THE ESTES CASE.

Apparent that Allen Lost His Temper. Wanted Complaint for Carrying Concealed Weapon.

The Hob Estes case has been a subject of quite general discussion since the affair of Monday night in Est Allen's saloon. The holding of Estes in $100 bonds and his subsequent release on his own recognizance have caused very common comment, and inquiry as to why such action was taken. The facts are now understood to be as follows:

Mr. Allen desired to have Estes arrested on a complaint for carrying a concealed weapon, instead of having an information filed by the district attorney for assault with a dangerous weapon. Mr. Allen was loath to appear as prosecuting witness, and even after Estes had been held in $100 bonds, asked Justice Rosenberg to release Estes on his own recognizance. This was done, inasmuch as it was apparent that Mr. Allen did not intend to prosecute Estes for the crime which had been charged.

Friends of Estes claim that it could be established in court that Mr. Allen was guilty of an assault, and that Estes did not draw a pistol at any time. The only evidence in the justice court which was introduced showed that Estes had marks on his neck indicating that he had been roughly handled, and that the marks were made by the fingers of someone who had choked Estes, apparently from behind. It was not shown that Estes drew a pistol, but that it dropped to the floor from his pocket, and was picked up by a bystander.

A general misapprehension has prevailed regarding the case. The action taken by Justice Rosenberg in the premises is now endorsed. The two principals, Mr. Allen and Bob Estes, have adjusted their differences and it is the belief that, when the case comes before the circuit court at the June term, Estes will not be prosecuted. With this outcome clearly in view, it was thought by the justice useless to hold Estes on expense to the county, and he was released.

Mr. Allen's request for Estes' release was evidence that he had no intention of appearing as a prosecuting witness against Estes. Mr. Allen having admitted that he was hasty and had given way to a fit of temper in seizing Estes, the whole case takes on a different aspect.

FALSE REPORT OF UMATILLA INDIANS. Some Romancer Tells Walla Walla Paper of Danger of Outbreak. A report has been printed by the Walla Walla Union to the following effect:

"The war department yesterday afternoon directed Captain Cheever, commander at Fort Walla Walla, to proceed to Umatilla at once and investigate a dispute that has occurred between the Indians near that place and the civil authorities. The captain left giving orders to have a detail of twenty-one men follow him at a moment's notice in a special train if necessary.

"It is very evident that an outbreak is feared and while it would not last long there are enough Indians in the vicinity to make it warm for the settlers for a short time, at least.

"According to the report received here by Captain Cheever, the sheriff of Umatilla county informed the Indians that they could begin shooting as soon as they cared to. This is an indication that the dispute was at the danger point. There may be serious trouble.

"The controversy arose over the efforts of the civil authorities of Umatilla county to collect taxes on the personal property of the Indians, which consists chiefly of ponies. They were assessed on the grounds that they have TONGUE MUST HAVE TOLD IT. A Newspaper Story Concerning Hermann and Tongue.

The Washington Post prints an interesting story about two Oregon men. It appears that Representative Curtis, of Kansas, one of the popular Western members of the house, was in the general land office recently, and having known Hermann in the days when the latter was representing an Oregon district, they chatted and laughed a great deal. Curtis probably wanted to get something out of Hermann, for he commended his management of the land office in the highest possible terms. Of course, nothing could be more pleasing to Hermann than to have a man stop over and sing his praises, and he retorted by speaking in a similar tone regarding Mr. Curtis and his congressional career. But Mr. Curtis went further, and said it was a great pity that Oregon had not continued Mr. Hermann in congress, and expressed the regret which he, himself, and his colleagues in congress felt when they heard that Mr. Hermann had not been re-nominated. As he was growing eloquent on this line, Hermann began to cough and look sad and solemn. Curtis scarcely understood why the chilliness came over the oratorical commissioner, until he happened to turn around and see that Representative Tongue, of Oregon, was also in the room. It then finally dawned upon him that it was Tongue who beat Hermann for the nomination.

Mormon Trekking. Five hundred Mormons have commenced to trek from the valley of the Jordan in Utah to the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming. A large bunch of cattle horses and sheep was recently started from Morgan City and a week later the colonists began trekking over the mountains. The Mormons expect to be on the road about six weeks. They have been attracted to the Big Horn Basin by the building of the Burlington railroad there. Permission to build this railroad through the Crow Indian reservation was recently granted by the government. The branch will leave the Billings line at Toluca, Mont., and run in a southerly direction to Coaly, Wyo., a distance of 110 miles.

It is made of steel, and is graduated to feet, inches and fractional parts of an inch. It is provided with stop-slots, and counter stop-slots so that it can be held at any desired length, and easily extended or reduced.

No one could ask more. 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1 a bottle. Tallman & Co., leading druggists.

Beautifying Railway Stations. The beautifying of station grounds has become a special feature of many railroads, and probably one of the most extensive preparations in this direction is that recently outlined by the management of the Rock Island. Every station on its line is to be beautified by one or more skillfully designed parks, ornamented with fountains where water service is available. The care of the station grounds will be in charge of the expense of the company. Flowers, foliage plants, and shrubbery will be set out in artistic shape, and such other improvements made as local conditions suggest. Many of the stations are already supplied with parks, which can be improved and maintained at the expense of a small outlay of labor and expense. While at other stations new grounds will be laid out and beautified.
