ATHENA NEWS.

Another Case of Diphtheria in the Bush Family - An Alarm of Fire.

Athena, Or., July 8.-C. A. Barrett and Joseph Lake returned this morning with a trip to Portland in connection with business pertaining to the Athena Light and Power company.

There is one case of diphtheria in Athena. Little Gladys Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bush, and a sister of George Bush, who died of the same disease a few weeks ago, was stricken Saturday. The Bush home has again been quarantined.

An alarm of fire at 7 o'clock Saturday evening brought out the fire department with its accustomed alacrity, likewise a good number of spectators, a large number of children. Dry grass in the yard of the Catholic church on Fifth street caught fire, presumably from a lighted cigar stub or remnant of a firecracker, and burned over a space of 2500 feet before being extinguished. It threatened to set fire to the church building, but the firemen and waterworks system were equal to the occasion and prevented any great damage.

A. C. Cookburn was in town Saturday with samples of wheat from his farm on Dry Creek. He has 500 acres which yielded a good quality and quantity of the staff of life. The Dry Creek farmers are satisfied with a smaller yield per acre than are those who reside near Athena. This is the first sample of threshed wheat that has been exhibited here this season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Matlock arrived on the train Saturday evening and enjoyed a short visit with relatives.

SCIENCE SCORES AGAIN.

A Preparation that Will Destroy the Dandruff Germ Discovered.

Finally the scientific student has discovered a certain remedy for dandruff. When it first became known that dandruff is the result of a germ or parasite that digs into the scalp, and saps the vitality of hair at the root, causing falling hair and baldness, biologists set to work to discover some preparation that will kill that germ. After a year's labor in one laboratory, the dandruff germ destroyer was discovered; and it is now embodied in Newbro's Hairdressing, which besides curing baldness, and thinning hair, speedily and permanently eradicates dandruff. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

COLONEL RALEY RETURNS HOME.

TELLS OF TREMENDOUS ENTHUSIASM AT NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Democratic Party Was Again United and Both Ticket and Platform Will Receive Strong Support.

"You folks who were out here on the Pacific coast cannot realize the degree of enthusiasm that was caused by the events at the democratic national convention at Kansas City. It was indicative of the union that has been accomplished again of the elements that were apart and antagonistic in the election of 1896. The prospects before the democratic ticket and platform are excellent. And one needs but to go to the states east from here to learn that what I say is true."

This was a part of what Col. James H. Raley said this morning as he stepped from the train, returning from the democratic national convention, to which he was one of the Oregon state delegates. Col. Raley was accompanied by Judge A. Bennett, of The Dalles, who, in brief interview as the train stood, voiced the sentiments that Col. Raley had already expressed.

"The ticket and the platform," said Judge Bennett, "are satisfactory to the democrats generally, judging from the statements made by the delegates, and as well by the enthusiasts they exhibited during the convention. There is already high enthusiasm for the campaign, and the democratic hosts begin the fight with strong hope of winning."

In telling of the great convention, Col. Raley stated that it was beyond doubt that David Bennett Hill, of New York, could have the vice-presidential nomination, and that it was only because he absolutely refused it that he was not named as Mr. Bryan's running mate.

"But from the first, it was a foregone conclusion that Hill would not accept, for he does not propose to be sidetracked as was Roosevelt at Philadelphia, and have all his political future spoiled so far as concerns the presidency. Mr. Hill undoubtedly looks forward to the next campaign, with hopes of being then the party's candidate for the higher office. He knew that, if he allowed the delegates to nominate him for vice-president, his chances ever again of even approaching the presidency would be swept away. Hence, he declined, but it took a vigorous statement from him to keep the convention from repeating the scene enacted at Philadelphia, and stampeding for Hill."

Bryan's hold on the people. "Hill's name was on everyone's lips, next to Mr. Bryan's, who, of course, was the idol of the convention. The devotion of the representatives of the national party to Bryan is something wonderful. They regard him as their gallant leader, and that he surely is, with plenty of magnetism and power to hold the present vantage ground which he has won. This vantage ground consists in the strong following which Mr. Bryan has in the east, among elements which four years ago were bitterly antagonistic to him. This he has won, too, by the manner in which he has presented an unflinching front to the opposition. When he coined that epigram—"If you want a dodge for a platform, nominate a lodger for a candidate"—he expressed all the whole question in one, and showed how he could only hold his position by not yielding an inch.

"The delegates returned to their homes with high confidence of winning the election in November. There are states in the east that are doubtful, that may go for Bryan and Stevenson, that have heretofore been regarded as certainly republican."

"In short, the result of the convention, with the clarified atmosphere after the gallant fight over the financial issue, with a ticket that even a democrat may support with enthusiasm and the knowledge that it could not have been better selected, is such as to give the party new life, and start the campaign with equal chance for victory."

"Contrast this with the situation four years ago, and the advance that has been made in the interim will be appreciated."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury. As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescription. Beware of cheap imitations, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. A Missing Boy.

An Oregon pioneer, who was putting up at the Perkins, says the Portland Oregonian, with his son, missed the "kid" for several hours and had all the hotel attaches hunting for him without avail. Finally Chief Clerk Thompson asked the old gentleman the age of the missing boy. "He's 54 years old," replied the septuagenarian, and the hotel men quit the search. They thought a lad of the age ought to be able to take care of himself.

NOW FOR THE STREET FAIR.

Pendleton Merchants Propose to Give One for a Week in September.

The Fourth of July celebration in Pendleton was so marked a success that it is now proposed to have a street fair in Pendleton during the fall, probably September. The street fair is now the thing in all the cities, and they have been made very successful in many places. It is claimed that the street fairs are much more enjoyable than the ordinary ones, resembling to some extent the fetes of the European countries, and that they are occasions of constant pleasure while they last.

Several of the merchants have been conferring and before long a meeting will be called. Some information will be secured regarding the manner of conducting these street fairs, and when the meeting is held, if possible, it will be decided definitely what will be done.

One argument for the fair that is especially strong, is that the harvest is usually early, and therefore, by nearly a month, and that therefore the fair could be held after harvest and yet be early enough to avoid the fall rain. It seems to be a very auspicious season for the holding of such an affair, and all who have been spoken to agree that the people of Pendleton should take hold of it and push it to consummation.

Merchants who contributed towards the celebration expenses state that the fine trade of the week more than compensated them for their outlay, and that they are willing to back the enterprise now proposed for the fall season.

If every one will take hold and do his share of the work of preparation, the thing can be done. But, if a few must do all, success will be difficult of attainment. However, it is apparent that considerable enthusiasm and persistency can be developed on this occasion, and that the street fair can be made a success.
