What the French monarch said of the state Mr. McKinley can with more truth say of his party: "The republican policy—it is mine!" and his man Hanna runs it.

Carter Harrison would make an excellent candidate for vice-president on the ticket with W. J. Bryan. He would strengthen the democratic ticket as much, at least, as will Roosevelt the republican ticket.

There has been little enthusiasm over the work of the Philadelphia convention. The convention proceedings were done to a turn before the convention assembled so that the people took no interest in them.

The amount of gold and gold certificates in circulation on June 1, 1897, was $22,673,829, an increase of $24,224,887, or 65 per cent as compared with the amount in circulation on July 1, 1896.

The Chicago Post a republican paper which is very friendly to the McKinley administration, says "Theodore Roosevelt's removal from the politics of the Empire State threatens grave effects to the party. The New York situation was not understood by the impetuous delegates who so innocently played into the hands of Bosses Platt and Quay."

The Walla Walla Union says that "Walla Walla is going to have a federal building, if the efforts of the leading business men are of any avail."

of $100,000, or more, to "benefit" these few land owners of Walla Walla, and to satisfy a craving for the expenditure of public money? If this scheme is worthy of the efforts of the business men of Walla Walla it would be fit and proper for those people in Walla Walla, who "own" neither land nor have a "pull," to destroy the public buildings as well as some private ones so that the country, the city and well-to-do individuals would be forced to spend money, borrowed or otherwise, to replace them, so that large sums of money might be dispersed in the community. Good times have been made by spending and squandering money in this way before, and why not again? The government has no need for a government building at Walla Walla, but what does Walla Walla, or those interested in the project of squandering and wasting the government's money care for that. We are living in an age when it is thought proper and right to spend and squander anybody's money except one's own. Just now the sentiment is expressed to on all sides: "What do I care, it does not come out of my pocket." This is a vicious sentiment and one, if indulged in, will in time develop into plain stealing, as it is the next thing to it.

GOVERNMENT UNDER M'KINLEY.

The American people do not realize the extravagance of the present administration in its full enormity, says the Boston Herald. They know, in a rough way, that a great deal of money has been spent, and that the outlay is still going on at a lavish rate; but they have never come to a proper appreciation of the increase in the national expenditures that has taken place since President McKinley came into power. Perhaps we can help them in some degree to a truer measurement of the matter when we say that his policy has added $10,000,000 annually to the expenditures for three fiscal years under McKinley in comparison with those for the seven fiscal years immediately preceding, four of which came in Cleveland's presidency and the other three during Harrison's term. In comparing the expenditures of different administrations, you have to make the comparison by fiscal years, though the presidential term begins on March 4 and the fiscal year does not end till June 30, the interval of three months and twenty-seven days belonging, from a financial point of view, to the record of the outgoing administration. Thus, the McKinley term began on July 1, 1897, and the latest return in regard to its expenditures, issued on the 1st inst., covers the tenth month of its third fiscal year. To round up the year we have estimated as closely as possible expenditures for the remaining two months. We may add that the fiscal year is called by its last half. Thus, the present fiscal year, running from July 1, 1899, to June 30, 1900, is known officially as the fiscal year 1900.

With these points premised, we present below the impressive figures of the comparison:

Table comparing expenditures of Harrison, Cleveland, and McKinley administrations.

TO TEST ORIGIN OF MALARIA.

The British colonial office has been distinguishing itself in a number of ways of late. It has played a leading part from the beginning in the troubles which have culminated in the South African war. It has also made itself prominent by its espousal and advocacy of the imperialistic federation idea, which is now supposed to be occupying a large share of attention at the hands of British statesmen. Great as these questions are, they have not prevented the colonial department from devoting itself to the general well-being in other, and what may be considered by some to be minor, directions. It has undertaken, for example, to demonstrate to the satisfaction of everybody that malaria does not have its origin in physical or hygienic conditions, in the pollution of air or water, but in the bite of a certain class of mosquito. It has appointed a commission to make this demonstration and to prove in the person of its own members the indubitability of this theory.

The commission is composed of Drs. Sambon and Low, eminent bacteriologists, members of Liverpool School of tropical medicine, their appointment being due to the fact that it was this school which first began investigation of the subject on an extensive scale. The method of demonstration it has adopted is an interesting one, whether it be conclusive or not. The worst malarial spot on the surface of the habitable globe has been chosen, and the two savants named are to betake themselves there at the season of the year when the disease is usually epidemic. The only precautions they are to use against contraction of the ailment is to see that they do not get bitten by the mosquitoes. If they escape all bites and all symptoms of malaria they will claim their contention has been made good.

The point selected for this interesting experiment is the Roman Campagna, where the most virulent type of malaria rages. It is noteworthy, too, that it is here the particular species of mosquito charged with being the origin of the disease—the anopheles—abounds in great numbers. While the experiment is in progress the demonstrators propose to real themselves up every night in a mosquito-proof hut. This building will be of wood, with double casement, all carefully covered with especially prepared zinc mosquito netting. The building will have double doors, and every precaution will be taken to have it absolutely mosquito proof. They will limit their outdoor exercise to the day time, when the sun is at its hottest, and when the mosquito is not over demonstrative.

What Makes Home?

Home is made by the family. With-out the love which comes with children there may be a house but never a home, in the best meaning of the word. Many a house which was only four walls and a roof has been made a home by the agency of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Nature sets her face against child-leasness and "Favorite Prescription" works with nature to remove the obstacles to maternity.

"I had been a sufferer from uterine trouble for about three years, having two miscarriages in that time and the doctors that I consulted said I would have to go through an operation before I could give birth to children," writes Mrs. Beatrice E. Evans of Parsons, Luzerne Co., Pa. Box 41. "When about to give up in despair, I bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and after taking it felt better than I had for years. I felt improved before I had taken one-half bottle. After taking four and a half bottles I gave birth to a bright baby girl who is now four months old and has not had a day of sickness. She is as bright as can be. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

The New York World.

Thrice-a-Week Edition

ALMOST A DAILY—AT THE PRICE OF A WEEKLY.

The most widely circulated "weekly" newspaper in America is the Thrice-a-Week edition of The New York World, and with the presidential campaign now at hand you cannot do without it. Here are some of the reasons why it is usually the leader in dollar a year journalism.

It is issued every other day, and is to all purposes a daily. Every week each subscriber receives 18 pages and often during the "busy" season 24 pages each week. The price is only $1 per year. It is virtually a daily at the price of a weekly.

Its news covers every known part of the world. No weekly newspaper could stand alone and furnish such service. The Thrice-a-Week World has at its disposal all of the resources of the greatest newspaper in existence—the wonder of modern journalism—"America's Greatest Newspaper," as it has been justly termed—The New York World.

Its political news is absolutely impartial. This fact will be of especial value in the presidential campaign coming on. The best of current fiction is found in its columns. There are only some of the reasons; there are others. Read it and see them all. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the weekly East Oregonian together one year for $2. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

The Tri-Weekly World and the Semi-Weekly East Oregonian one year for $2.50.
