THE CASUALTIES AT MAPEKING.

General Rundle Occupies Sennekal, the Boers Being Driven Out by the Firing of a Few Shells.

London, May 28.—Although the details are said to be preparing for a strong resistance at Klip river, those who have closely followed the progress of the war are skeptical as to the burghers seriously disputing Lord Roberts' advance there. If no stand is made at the Klip river, the safety of the Boers guns at Laing's Nek will be seriously imperiled. Lord Roberts may be forced to halt his forces at the Vaal river to repair a bridge and get his guns and transports across, but mounted men will not be delayed. A speedy announcement of the arrival of the British cavalry at Johannesburg will not surprise the war office.

RUNDLE OCCUPIES SENNEKAL.

General Rundle has occupied Sennekal. The Boers were driven out by a few shells. The field cornet and a number of other Boers were killed. The British casualties were eleven. The Boers are believed to be concentrating near Bethlehem.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

The Boer Resolution of Sympathy: Anti-Trust Bill; Alaskan Bill Passed. Washington, May 28.—In the senate this morning Senator Hale presented a partial report to the conference committee on the naval appropriation bill, which was adopted. Wellington called up Teller's resolution, expressing sympathy for the Boers. Wellington maintained that congress would not have performed the full measure of its duty if, before the adjournment, it did not take definite action in favor of the Boers.

THE ANTI-TRUST BILL.

Washington, May 28.—In the house Dalzell gave notice that the committee on rules would report the special rule, setting aside Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for consideration of the anti-trust bill and the resolution reported by the judiciary committee. The house then resumed consideration of portions of the Alaskan civil government bill, which was passed over last week.

During the debate Driggs resorted to the charge of extravagance in fitting up the transport Sumner. He charged that $25,000 was spent upon her; her original cost being $169,000.

The Alaskan code bill was then passed.

BIG LEASE IN WYOMING.

Million Acres of Grazing Lands Belonging to Union Pacific. The largest lease which has ever been made of grazing land in the west was consummated when the Union Pacific Land company leased to the Wool Growers' Association of Wyoming nearly 1,000,000 acres of land in Carbon county, Wyoming, for a winter range for sheep grazing.

The effecting of the lease will do much to prevent the friction which has existed in the past between the owners of sheep in Utah and western counties and Carbon and other counties further east.

During the winter it has been necessary to keep sheep moving west from Rawlins in order to find water. As the herds got into Sweetwater county they met other herds which were driven east from Utah and other western counties. The flocks intermixed and much trouble resulted among their owners, which will in the future be avoided by the leasing of this large tract from the railroad company, which gives the association an immense range.

This area will be divided among the members, each one paying his proportionate part of the expense toward maintenance. Similar arrangements with the railroad company will probably be made by the owners of herds in the western part of Wyoming for land in that section of the state.

ORIGIN OF VISITING CARDS.

They Were First Used to Guard Against Mistakes of Careless Servants. "The use of visiting cards dates back to quite an antiquity," explains Mrs. Van Koert Schuyler, in the May Ladies' Home Journal. "Formerly the porter at the lodge or door of great houses kept a visitors' book, in which he scribbled his idea of the names of those who called upon the master and his family, and to whose inspection it was submitted from time to time. One fine gentleman, a scion of the nobility from the Faubourg St. Germain, was shocked to find that his porter kept so poor a register of the names of those who had called upon him. The names, badly written with spluttering pen and pale or muddy ink, suggested to him the idea of writing his own name upon slips of paper or bits of cardboard in advance of calling upon his neighbors lest his name should fare as badly at the hands of their porters. This custom soon became generally established."

A TEST OF HONESTY.

A lawyer took in a new boy the other day, as he had suffered to some extent from the deceptions of the former one, he determined to try the new boy's honesty at once. He there fore placed a $5 note under a weight on his desk and walked out without a word. Upon his return half a dollar in silver had taken its place. "Boy, when I went out I left $5 under this weight." "Yes, sir; but you hadn't been gone five minutes when a man came in with a bill against you for $4.50. I guess the change is correct?" "You paid the bill?" "Yes, sir; there it is, all receipts. The man said it had slipped your mind for the past four years and so—" He did not get any further before he made a rush for the door. That boy is not in the law business any more.

PIGMY RACE IN EUROPE.

It seems to be tolerably certain that there was once a race of pigmies living in Europe. Discoveries pointing in that direction have been made in three places. Some skeletons were found near Schaffhausen which measures only 4 1/2 feet. Another skeleton of about the same dimensions, found in the same neighborhood, has lately been examined after lying neglected in a drawer in a local museum for more than sixty years. Similar finds have been made also in the Pyrenees. So long as the first of these discoveries stood by itself the theory that it represented remains of the primitive population carried but little weight. The fresh evidence is tantamount to proof.

The Oregon Telephone company has made arrangements for the immediate construction of a telephone line.

The time of the totality was one minute and twenty-five and three-tenths seconds. Professor Pickering says that two large solar protuberances were noted. Cabot Observatory, Sileom, Ga., May 28.—The observations of the eclipse here were a complete success. Corona was strikingly like that of the eclipse in India in 1898.

Lick Observatory, Calif., May 28.—Professor Kerr said today the observation of the eclipse from Mount Hamilton was very successful.

C., May 28.—Observations were made here by scientists from the Smithsonian institute, English Astronomical Society, of London, York's Observatory, Princeton University, Charleston military institute and representatives from Toronto, Ont.
