarity to distinguish it from the other. Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Eczema and other blood diseases can be distinguished by a certain sore, ulcer, eruption or inflammation appearing on the skin. Every blood disease shows receiver or later on the outside and on the weakest part of the disease shows sooner or later on the outside and on the weakest part of the body, or where it finds the least resistance. Many mistake the sore or outward sign for the real disease, and attempt a cure by the use of salves, liniments and other external applications. Valuable time is lost and no permanent benefit derived from such treatment.

Chronic Ulcers.

Contagious

Blood Poison,

BLOOD TROUBLES REQUIRE BLOOD REMEDIES; the poison must be completely and permanently eradicated—the blood reinforced, purified and cleansed, or the disease goes deeper and saps the very life. Mercury, potash and arsenic, the treatment usually prescribed in this class of diseases, are violent poisons, even when taken in small doses—never cure, but do much harm by adding another poison to the already overburdened, diseased blood.

S. S. Nature's own remedy, made of roots and herbs, attacks the disease in the blood, antidotes and forces out all impurities, makes weak, thin blood rich, strong and healthy, and at the same time builds up the general health. S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the only one that can reach deep-seated blood troubles. A record of 50 years of successful cures proves it to be a reliable, unfailing specific for all blood and skin troubles.
