Ben Crisp says he feels like a milk shake today. The reason therefor is on account of his experience with a bucking horse near the Catholic Indian school six miles from Pendleton last Saturday evening. He was allowing the horse to drink at the watering trough, when the animal made up its mind to run away, and succeeded. It bucked Mr. Crisp out of the saddle after persistent exertion in that direction, and ebook him up badly and injured him. Mr. Crisp had to walk four or five miles before he succeeded in recapturing his horse.

A Large Steer. One of the largest steers ever raised in Umatilla county was brought from Camas prairie last week and arrived here Saturday, and with 45 lighter ones were bought by Mr. Phillips, who represents Zoecler Brothers of Seattle. This particular animal was weighed at Alta on the way toward Pendleton and registered 1570 pounds. On arrival here after four days' traveling it weighed only 1470 pounds. There has been much speculation as to whether cattle would lose much of their weight while being driven from the ranges to market, and the above would indicate that the loss is considerable. This band of cattle was sold by George Mc-Gangley, who lives on Camas prairie, and he, together with Messrs. Viebrock and Smith, brought them to town and turned them over to Mr. Phillips.

Bear Paw for a Souvenir. C. F. Christiansen returned on the train today from an outing on the south fork of the Umatilla, not a great distance from Bingham. Herman Kruger and Clifford Dupuis, the other members of the party, are expected home this evening, camp having been broken. They will make the journey overland. Fishing and hunting were good. They claim to have killed a bear, and Mr. Kruger preserves one of its paws as a souvenir. They would have brought further evidence of the killing of the bear, but after they had killed it they found it too low on a tree and the chimpanzee destroyed it. They had plenty of sport, just the same.

Foreman McKenzie Recovering. It will be interesting to the many friends of Foreman N. FOR A PORTLAND EXCURSION.

Street Fair and Harvest Carnival Arranging For a Big One.

The Pendleton Street Fair and Harvest Carnival Association meets tonight at 8 o'clock at the headquarters, for the consideration of vital matters.

The superintendent, J. E. Lathrop, visited Portland Sunday, and reports to the East Oregonian that he was successful in every mission incident to his trip. He leaves accompanied back to Pendleton by Professor J. N. Beggs, of Astoria, who is to have charge of the Carnival Queen feature of the Street Fair and Harvest Carnival, and Professor Beggs has already been at work, commencing at once upon the important matters which he will have in charge. Mr. Beggs, who has long understood his business, has done nothing else for years, and after looking the field over during the day, states that he had been most agreeably surprised at the flattering prospects. He will not only have charge of the Carnival Queen feature, but voluntarily offers to do anything else in his power, stating that he will work day and night towards the success of the enterprise. He will be valuable in many other ways than in connection with the Carnival Queen arrangement.

After the meeting tonight announcements will be made tomorrow, and voting for the carnival Queen will commence at once. This feature will be of great interest and will serve to stimulate interest during the time intervening before the fair commences. The association is arranging to make some valuable presents to the lady who will serve as Carnival Queen and in the organization of her court there will be elegant costumes for her majesty, and also for her maids in waiting and ladies of honor.

For a Portland Excursion.

Mr. Lathrop interviewed a number of prominent wholesalers and manufacturers while in Portland and assured them that people here were going to attend the Portland Fair and Carnival in large numbers and solicited upon the principle of reciprocity that representative Portland men consent to visit Pendleton on "Portland Day," upon which occasion an excursion will be run here, a low rate being secured from the railroads. They responded, enthusiastically, expressing deep interest in this section of the country and were apparently desirous of coming here to meet the business men and residents of this section. It is expected that "Portland Day" will be a great day indeed.

The Portland Fair and Carnival preparations are progressing rapidly, and we are going to have a great exhibition. The Pendleton Fair and Carnival coming immediately at the close of the one in Portland, causes no conflict of date, and in no way does one interfere with the other.

A number of matters were taken up in Portland and failure resulted in no one of them. This week will witness energetic work along all lines and the heads of the various departments are urged to realize that an immense amount of work is before us. There is time enough to carry the matter to a successful issue but no time to waste. Let Pendleton people continue in the spirit of hearty co-operation and success is assured.

J. C. Saltmarsh Still Lives.

J. C. Saltmarsh, who was injured in the railway accident in Pendleton on last Thursday evening, is still at Cole's hospital. He is rational and very weak, being unable to sit up. His skull was so badly crushed that a portion of brain matter was removed by Surgeons Vincent and Cole. The condition of Mr. Saltmarsh is still very precarious, and it cannot be at present predicted whether or not he will recover. His condition this afternoon is such as to give his friends reason to hope for the best.

Sale of Sheep.

A deal was consummated a few days ago in Baker City whereby 8000 head of sheep changed hands and a check for nearly $20,000 passed in payment. The sheep were the property of Gale Bros., of Baker, says the Democrat, and was one of the finest flocks in the country. The purchaser was Mr. Neely, the well known Idaho sheep man. The sheep are now ranging a short distance south of this city, but will be transferred across Snake river into Idaho as soon as cool weather sets in.

The Cost of War Dispatches.

London newspapers are "pointing with pride" to the enormous expense they were put to in the matter of telegrams from South Africa. For example, the Morning Post paid $1750 for one of Mr. Winston Churchill's telegrams not long since, and its friends chuckle accordingly. We have in mind one dispatch that cost the New York Herald $7000 during the war with Spain, and there were several others received by other journals that were not much cheaper.
