NO IMPROVEMENT IN CHINA

The "Boxers" Are Still Creating Disturbances There.

AN AMERICAN WOMAN IS A VICTIM

Rumors of a Settlement; British Troops Sail From Hong Kong for Tien Tsin; Trouble at Che Foo.

New York, June 13.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: There is a general feeling in diplomatic circles here that the European powers have been united by the dismissal of Prince Ching, the purging of Tsung Li Yamen of all moderate men and by the Empress Dowager going over to the boxers, bag and baggage, and that the powers have been forced to co-operate in the restoration of order at Pekin, even if the services of the Russian troops were required.

Assault Upon Foreign Representatives.

Washington, June 13.—Official dispatches received here in diplomatic quarters show that rioting in Pein has reached an acute stage, with the rioters directing the assaults against the members of the different foreign legations there. The secretary of the Belgian legation was attacked twice on Monday and only escaped after being maltreated. Two officials of the British legation were attacked by a crowd of roughs but the Englishmen made a retreat without bodily injury. The British summer quarters four miles from Pekin, were burned. They belonged to the British government, which gives added significance to the depredation.

Minister Conger's Belief.

Washington, June 13.—A cablegram received by the state department from Minister Conger, at Pekin, states that Tuan, the father of the heir apparent, has been appointed president of Tsung Li Ymen; also three other new ministers have been appointed, all of whom affiliate with the party opposed to the foreigners. Conger reports the situation not improved. Guards are repairing the railway and as soon as they arrive at Pekin it is Conger's belief that the safety of the foreigners at that capitol will be then assured.

EASTERN OREGON NEEDS CORN.

Buyers Say Cattle Will Bring Higher Prices on the Markets Everywhere.

The question has been raised as to whether cornfed cattle are superior to grassfed. A livestock buyer from east of Oregon recently asserted that Oregon was a fine sheep state, but produced an inferior grade of cattle, comparing her cattle with those of states in which corn is fed them. Taking up the issue, the Portland Evening Telegram editorially says that this is all bosh, or words to that effect, in this manner:

"A man who comes to Oregon every year to buy sheep was quoted Saturday, in an interview, as saying that Oregon produced the best sheep in the country; that large portions of Oregon were excellently adapted to raising sheep; but he intimated that it was an inferior cattle country. His ignorance betrayed in the latter part of his statement is presumably due to the fact that he has observed carefully and discriminatingly only that kind of stock in which he deals, and in which he is interested—sheep. If he had been in the cattle-buying business as long as he has been in the sheep-buying business he would have said something as favorable about Oregon cattle as he said about Oregon sheep. In so far as corn and fodder help to make superior cattle, Oregon is lacking, but corn is not so necessary to the production of first-class cattle as it is to the best development of hogs. Many portions of Oregon are especially well adapted to cattle-raising, and Oregon cattle are prime favorites in the stockyards of South Omaha and Chicago. Both Eastern Oregon—Union and Wallowa counties, and portions of nearly all other counties; and much of Western Oregon—the Willamette Valley, and parts of the coast counties and of Southern Oregon—produce, or can produce, as fine cattle as can be grown anywhere in the Union. The climate is almost perfection for cattle-raising, the water is pure and plentiful, grasses are various and abundant, and the consequence is that with proper care—much less is necessary than in the Eastern States—the cattle of Oregon are, or can easily be made, equal to any raised in any state in the Union."

This was shown by the East Oregonian to a well known and reliable cattle handler, whose word is regarded as good as whose judgment is excellent. He said:

"The position of the Telegram is absurd. Anyone who knows a steer from a giraffe knows that there are no cattle in the world like the cornfed. The prices paid for cattle in the world's markets proves that the cornfed are universally acknowledged to be the best that are bred. These are facts that all cattle men well posted know and do not question.

"Oregon's climate is perfect for the growing of cattle, but that is not the question. It is a question of feed. And until Oregon finds out how to raise corn to feed toher cattle, they will have to undersell the cornfed steers of the east and middle west in Chicago and Omaha and Kansas City markets.

"I think it a better plan to admit the fact, and then urge the farmers to discover some way in which to remedy the difficulty.

"Recently, I found a prime lot of steers at Athena, in this county, and they had been fattended on corn. There was no hesitancy in paying a premium for those cattle, for they were worth it. And any cattle buyer would have done the same. Cornfed cattle beat grassfed cattle and this is a grim fact. Let Oregon cattlemen learn to raise corn, and thus overcome the disadvantage now possessed by the corn sections."

ROBERTS AND BOTHA FIGHT

Though the English Gain Some Ground the Boers Were Not Defeated.

BATTLE 16 MILES EAST OF PRETORIA

The Gallant Soldier, the Earl of Airlie, was Killed; Roberts is Confident of a Great Victory Soon.

London, June 13.—Lord Roberts' line of communication has been practically restored by a complete victory gained by Generals Methuen and Kitchener over General Dewit yesterday. The Boer camp was captured and the Burghters scattered in all directions.

Lord Roberts fought a battle with General Botha at the end of which, though the British gained considerable ground, the Boers were not beaten. All is quiet at Pretoria and Johannesburg.

The Battle Between Roberts and Botha.

Lord Roberts sends dispatch as follows from Pretoria: "After surrendering the city, General Botha retired to a place 15 miles east. I attacked him on Monday. I sent General French round by our left, and General Ian Hamilton round by our right. Both columns met with great opposition from Botha's forces. About three o'clock in the afternoon I saw two infantry battalions advance to what appeared to be the key of the enemy's defense on the left flank. This done, it was almost dark and I ordered our force to bivouac on the ground it had won.

At Rhenestar river Monday General Methuen gained a complete victory over General Dewit and took possession of his camp and scattered his troops in all directions. General Methuen and Kitchener marched today toward Kroonstad. Her Majesty's government need have no apprehension as to the security of the British in South Africa. The enemy gained a slight success, which will be remedied very shortly, and it will not take long to repair the damage to the railway. Our losses Monday are not serious, but I deplore the death of that gallant soldier, the Earl of Airlie. The only other casualities reported as yet are: Major Lionel Fortesque and Lieut. C. Cavendish, both of whom were in Monday's battle."

The Dead Were Prominent.

London, June 13.—The Earl of Airlie, whose death Lord Roberts deplores, was one of the most popular members of the nobility and commanded the 12th Lancers. Lieut. Cavendish was the son and heir of Lord Chesham. Major Fortesque was formerly the aide de camp to Lord Seymour, in Canada.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TICKETS.

Secretary Long Has a Strong Following for Vice-President.

New York, June 13.—The vice presidency is the principal subject discussed by the republican politicians now in this city.

Senator Platt says: "Governor Roosevelt is not to be thought of in connection with the vice-presidential nomination."

"I cannot see anything new in the situation," said Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island. "Of course I favor the nomination of Secretary Long for vice president by the republicans."

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, declared the entire New England delegation will be for Long for vice president.

Democratic National Committee.

Chicago, June 13.—Chairman Jones says the democratic national committee will meet the sub-committee on arrangements for the convention at Kansas City next Friday, when the election of temporary chairman will be made. Governor Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, seems to have an excellent chance for the position.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Makes hot breakfast-breads wholesome—no yeast germs, no alum. Makes cake, biscuit and pastry of superior fineness, flavor and delicacy. Makes food that will keep moist and sweet. Is most economical, because it is the purest and greatest in leavening strength. In the easy, expeditious preparation of the finer cakes and pastries, Royal is indispensable.

Care must be taken to avoid baking powders made from alum. Such powders are sold cheap, because they cost but a few cents per pound. Not only will they spoil the cake, but alum is a corrosive acid, which taken in food means injury to health.
