insufficient evidence submitted, Major Rathbone's disclosures would be sensa-Rathbone's disclosures would be sensa-tional and timely. There might be a possibility of reopening the case for investigation and the seat might be pronounced vacant, dating back to the time of Mr. Hanna's election. This is unlikely, but possible. Senator Hanna recommended Rath-bone for the job in Cuba. He not only wrote a strong letter indersing him, but he personally solicited his aunoint.

but he personally solicited his appoint ment. It is said that Hanna is now saying that he made no effort to have Rathlene appointed; that he did not urge him for the place, and that all he did was to write a formal letter of indorsement.

There are many here who believe that it is because of this threat of Rathbone's that he is being treated so considerately by the administration.
