WILL HAVE NOTHING OF THE TRUST.

Mr. Byers Prefers to Run His Own Business and Won't Let Anyone Interfere.

It is an absolute refusal of W. S. Byers, of the Pendleton Roller Mills, to enter into the agreement whereby the mills are to be brought into closer association to control the output of flour, and to what extent is possible, control the buying of wheat in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Mr. Byers was asked regarding the report that he had been approached by representatives of a projected mill trust, and said that it was true. He went on to say:

"I propose to run my own business, and will persistently refuse to turn over to any trust or combination, call it what you will, the right to say how much or when I shall grind and sell. I have for more than twenty years operated independently of all persons, and I shall do so in the future, or shut up the mill."

Mrs. E. W. McComass, his daughter, who for many years has been almost equal with her father in the management of the business, was asked regarding the trust proposition, and replied:

"I am sure my father will never consent to submit to the authority of a milling trust. He would, I venture to say, prefer to break up in business rather than yield the independence to conduct his business as he elects. With our mill remaining outside the trust, if formed, the consummation of the reported trust plans would be difficult, indeed."

Mr. Byers and his daughter gives to understand that they will fight the trust, if ever it is formed, to the bitter end. They are now preparing to enlarge the capacity of the mill, making it 1000 barrels a day, instead of 500 barrels, and they will operate as though a trust were not in existence, even though all other mills enter a combination with franchised rules.

Trust Projected for Some Time.

Throughout this section of country, it is understood that efforts have been put forth for many months to effect the milling trust on the North Pacific coast. The combination is projected along lines similar to those followed by the Millers' Association of Minneapolis, Minn., which, in one of the greatest milling centers of the world, obtained so absolute control of the wheat and flour situation as to give them dictatorial powers supreme. This extended to the question of grading of wheat for the market, and the prices paid at the elevators. Only when the Minnesota legislature passed a law establishing a commission for official grading and inspection, was the power of the Millers' Association to any extent broken.

Other mills in this vicinity have been solicited to sign articles of agreement for the trust, but it is not learned accurately whether any millers have consented. Mr. Byers and his daughter do not hesitate to speak on the subject. They add to the above statement, that offers to buy the plant have also been refused, the supposition being that the purchasers wanted the mills to place them in trust relations to other mills, and eliminate the embarrassing presence of an extensive miller who remained outside the trust.

PRaised Miss Gaitner's Work.

Special Agent Hawley Has Words of Praise for Umatilla Agency School.

General Hawley, special Indian agent, who spent some time here recently, returned to Washington and made some flattering reports to the department regarding the conduct of the Indian school here, of which Miss Gaitner is the superintendent. General Hawley is the one mentioned in Washington correspondence:

"John Hawley, special Indian agent, who has jurisdiction over a large section of the west, is now in Washington conferring with the commissioner of Indian affairs. A short time before he left the west he visited the Umatilla school, in Oregon, and made himself thoroughly acquainted with conditions there, and studied the school generally, with a view to making what improvements were considered necessary. In talking with the commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Hawley said that the Umatilla school is one of the best schools under the control of the Indian office. He reports its superintendent, Miss Gaitner, as a lady of fine executive ability, who has established a reputation second to none in the service. Mr. Hawley strongly recommends the erection of an additional building and a new sewer and water system for this plant. This recommendation was submitted in writing some weeks ago, and has been approved by the commissioner, plans and specifications for these new works now being in preparation. The work of construction will be taken up as soon as the plans are approved, and the contract let. The new building will be used as a girls' dormitory, and will be a two-story frame building of sufficient size to meet the present demands."

Cured Bronchial Trouble.

Chas. E. Davis, 1071 W. Congress St., Chicago, says: "I suffered for years with bronchial trouble and tried many kinds of medicines without relief, until I began taking Koeppe's Honey and Tar, which cured me. Take no substitute. Koeppe's Pharmacy."

He was given three matches by his mother to carry to his father and it is not known just how his clothes caught fire. His spine was so burned that he did not suffer after a few minutes.

PEOPLE WHO ARE HERE FOR A DAY.

G. W. Hunt, manager of the Oregon Construction company's ranch at Echo, is in town today. He says the recent fire at the ranch resulted in the loss of about 1500 bushels of barley in six stacks of headed grain. Two stacks stood next to those burned, but did not catch fire. Neither railroad nor threshing machine engine set the fire, and Mr. Hunt is at a loss to know what was the cause of the conflagration. No one had even been smoking in the field, to the knowledge of the employees of the ranch, and the origin of the fire is a mystery to all alike.

William Scott, of Holik, is in town today, hurriedly attending to business affairs, and bound for his farm again to supervise the work of harvesting, which is now in full blast. Mr. Scott places the yield in the Holik country at about 30 bushels to the acre, representative fields going that much, in his opinion. He says he has filled his harvest crew without great difficulty, and fair wages all around. He anticipates no particular trouble in keeping ahead during the season. Mr. Scott bears out the assertions that have been made by all who have inspected the grain in sample and in field since the crop was matured, saving the quality will be No. 1 straight. Exporters will have no difficulty in handling the wheat of the Inland Empire this year, the quality will be so fine that the grain will be much sought.

Temperature Sends People to Resorts.

Sunday was a very fair imitation of a hot day. People of reasonable demands would not make complaint were it not for the fact that yesterday, such a one as we have yesterday. The thermometer started up in the tube, and when the last premier was rushing to the train at a pace of half a mile an hour, the indications were that eggs would boil in the Umatilla creek before the sun was setting. Although one or two boiled eggs in the creek, it was only because no one wanted to do so, for the creek was there and the water was warm enough, and only the eggs and someone desiring to boil them there.

Several dozen went up to Bingham Springs, many to North Fork, and to other points in the mountains, and one party visited the Columbia river, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jade Switzer and Mr. Cyril Koykendall in a boating party during the forenoon and afternoon. The temperature on the water was something like fifteen degrees less than on land and it was an enjoyable event.

To North Fork went Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wamsley, Miss Lane, Elizabeth, Edna Florence, Leonard Cohen, H. C. Guernsey, C. S. Jackson. They spent the day at the place of Theodore Harms, a pleasant camping ground.

Mrs. C. E. Roosevelt has returned from her visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stone, in Walla Walla.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fall and son went to Bingham Springs on Saturday, expecting to remain for sometime.

D. V. S. Gold, formerly president of the Weston Normal school, has been elected principal of the Heppner public schools.

WORKERS COMING FROM THE SOUND.

Harvesters Seek the Better Pay in the Inland Empire Grain Fields.

A German arrived this afternoon in Pendleton from Port Angeles, Wash., where he was employed in the salmon cannery. He received there $40 a month "and board himself," during the winter months, and $45 and board himself during the four extra busy months of the season now on. Here, he will receive $2 a day, and earn much more than he could in the cannery.

Others will come from that part of the country, and will enjoy some of the fruits of the beautiful harvest now being gathered in Umatilla county.

Farmers complaining, however, that men will not work, many being idle in town and refusing to go out in the fields. On Saturday, almost as many farmers were here for men as there were men to be hired. Some of the farmers were out of patience, and did not hesitate to speak emphatically of the men who, being in need of work, and without money, would refuse to leave town, but preferred to stand about the streets and talk small talk.

It is claimed that on Saturday two outfits pulled into town, and that they would refuse any money to go out and engage in the season's work. Men were too difficult to procure, said the owners, that there is no money in threshing for others.

We have clipped

the following from the La Grande Journal:

"About three months ago the San Francisco Examiner contained the news of a damaged vessel in the harbor containing coffee and sheep dip. The two articles of commerce were found floating in the hold, and the merchants to whom they were consigned refused to accept them, not only because they were water soaked, but because the sheep dip had not had a salutary effect upon the coffee. One of our home merchants at that time predicted that Eastern Oregon would soon be overrun with cheap coffee. There is now in this section a man who offers to sell for eight cents a grade of coffee which our merchants cannot buy wholesale for twelve. There may be some connection between the two incidents."
