The cry comes from the east that "Teddy's hat will soon fit Markie."

The Speaker, an English paper, wonders how "a bull dog would look in spectacles reading Greek" after viewing a late picture of Teddy Roosevelt, candidate for vice-president.

A man would be a fool that would put a stick of dynamite under his pillow, but some sensible people are in the habit of putting a pistol there which to their lives and limbs is just as dangerous.

The Bible, it is stated, met with a big sale last year. And Krag-Jorgensen rifles and bullets to fit, met with a remarkable sale also. The Bibles and the rifles were used to a large extent on the same people.

The bad breath of J. Pierpont Morgan, banker, multi-millionaire, stock and bond manipulator, permeates the editorial page of Harpers' Weekly these days and those who read it do not allow its hired, owned, mortgaged voice to influence them in the least degree. A newspaper is only influential to the extent that it is true. In short, an honest voice cannot be belittled to anything or anybody and remain honest.

F. Tecumseh Sherman, son of the late Gen. William T. Sherman, has bolted the republican national ticket. He states he is opposed to the reelection of President McKinley because of the treatment accorded the soldiers during the Spanish war. He says he cannot support an administration that was responsible for the privations suffered by the regulars and volunteers in Cuba. Mr. Sherman has other grievances which influence him in not supporting Mr. McKinley for reelection. It might be well to add that the Shermans and General Miles are relatives.

A prominent and intelligent citizen of Union county lost his life, and his wife was dangerously wounded, the other day, by the accidental discharge of a useless and worthless pistol, which was kept in their bedroom "for burglars." It is surprising that intelligent people, and those calling themselves Christians, will keep a pistol near them, for supposed protection to their lives, against imaginary dangers and bad men that never prove so harmful as the weapon itself. Where the pistol keeps away one burglar, or prevents one robbery or other crime, it destroys a dozen lives by its accidental discharge from careless handling. The papers frequently mention the wounding and killing of this or that man or woman by the pistol, which was provided for protection, seldom indeed is the public informed of any good the deadly pistol accomplishes, while hardly a day passes that a life is not sacrificed to the silly habit of keeping a deadly weapon around the house or office. The pistol may be a fit thing for toughs and fools but for sane and practical people it is absolutely without value or use.

Many are the movements for establishing closer relations between Great Britain and her colonies that have been started in London since the outbreak of the imperial spirit caused by the war in South Africa, but about the most interesting of them all is one for promoting an emigration of women from the mother country to Canada, Australia and South Africa. Throughout the British colonies there is a notable majority of men over women, while in Great Britain, and especially in London, there are far more women than men. Reformers who have plenty of time to take thought about the welfare of the world regard the existing condition of things in that respect prejudicial to the old country and to the colonies, to men and to women. They have therefore started a movement to bring about what they call "sex equilibrium," and are urging it forward with a good deal of enthusiasm and faith. There are said to be 300,000 marriageable girls in London who should go out and colonize, but who refuse to go. Thus there exists within the empire the defect of having too many men at the extremities and too many women at the capital.

The great wall of China was built in ten years, and was finished 205 years before the birth of Christ. Twenty centuries have had scarcely any effect upon it. It is as enduring as the Pyramids. Equipped with modern artillery and manned with soldiers armed and drilled in the modern manner, it would be as impregnable as the day it was finished. The projecting masses of stone and brick which form its huge buttresses are alone estimated to contain more material than all the dwelling-houses in the United States. Careful calculation long ago demonstrated that the Chinese wall contains material more than sufficient to cover the entire circumference of the earth on two of its circles with two walls each six feet high and two feet thick. It is nearly fifteen hundred miles long, and is carried over the highest mountains, the deepest valleys, across wide rivers and over all manner of natural obstacles. It is a greater wonder than any of the so-called "Seven Wonders of the World." It surpasses not only by its immensity but by the ingenuity of its engineering devices and its marvelous stability every other effort of human labor. The people who accomplished this vast work twenty-one centuries ago feel that they have rights which they must defend against the encroachments of those who style themselves Christians.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.
The Portland Telegram says a deserved tribute to a well known citizen of Oregon, as follows:

There are few more useful men in any community than Mr. David F. Thompson. He has not only furnished one of our public schools, but has given the city an expensive and enduring work of art, and utility in the form of a public fountain, that will be erected this summer, but he loses no opportunity to instruct youth on lines of thought and endeavor that will be most useful to them. When Mr. Thompson is gone, his wealth will still little figure in the world; his benevolence to the public and his cool, calm, practical advice and information and ideas, will be worth much to succeeding generations in Oregon. Mr. Thompson is not a highly educated man, in the ordinary acceptance of that term; yet there are probably few really better educated men in the Pacific Northwest. In his ripe age and experience, there is a public expression of his heart in valuable and pregnant with history, truth and prophecy.

These comments were especially induced by Mr. Thompson's remarks Monday at the Chautauqua assembly on "Humane Work," in which he stated some important and interesting truths. For instance, he said: "Man is not by nature a kind animal. Even the children of civilized parents will stone or aim their arrow at a beautiful song bird, not loving any more those rare decorations of the woods than they love the serpent in the grass. The love of all forms of destruction is in the bottom of the human heart, and long is the culture that will separate this drive from the spirit gold; and when we have reached manhood and womanhood, and we feel that the work of civilization has been accomplished in our lives, behold, a close examination of our souls shows we are part barbarians still. There have been human sentiments cropping out here and there all along the world's history, but not until the philosophy of well-organized humane societies, supported by law, came to its aid did it make noticeable progress."

This expresses a startling truth. When we were boys, did we not stone frogs, draw cats, and cripple birds? Why? Just for "the fun of it." And when we are grown up we put horses in "sewer" torture for hours with a tight overdraw-check, because—it is fashionable; certainly not because it looks better.

Men like W. T. Shanahan, Major and Judge Sears, Judge George, Mr. Thompson and women too numerous to mention here, are doing a noble work for humanity and the brute and bird creation, one that will live in results long after them, by helping to guard and protect our domestic animals and birds, and make their lives tolerable, if not happy.

Every one of these beasts and birds is a friend and servant of humanity. They deserve good, kind treatment, not abuse. A man who abuses a horse, or a cow, or a dog, or any animal, is beneath the animals he does not care about that, perhaps, but the scorpion of the law ought to be laid on his back, and make him care.

But men and women are only boys and girls "grown tall." The way to have a humane world is to educate the children to be humane and gentle with the animals in their power. It is not "funny," nor "smart," to beat or in any wise abuse a brute. We are their masters; what would we think if there were creatures as much above us as we are above the brutes who would torture for hours, and in some future generation of mortality this may happen.

Every domestic animal is a friend of man; there isn't a dog, or a horse, or a bird but does us good and is ready to serve us as well as them, merely because they had the power. And in some future generation of mortality this may happen.

Skin Diseases

When the excretory organs fail to carry off the waste material from the system, there is an abnormal accumulation of effete matter which poisons and clogs the blood, and it becomes sour and acid. This poison is carried through the general circulation to all parts of the body, and upon reaching the skin surface there is a redness and eruption, and by certain peculiarities we recognize Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Erysipelas and many other skin troubles, more or less severe. While the skin is the seat of irritation, the real disease is in the blood. Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and burning, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated and skin permanently injured by their use.

The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

The many preparations of arsenic, mercury, potash, etc., not only do not cure skin diseases, but soon ruin the digestion and break down the constitution. S. S. S., nature's own remedy, made of roots, herbs and barks, of great purifying and tonic properties, quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles, because it goes direct to the root of the disease and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions. S. S. S. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to re-form in the blood and cause a fresh attack. Healthy blood is necessary to preserve that clear, smooth skin and beautiful complexion so much desired by all. S. S. S. can be relied upon with certainty to keep the blood in perfect order. It has been curing blood and skin diseases for half a century; no other medicine can show such a record.
