recorded in Great Britain August 29, 1880. Another peculiar feature was that this eclipse was only visible in the middle of the Pacific ocean. Fortunately for the cause of science, a group of coral islands lay in its neighborhood. America, England, France, Italy and Australia were all represented.

During the total eclipse of the sun, August 7, 1880, which was visible in Alaska, the Indians of the Chilkat river were greatly alarmed. Professor Benjamin Price of the United States coast survey had gone with a party to Alaska to observe and report the eclipse and had warned the Indians, but they had refused to believe him until the sun was half obscured. Then they all disappeared and not a sound was heard throughout their village. They had made up their aboriginal minds that the scientists were taking care of matters—that the sun was 'very sick' and they had 'put it to sleep.' *

that money has been sent, or will be sent, from Portland, into Umatilla county, to influence the election in the county in favor of the republican legislative ticket, and this is an attack upon the integrity of every citizen in the county, which should not be allowed to go unnoticed. Why should political managers be allowed to consider the voters of this county purchasable cattle? Why should not the insult be avenged at the polls? The man who would send money into a county to influence the result of elections, and those who receive it, are enemies of American institutions, under which the people are supposed to carry on local self-government without outside meddling or undue influence of any kind, on the part of those not identified with home affairs. A man of wealth, in Portland for instance, having political desires and ambitions, probably thinks it proper to use his money for election purposes in Umatilla county, but when he does so he commits a crime against popular government that is more far-reaching for evil than if he robbed a church or scuttled a ship.

TOTAL ECLIPSES OF THE SUN.

A total eclipse of the sun is announced as the most important celestial phenomenon of 1900, and although the frequency with which solar totality occurs, and the scientific knowledge which has robbed it of the mystery and even the terror which formerly accompanied it, great value in astronomical circles is given to its occurrence. In fact, there is a doubt as to the totality being visible in America, the leading astronomers locating it in Spain, and naming 1925 as the date of a total solar eclipse in the United States. Be this as it may, elaborate preparations are to be made for the occurrence on May 28, when the southern railway will run an eclipse train from New Orleans to Norfolk, and another epoch will be accentuated by progression in science. Among the elegant modern distinctions of railway travel smoking glass will be a leading feature, and the only drawback anticipated will be a cloudy day, or a total absence of the expected eclipse.

The earliest records of solar eclipses are ascribed to Confucius, and of these three were total, and they are not regarded as scientific facts, but as had omens. He recorded that the total eclipse was greeted as such phenomenon is received at the present time by the Chinese people, with the beating of gongs, wild cries and a savage uproar, all of which is supposed to drive off the monster who is 'eating up the friendly sun.'

One of the eclipses of antiquity was famous for two events. One was that it was foretold by an astrologer of the philosophical school of the time, 385 B. C., and its alarming appearance stopped a battle between the Lydians and the Medes. The sudden darkness convinced the combatants that the gods were wroth and they at once ceased fighting. The prophets took advantage of their own ignorance and the terrors of the people to predict direful things, which in many cases being the result of unfortunate conditions—thus adding to their terror of the sun and inspiring a new reverence for the powers of the prophet.

Two famous eclipses occurred in Europe during the ninth century. A total eclipse in A. D. 840 frightened Emperor Louis of Bavaria to death and destroyed his kingdom. Other eclipses had the same effect on rulers, which was so disastrous that some wise men among those in power gave out the death of the king as an event of such moment that the heavens, shocked at the suddenness of the fatality went into mourning.

In 1715, in May, an eclipse of the sun was predicted in London by a pamphlet, 'The Black Day, or the Prospect of Doomslay.' Great preparation was made for the unwelcome shadow, and it was related afterward that in spite of the 'awesome dark,' no one of prominence died, nor did any public disaster overtake the country.

An eclipse of special interest to America was that of October 27, 1780, when the first American eclipse expedition was fitted out, destined to be followed by many and greatly improved solar institutions, securing results of wonderful scientific accuracy and developing much valuable astronomical material. Several eclipses of minor scientific importance were recorded between 1853 and 1889, but in the latter year two appeared. The first ushered in the new year and was visible from California to Manitoba. The weather was favorable at all points along the line, and many photographs were made. The second eclipse of the year occurred in December and was visible in South America.

On more than one occasion in history there is a record of the special darkness which accompanies an eclipse, disclosing the presence of a comet, but the eclipse of 1882 was the first time that a comet was photographed by the astronomers. This eclipse was observed by astronomers representing England, France and Italy.

The total eclipse of May, 1883, had some special dramatic features about it. To begin with, the duration was unusually long, nearly five and a half minutes. The greatest duration of totality was six and a half minutes,

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy. Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no hope out of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time cannot assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place; for the disease is in the blood—is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plaster. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effete matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you? Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so polluted that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the eyelid, lip or other cause so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S. at once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells.

Mrs. R. Shire, La Plata, Mo., writes: "A small pimple came on my jaw about one inch below the ear on the left side of my face. At first it gave me no trouble, and I did not think it was anything serious until the jaw began to swell and became much inflamed. At the same time the sore began to spread and eat into the flesh, and gave me intense pain. I tried everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. I then took several bottles of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles the Cancer healed, and there is now no sign of the disease. This was two years ago, and I am still enjoying perfect health."

Send for our special book on Cancer; it contains much information that will interest you; it is free.

Write our physicians about your case, and for any advice or information wanted; they have made a life study of Cancer and all blood diseases. We make no charge whatever for this.
