SURVEYING IN MALHEUR COUNTY.

Lathrop Engineering Party Working for the Corvallis & Eastern.

L. R. Lothrop, the veteran railroad engineer from Tacoma, who was here Wednesday with a company of surveyors under his charge, having come from Malheur county, had been surveying a line up the Malheur river, beginning near Vale, where the canyon commences. They ran to Malheur lake, far up in the mountains. The line followed the grade made many years ago, when the Oregon Short Line was constructed, most of the old grading remaining, and some of it being intact.

It is almost definitely known that the Lothrop engineering party was in the field for the Corvallis & Eastern, which has been understood to be considering the advisability of extending their line from the present terminus to the boundary of Eastern Oregon. The road terminates now at the base of the Cascade range, reaching there from the coast. The line surveyed by the Lothrop party takes the proposed grade across all of the difficult ground from this side of the Malheur mountains, the balance of the route be across a flat country which offers no engineering problems to be solved. From the end of their survey to the Cascades no grades or hills would be encountered.

Some well posted railroad men think this party really is out for the Burlington company, which is reported to be contemplating building west via the southern end of the Yellowstone National Park, and making its ingress into Oregon via the route over which the Lothrop party passed. When questioned closely as to the object of their survey, the members of the party would not deny that the Burlington had an interest the work, and admitted that they knew of the almost exact route to be followed by the Burlington in the event they built to the coast.

FRUIT LAW MUST BE ENFORCED.

Commissioner Geer Reports to Condemn Diseased Product in This County.

The notice given by Fruit Commissioner Judd Geer that the fruit law must be observed will attract general attention among the orchardists. The law has not heretofore been enforced. Last fall he began a vigorous crusade looking towards the stopping of the sale of diseased fruits, and since that time he has condemned a number of lots of fruit in the Grande Ronde valley. He proposes to follow the same course in this part of the state, and has made a visit to the portion of the Walla Walla valley which is within this county. Calling upon the orchardists, he informed them of the law, and of the intention of the fruit commissioners to secure rigid observance of its provisions.

Commissioner Geer finds in the Walla Walla valley near Milton that the majority of the orchardists are willing to comply with the law, and they so informed him. The difficulty has been that a few of the fruit raisers are negligent, and do not spray the trees, thus making it futile for neighboring orchardists to take the usual precautionary measures for preventing disease of the trees and the fruit. By condemning the fruit coming from such orchards, it is believed the negligent ones will be brought to terms, and all will be protected.

Near Milton the fruit crop is wonderfully fine. Scarcely anyone failed to raise a quality of fruit surpassing that of former years, the quantity being immense for all varieties. Vast quantities have been shipped out.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Tallman & Co.'s drug store.

Big Crowd at Teal.

A large crowd is now camped at Teal Springs, some for pleasure and some for their health. No better place can be found for a few weeks outing, as there is swimming, dancing, fishing and hunting. The springs are under good management and everything is done that will make it pleasant or campers. Kirkman's orchestra is furnishing the music for the dancers.

State Normal School.

We call attention to the advertisement of the State Normal school at Monmouth, appearing in another column of this issue. The school reports a successful year, with encouraging prospects for the next session. Many teachers are taking the normal course both for the sake of the professional training, now pretty generally demanded, and also as the best means of preparation for securing the state papers.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

FORMER CITIZEN OF UMATILLA WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF LIFE THERE.

How the Fourth Was Celebrated: His Neighbor Weeks: Talk With a Millionaire: Three Drouths.

Santa Ana, Cal., July 4.—This is the day that all Americans are supposed to celebrate, and it can be truthfully asserted that Southern California, at least, has done ample justice to the occasion. Towns that have allowed their national patriotism to lie dormant for a dozen years or more, fished out their old Marlins, Infields and Yangers. Cobwebbed and forgotten cubby-holes and closets were rumaged for national ensigns of days agone, and, say, you ought to have seen what a gauzy appearance the town presented. The walls of the buildings on Fourth street were actually carpeted with flags and bunting. I saw one flag that had but 19 stars and I wondered what date it represented in our growth of states.

Terminal Island, where the government is getting its rock for the jetties in the big breakwater at San Pedro, entertained 25,000 or 30,000 people with a "fish" dinner. It required several tons from the finny deep to satisfy the inner craving of so many people, but old briny unbuckled her patriotism in ample quantity for the occasion and everybody ate fish—fried, stewed and raw—to their hearts desire.

Tonight the whole heavens is ablaze with the glare of skyrockets, Roman candles and Chinese zigzags.

Tomorrow, we of us who neglected to fill up on liquid patriotism with a stick will be glad of it.

Despite the fact that we have passed, or rather, are passing through the third dry season, the people seem to have a pretty fair supply of that stuff which maketh the heart glad under ordinary circumstances, and they spent it today with generous hand.

Great events are doubtless transpiring in other parts of the country, at Kansas City for instance. I should like very much to possess the time, talent and inclination to express my views on things political, but having in mind a couplet from that wise old poetsage, Poor Richard, which suggests that: "Larger boats can venture more while smaller boats should keep near shore" and being mindful of the fact that mine is merely a "dug out" in the vast fleet of political geniuses, I will let the subject reside where she is.

I learned, by a not very recent date of the East Oregonian that my old cronie, J. P. Weeks, and family, had returned to the slaughter pen at Pilot Rock. Now this is a very queer proceeding indeed. Why did this man so softly fold his blankets in the nighttime—like the Greaser—and as quietly go off on the train? He must have had some sinister motive in mind, and yet he does not owe me a farthing. It may be he was only trying to get away from his inventive genius. Though perhaps you are not aware that he got up a pump for the benefit of these dry land ranches that would lift liquid refreshments for the soil from a well that has water in it, just as well as from one that hasen't. And he had it so arranged that time and distance cut no figure on its inclination to do business.

I understand that a man who lives near Santa Ana is using one of these 3-ply pumps of friend Weeks' to raise water out of the "Rio Del Colorado." Now, I am not sure whether the pump is down at the river or at the other end of the system in Santa Ana. All I know is that a fellow told me that this man in Santa Ana said he had one of the pumps lifting water from the "Rio Del Colorado," and I know that is a long way off. There came a report a short time ago that friend Weeks had scarcely arrived at his destination when he took the smallpox. It's strange that some people are so prone to taking small things that is not "theirn." But we were soon gratified to learn that it was not the smallpox at all that he had "took"—but I guess if his family had been along to care for him the thing would not have happened at all. Besides being one of the very best neighbors I ever lived by, a butcher of eminent skill, and an inventor of world wide reputation, he is also a specialist on sick horses. When our old "Cob" came in the other night with a kind of tired look on his countenance, my wife, through sheer force of habit, told one of the boys to go after Mr. Weeks. He came to our place at least once a week last year just to doctor that old horse, and the strangest thing about it is, the horse is still alive. Any kindness shown Mr. Weeks or his family can be cheerfully charged to my credit.

While traveling through Ventura county not long ago, I stopped a few hours one day at the flourishing young city of "Piru." It was there I met and talked face to face with a man worth several millions. Davis A. Clark, of Chicago. A man who laid the foundation for this comfortable fortune by compiling and publishing a hymn book.

This is the first inkling I had that there was so much substantial wealth attached to the collection of works of fiction. Mr. Clark owns a small family orchard near Piru, that embraces an even thousand acres "Just an experiment" he said in a manner as unconcerned as though there was but ten dollars invested in the "experiment" instead of a half million. Mr. Clark also owns 24 oil wells in this immediate vicinity which are yielding 2000 barrels a day on the average. As oil is worth one dollar a barrel almost anyone can figure the gentleman's raw income from oil. "You see that machinery at work on top of that hill yonder", he said, as he pointed to the very topmost pinacle of this mountain range—"Well, I expect that will be a gusher when it's completed, and the boys have it down now about 1600 feet." "How long will it take to complete it", I ventured. "Not more than six or eight months" he answered. I learned from further inquiry that he expected to bore down about 3000 feet. He also informed me that he was operating a hydraulic placer mine some 15 or 20 miles up the creek. He told me there was not much profits in the mine, but it furnished employment to 25 or 30 men. As these men all have families and live at the mine, it makes quite a nice little mountain mining village.

Going down the Santa Clara, a small, and most of the way dry stream that some one has dignified with the name "River," I passed by "Camulos" the home of Ramona, the heroine of Mrs. Helen Jackson's widely read novel bearing the name of "Ramona," but as the lady had moved away from the place on account of the notoriety given her by Mrs. Jackson's story, I did not call. It seems strange that away out here on the outer edge of the great Newhall grant, seventy-five miles from another habitation, Mrs. Jackson should have run across a living character, so unique in her originality that she was able to weave a web of romance around her that has made both familiar to thousands of story readers.

It is a fact that we are passing through our third dry season, but none of them have anywhere near approached a drouth. We have raised plenty for both man and beast to live on, and in the line of fruits we have quite a quantity to sell. The Southern California Fruit Canners Association at Santa Ana have doubled the capacity of their plant, with the view of employing from 400 to 600 hands during the packing season. A large plant has been put in at Hynes, where 100 men, women and boys will find steady work for about five months in the year. Besides these, all the other canneries are preparing for a full busy season.

As I am going to the beach for a week or two, I hope to find time to worry you with another long string of undecipherable hieroglyphics.

WILLIS.

Cold Steel or Death.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvelous power of Electric Bitters to cure Liver and Stomach troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at Tallman & Co.'s drug store.
