FROM THE SUMMER RESORTS.

PENDLETONIANS ENJOY THEMSELVES IN THE MOUNTAIN RETREATS.

Bingham Springs, Meacham, Many Localities Elsewhere, Furnish Relaxation for City People.

Pendletonians are scattered to the various points of the compass at many resorts, having gone to escape the heat of the lower altitudes. Every report coming in tells of keen pleasure and enjoyment.

Stragglings Notes

Kameia, Aug. 6.—To the Editor.—The old Outhart store building, one of the oldest landmarks at this place, is to be torn down, to give room for an additional sidewalk. The increased business on the O. R. & N. is causing many valuable improvements to be made.

We all like huckleberry pie. It is one luxury which appeals to every appetite. It is universally beloved, sought after, eaten and relished. But we had our love for huckleberry pie shattered this week. We ran across the adored fruit. They had a saddle blanket, with huckleberry hair, spread upon the ground, and were beating the brush over their bare knees to knock the berries off onto this blanket. We went back on huckleberry pie then and there.

Forest fires are raging everywhere in the Bine mountains, giving proof of the carelessness and criminal wastefulness of the camper who leaves a burning fire. The day is not far distant when these destroyed forests will be worth their weight in romantic silver to the farmers and laborers of Oregon. This is wanton waste, and its penalty will be woe to all. When we begin to pay double for wood what we pay today, we will see the utter folly of our acts.

Indian summer is upon us, with its lazy, lazy air, its shimmering mirages, its all-pervading spirit of unrest. We feel the lengthening shadows of autumn falling about us; the daylight is growing less, minute by minute. It is the time of dreams and watermelons. It is the poetry of the year; the shadow of man's changeable thought and life falling visibly upon the earth.

The religious meetings being held at Meacham this week are interesting and beneficial. Several hundred visitors have been present, and some very eloquent speakers have addressed them. But we question the policy of going to the recreation grounds of worn out men and women with preaching and exhortation. They have gone there for rest, and it is poor rest that brings upon us the fearful memory of our shortcomings and our sins. We go home tired. We contract worry which spoils the needed relaxation from care. We come to look down upon that purring voice, which follows us reluctantly into our little private resting spot.

With Boers, Boxers and Anarchists the "divine right" is being crowded closer to its doom. The slow but sure growth of universal democracy, though attended at times with appalling aspects, is sweeping down upon the monarchical thrones and crowns that still cling like parasites upon human government. BERT HUFFMAN.

Famous Log Cabin Eating House.

Meacham, Aug. 6.—Here among the pines of the Bine mountains, where the thermometer would not dare register a temperature above 80, where one drinks water absolutely free from typhoid fever germs, and where a day's enjoyment gives an appetite like a grandstand, that same appetite increasing in geometrical ratio, as the days speed by, life becomes a keen pleasure, sharply in contrast with the experience of those who sulk in the towns of the lower altitudes, and envy the mountaineers. The principal person of Meacham is "Grandma Munra," manager of the Log Cabin Eating House, which, by reason of Mrs. Munra's fame as a caterer and wonderful kindness of heart, has a name throughout the entire United States. At this famed eatery, one may fare like the richest of this earth, for no one excels Grandma Munra in the preparation of meals for guests.

In addition to the eating house, Mrs. Munra has her own regular boarders, those now entertained being: Mrs. L. C. Stanley of Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Mrs. Robert Smith of Perry; Miss Mary Withington, Miss Eleanor Munra Watkins, of Portland; Oscar Drumheller and family, Walla Walla; Mrs. Van De Water, of Walla Walla; Mrs. Lizzie Gamble, of Portland.

On Sunday, there were guests: Mack Watkins, William Miller, of Portland; Mrs. B. S. Burroughs, Ben Burroughs, of Pendleton; Mrs. Taylor and daughter, of Kameia.

Summer School Ends.

Sunday evening, the Summer Bible school came to an end, and remains a pleasant memory for all who attended. It has been a combination of devotional exercises and an outing, mingled with the study of the Bible, and evangelistic methods. Every one who attended is eager for the school to be repeated next year. Saturday evening, W. H. Stone, secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A., spoke briefly, and also on Sunday afternoon. Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Elder, of Moro, preached, and in the evening the closing meeting caused the adoption of resolutions thanking all for assistance during the session. Numbers of campers are there, and the white tents dot the green of the forest in all directions.

Bingham Springs has Many Guests. Bingham Springs, Aug. 6.—Attendance of guests here is really up to the limit of the facilities for accommodation. Manager Avery has no lack of applications. Everyone seems to be enjoying the days spent here, and, as to appetites, one need but to stand at the dining room door for a moment at the call for meals to realize how hungry the fine mountain air and the bathing and the climb of the hills cause people. Sunday evening, the guests attended services conducted by the Rev. S. B. L. Penrose, D. D. of Whitman College. Mrs. E. E. Foll, of Pendleton, singing the "Holy City."

One of the feats of the week has been the driving of the fourhorse stage from the station to the hotel at the springs, by Miss Effie Jean Frazer, which, indeed, few men have accomplished.

Enjoyment at Lehman Springs. Lehman Springs, Aug. 6.—It's nothing new, but people here are having a very fine time, and more are coming every day. The weather is of the sort to invigorate and tone up the system, and anyone who has been here for a few days will testify that he has had the colic swept from his brain by the cooling breezes that blow without cessation. This morning it was cloudy when the day began, but it has cleared, and no rain is in prospect. Recent arrivals from Pendleton are: Joe Ell and wife, Mr. Meach and family, Lee Drake, Gurney Hays, Jack Caviness, Luke Smith, Frank Greenleah, Heaner—James Mitchell, Mrs. N. R. Irwin, Andy Tillard, Frank Roberts, Chester Dutton. Dayton, Wash.—Mr. Elam and family. Portland—Miss Inman.

GENERAL ILL HEALTH.

DISEASE with no specific name, which seems to combine stomach disorder, heart trouble, blood disorder and a host of other ills, and which can be described only by saying you feel "all knocked out" and "good for nothing," means that your kidneys are overburdened and need relief. Kidney derangement is almost always at the bottom of general ill health. Your doctor knows this, but he usually treats the various symptoms one at a time. Foley's Guaranteed Kidney Cure gets at the bottom of these troubles and cures them all at once. For cuts, bruises or sores BANNER SALVE is best.
