PENDLETON RENEWS INVITATION.

Fourth of July Celebration Will Be Better Than Has Been Promised. Pendleton, Or., June 28.—Pendleton people desire, through their committee of arrangements, to renew the cordial invitation to all the residents of the county to attend the celebration here on the Fourth of July.

Once again it is desired to call attention to the provisions made by securing the Myers grove, in the eastern part of town, where all may be comfortably during the literary exercises, and afterward during the athletic day.

Perhaps the most brilliant thing on the program will be the page parade, under the charge of John H. Huxter, an experienced man in that line of work; and the illuminated night parade, arranged by H. L. Huxter, whose taste and skill in such affairs is known to all.

"St. Hopkins," and a very poor imitation it was. It is surprising that Miss Swiggett should have presumed to imitate the remarkably funny St. Hopkins, or that her manager ever permits her to appear in such an unbecoming imitation. She might as well try to imitate Edwin Booth or Joe Jefferson. However, taken as a whole, the company is a good farce comedy aggregation, and worth attending by all who enjoy that class of entertainments. The promises were kept in every respect, excepting by the spurious St. Hopkins, and there was plenty at which even the most despicable individual could get up an uproarious laugh.

What the Spring Chicken is.

If there are any lovers of laughter in this city and they are looking for their favorite entertainment, they should not miss the coming engagement of "A Spring Chicken," which is to be presented at the Frazer next Tuesday night, July 3. There have been a lot of farce comedies forced upon the public, but this is said to be genuinely funny. The company is under the direction of Jordan and Mathers, and is reported to include some of the best known humorists on the stage and at the present time. There are a number of clever specialties introduced. The program includes Ross Sutherland, principal singing and dancing with "The Tale of the Two Cities," "A Trip to Christchurch," "A Contented Woman," "Hattie's Superior," etc. Bert Blatt, formerly leading comedian with "The Tale of the Two Cities," London comedians, Hopkins, Tom O'Connell, Fred Ross & Frederick Minstrels; Mr. Harry Armstrong, the famous minstrel and comedy writer; Edward M. Kimball, Mabel Cowley, formerly prima donna with the Casino Square Opera company; Ben Mitchell, Fred Butler, business case and other clever players.

FIRST THRESHING OF THE SEASON.

Ed Rush Will Commence Today—Nearly a Month Earlier Than in 1899. Athens, Or., June 28.—Ed Rush will commence operations with his steam threshing today on the Square farm five miles northwest of Milton. This will be the first threshing to begin work in Umatilla county, indicating the harvesting season of 1900. Ed Rush, of Portland, will be the engineer of the outfit, and J. D. Henry of Lewis, Or., will be in charge of the separator.

The difference between this season and last will be noticeable when it is stated that last year Mr. Rush did not commence work until August 3. He will work up through the Tulee country for three weeks, then back toward Helix and vicinity. After the seven weeks in Umatilla county, Mr. Rush will make a grand seasonal tour of the Palouse country.

An important change in mercantile affairs is announced. Fred Fisher, who has engaged in the harness and saddlery business here for the past three and one-half years, and his brother-in-law, William Miller, of Union have purchased the business and stock of W. E. Young, and will continue the business at the latter stand, here for 15 years, and in closing out and in departing, no matter whether he may travel, he and his family will carry the best wishes of the entire community. His successors are exemplary young business men and will undoubtedly continue in their successful career.
