A SHORT HARVEST.

[Inc]rease in Number of Machines and Men in Demand.

The harvest in Umatilla county this year will be a short one, owing to a combination of circumstances. There are many more separators and headers at work now than in any previous year, which has caused the apparent scarcity of men to become more conspicuous. Harvesting is being rushed as rapidly as possible, the weather being ideal. The lack of sufficient men to properly handle all the machines has caused a number of them to tie up, while others with full gangs are being worked all the harder.

Many farmers have purchased new separators this year, as well as new headers, while combines have not seemingly been as popular as heretofore. There seems to be a well grounded belief among farmers that combines leave the ground in a foul condition, much more so than when the harvesting is done with header and separator. But trouble with securing men has caused the owners of threshing machines a great deal of trouble this season already, so that the combine is likely to gain in favor, as fewer men comparatively are required to handle a crop in that method than with the header and separator.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Tallman & Co.'s drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Tallman & Co.'s drug store.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were passed by the Congregational church of Pendleton on the death of Mrs. Frank Ulrich:

"Whereas, Death has again entered our ranks and taken from us our sister, Mrs. Rosa Hinderman Ulrich; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Congregational church, remembering that 'God is love,' bow in submission to His will and commend to all, the example of her sweet, Christian spirit and life.

"Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with her companion in his loneliness and all those who mourn with him, and pray our Heavenly Father to comfort and sustain them.

"Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the church and a copy sent to the bereaved family."

Trick on a Horse Buyer.

A very clever trick was played on J. G. Stine while receiving horses for the cavalry services in Long Creek last Monday, says the Eagle. A beautiful bay saddle gelding was brought in and in every particular was satisfactory except that the animal did not come up to the standard in height. Mr. Stine stated that on account of the animal's falling below the standard in height he could not take him. The owner took the horse to the shop and had him shod with high cork shoes, and brought him in again for inspection. Mr. Stine did not recognize the animal as one he had just refused, and accepted him at the regulation price.

PENDLETON TRAVELERS IN EUROPE.

Letter From Berlin Tells of Observations on the Continent.

Berlin, Germany, July 15.—To the East Oregonian —We landed at Bremen on the afternoon of the 12th, and have been hurrying from place to place, since then, seeing the points of interest in the north of Germany and deferring our visit to the exposition at Paris until the extremely hot weather reported to be prevailing there has been succeeded by lower temperature. Although we were told we would not find anything of interest in the northern part of Germany, we have proven our prophets to be rather incorrect in their judgment. Certainly, one could not fail to be intensely interested in the queer little thatched-roof cottages, the picturesque windmills, and all the characteristic marks of these towns and villages so different from those we have been accustomed to see at home. It was all very delightful, indeed. The roads are perfect. They, by constrast, made us remember the roads at home, and to wish we had there the fine highways one sees here everywhere.

As to the social customs and the habits of the people, one could not avoid noticing and deploring the presence in the harvest fields of so many women, a place where women, of course, never should be. But, here, you see them in great number laboring in the fields. Poor creatures! We felt like going to them and advising them to take the first steamer for the United States, where, although castles and thatched roofs and all the sights of these places are lacking, at least women are not expected to do the work properly belonging to the stronger men.

Bremen was interesting from any point of view, but we will not burden this letter with descriptions of things that everyone has read many times.

Berlin and Its Attractions.

In Berlin are so many places to go and so many things to see that we cannot nearly get to all of them during the four days allotted to remain here. However, we will keep busily at it, and see all we possibly can. Yesterday, we went to the royal palace, and paid a mark for the privilege of polishing the emperor's hardwood floors. At the door they put us into immense felt shoes. We all had on short skirts, and the effect was ridiculous. Our friends in Pendleton would have laughed heartily had we appeared on the streets there in such attire. But, of course, here we cared little for that. Our guide was a German, so we could only look at the rooms and not ask him anything about them. We were shown into the throne room, and watched our chance to sit in the emperor's chair.

This afternoon, we go to Potsdam, the emperor's summer home.

We have already seen two of the art galleries, where everyone of us would have liked to remain forever admiring and studying the treasures there collected.

As to Oberammergau, we cannot yet say whether we will be able to secure seats, and will not know until we reach Munich where we go very soon.

CASES DISMISSED.

Name of the Man With Linen Duster Still Unknown.

On Friday, July 27, Sarah Smith swore out warrants before Justice Wood at Weston for the arrest of Constable George Reynolds of Weston, Constable J. W. Dykes, of Milton, and Marshal Joe Campbell, of Milton, charging them with assault with a deadly weapon on her husband, J. B Bowlin-Smith. Only one of the warrants was served that of Mr. Reynolds, and he was allowed to go upon his own recognizance. When T. G. Hailey, district attorney, was at Weston last Monday, he had the case against Mr. Reynolds dismissed upon his statement that the officers at the time of the alleged assault with a deadly weapon were simply serving a warrant for Bowlin's arrest, which they were justified in doing. The cases against Dykes and Campbell will fall in the same way.

When the warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Marshal Joe Campbell, it was supposed he was the man who wore the linen duster on the night which has become an epoch in Weston history, but whether the man was Campbell, Moore of Kentucky, or an official from Walla Walla, is as deep and unfathomable a mystery as any which the people who have been giving their attention to this case have had to grapple. The report that the man who wore the linen duster was Detective Painter, of Walla Walla, is received by many with confidence, and the truth of the matter may eventually leak out.

SAPHO'S LESSON TO SOCIETY.

A Play Illustrating the Traditional Injustice to the Woman Who Has Erred.

The morale of the play "Sapho" is of vastly more importance than mere speculation as to the excellence of the persons producing the piece upon the stage. So far as the Roy Crawford Stock Company's rendition at the Frazer Tuesday night is concerned, it was finely done. The company exceeded the expectations of the people. Miss Darling was thoroughly satisfactory in the title role, winning plaudits for a clear delineation of a difficult part. T. H. Walsh, as the uncle of Jean Gaussin, furnished delicious comedy. Indeed, the members of the company throughout filled the requirements. At times, the acting was superb, while at no time was it below a proper standard of excellence.

But, as intimated in the beginning of this criticism, the morale of the play is the chief thing. The play is famous, a product of the celebrated Alphonse Daudet, whose treatment of social themes has aroused the world to furious discussion. Nor is the discussion trivial, for it involves the question of the wielding of the power of the stage and its undoubted influence upon the popular mind. Is "Sapho" a play such as should be witnessed by the people, old and young, and is its effect wholesome?

In answer to this query, it is probably true that "Sapho" is really valuable. It is a lesson to society. It sets forth the injustice of society to woman who has erred, and presents lucidly the partiality of that same society for men who, having lived lives of questionable cleanliness, or, indeed, of admitted vileness, are allowed privileges and given a standing among good people sharply in contrast with the cruel scorning of the woman who has for a time turned from the path of virtue.

Recalls "Sowing the Wind."

The play brings to mind that seen here last season called "Sowing the Wind," or "Sex Against Sex," which was pronounced by intelligent people as of immeasurable value to all who are thoughtful. It is the old, old issue presented freshly—one standard for men, another for women, pity for men who have sinned, fierce scorn, merciless spurning for the women who have sinned; the writing in indelible ink of the record of the woman, the jotting down of an easily effaced record of the black sins of the man; forgiveness for the man who turns from the wrong, eternal punishment for the woman. He is naught but a prude of limited vision, of narrowness, of prejudice, of unfairness, who sees not these lessons in the play "Sapho." The version of the dramatized novel, given here, may not be the version given in New York, which caused the arrest of Olga Nethersole, but the play as seen here is entitled to be classed among the great products of dramatic art, among the great sermons sometimes preached by people who follow the vocation of histriony.

Miss Derling, the company's pianist, was accorded deserved encores for several of the selections played during the waits between acts. Miss Derling adds much to the enjoyment of the evenings of entertainment by the Roy Crawford Stock company.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the deseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

LESS THAN EXPECTED

John Bahr Tell East Oregonian Readers About His Crop of Wheat.

John Bahr, who resides eight miles north of Pendleton was in town today and talked concerning his crop of wheat, as follows: "I have three quarter sections owned by my brother, Peter Bahr, in wheat, and threshing has been nearly finished. In 1898 this same land yielded 667 odd sacks of wheat, nearly 35 bushels to the acre. The wheat looked better this year than then, and it was thought the yield would be about five bushels more to the acre. As a matter of fact, it is about five bushels less, or just about 30 bushels to the acre. The heads ain't there. The growth of stuff on the ground is too heavy. The mild winter caused a heavy growth of stalk, with the result that the heads are shorter. I also have three quarter sections of wheat on my own place, but have not yet commenced harvesting it, so cannot tell what it will yield."

Mr. Bahr is acknowledged to be one of the most successful and conservative farmers in Umatilla county, and his testimony is corroborative of scores of others who have testified that results are not equal to estimates made before threshing commenced.

Newbro's Herpicide Destroys the Dandruff Germ Permanently and Cures Baldness.

Quinine and rum and a whole lot of other things are pleasant to rub on the scalp after washing it free of dandruff, but not one preparation of the general run will cure the dandruff. A germ causes dandruff and falling hair. It is necessary to kill that germ, to be permanently cured of dandruff, and to stop falling hair. Newbro's Herpicide will positively destroy that germ, so that there can be no more dandruff, and so that the hair will grow luxurantly. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect."

Father Verhaag a Dean.

Father Verhaag, who has been in charge of this parish since January, 1893, has accepted a new charge to which he was appointed last week, says the Huntington Herald. His new field of labor ranks as a deanery and the appointment carries his elevation to a dean. It includes the counties of Washington, Yamhill and Tillamook, and is considered one of the best in Oregon. He will assume charge on Sunday, August 5th. It is not certain who his successor will be.
