Henry Kopittke, who recently disposed of his wood yard business to Laatz Brothers, of Denver, Colo., has been in business about 18 years, 15 of which he has handled wood. He told an East Oregonian reporter today that during that time he sold from 6000 to 7000 cords of wood yearly in Pendleton. Six thousand cords for 15 years would be 90,000 cords. That would make a pile of 4-foot wood 10 feet high and five and one-half miles in length.

A few supplementary remarks in regard to repairing Main street bridge may not be amiss. Robert Forster has the contract for furnishing the lumber. The men employed, including Mr. Cooper, the foreman, are hired by the city, and, in addition Mr. Forster gives the city the benefit of his bridge building experience free of charge. The work is progressing satisfactorily and no delay to travel is resulting.

Dr. Wythcomb was in The Dalles Thursday, having before the people a proposition for establishing an experimental station somewhere in that locality in connection with the state agricultural college. He desired to secure 20 acres of ground where experiments can be conducted in growing grasses and grains in the semi-arid region.

Theodore F. Howard, the well known Pendleton architect and builder, has sent to the East Oregonian a sample bag of his plum crop. The plums are very large, blue below, beautiful in tint and color and delicious to the taste. The soil of Umatilla produces the best of everything.

J. M. Bentley has received telegraphic instructions to adjust the loss on the Hampton fire. Steve Hampton is the gentleman who lost about 900 sacks of wheat in stack at the time of the Gillette separator fire last Wednesday.

A COLT IN A SALOON.

Early Days Recalled by an Occurrence of Friday Evening.

It used to be considered the proper thing for wild and woolly cowboys, when they were running things to suit themselves and making life a burden to city officers of the peace, to ride their horses into saloons so the riders would not have to waste time between drinks by alighting and tying their animals to a tree or post. The occasional killing of one of these offenders of the laws resulted in breaking the habit off completely. A colt in a saloon in Pendleton Friday evening recalled those stirring scenes.

The case of Peter Carroll versus Nellie Davis and the Washington & Columbia River railway will be in issue next Monday forenoon before Justice of the Peace Thomas Fitz-Gerald. L. B. Reeder is attorney for Mr. Carroll and J. J. Ballou for defendant. The property in dispute consists of several pieces of furniture taken by Miss Davis to the W. & C. R. depot for shipment to some city in the state of Washington. Mr. Carroll claims that he owns the furniture and that Miss Davis has no title to it and consequently had no right to remove it from the house owned by Mr. Carroll on the corner of Webb and Cottonwood streets. The property is safe in the warehouse where it will remain until title to ownership has been determined.

Horses Have Influenza.

Chris Simpson and George Peringer returned this morning from Salem, leaving Frank Frazier. All three have horses there in training for the fall circuit races. Mr. Simpson says that his horses and those owned by Mr. Frazier are all suffering with the influenza. The horses belonging to Mr. Peringer have not been attacked by the disease, but there are grave fears that they will be. Sickness in the stables will cause numerous changes in the plans of Pendleton horsemen, for the animals will certainly not be allowed to race unless they are fit.

Testimony to Mrs. Dr. Frank's Skill.

I take pleasure in certifying that Mrs. Dr. Frank, eye specialist, has supplied me with the most satisfactory glasses for reading received by me up to now. She is very successful in giving exact fit. I can also certify to her high reputation in this city and to the fact that various persons here are very much pleased with her glasses.

PEOPLE WHO ARE HERE TODAY.

Henry Heppner, after whom the city of Heppner, Morrow county, was named, came down on the Ward express from Lehman springs Friday, remained in Pendleton a guest at the Hotel Pendleton over night and left this morning for Bingham Springs. Mr. Heppner owned the town of Pilot Rock in this county, or rather owned the land before there was any town there. He began life as a laborer, coming first to The Dalles. He purchased horses and mules and commenced in the early 60's to freight from Umatilla Landing to Boise Basin, Idaho, and having retired from that line of operations conducted a store at Heppner and made money hand over fist. He is the owner of a vast amount of Heppner real estate and other properties, and has the reputation of being a wealthy man, the accumulations of a lifetime, from a humble beginning. Mr. Heppner is a very pleasant gentleman and is making the most of his opportunities for enjoyment.

R. Burns, of Walla Walla, freight and passenger agent of the O. R. & N. Co., was a visitor in Pendleton last evening, and was escorted around by E. F. Wansley, local agent of the O. R. & N. Co. Mr. Burns is in a position to do much to benefit the county by carrying out certain experiments of growing grasses, salting land to vivify it, and such things, and some of his commendable work has already borne fruit, or grass and grain, more properly.

Dayton Hartart returned this morning to his home at Weston.

Mrs. I. T. Barr and children left this morning for Heppner, her home.

Mrs. C. W. Fielding has returned from an outing at Lehman springs.

J. P. Rowley, of the Peoples Warehouse, has returned from a trip to Portland.

Miss Edna Hill and Miss Elsa Rosenzweig of Athena, have been visiting friends in Pendleton.

Heppner Times: Mrs. W. E. Brock returned to her home at Pendleton this morning after enjoying a pleasant visit with relatives and friends in this city.

Joseph Herald, Miss Bertha Wells, of Pendleton, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. U. Temple, at Enterprise, came to Joseph with the Dr. on Thursday.

Mrs. J. M. Bentley and daughters, Misses Frances and Mabel, returned Friday evening from Lehman springs, where they have been on an outing for the past month.

R. S. Grant is in Pendleton today from his farm two miles northwest of Helix. He has completed threshing his 320 acres of wheat, which averaged 35 bushels to the acre.

J. M. Morris, formerly a business man of Athena, now of Stuart, Idaho, was in Pendleton Friday. He took the night train for San Francisco, called to that city by the illness of his daughter.

E. M. Lyons of the St. Joe store, has leased Col. E. D. Boyd's residence at the corner of Webb and Thompson street, and will occupy it after September 1. Mrs. Lyons' two daughters and son, who are now at Moscow, Idaho, will arrive in Pendleton on that date to make this city their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Scalus returned Friday evening from a very pleasant trip through California, having been away a month. They spent the most of their time in San Francisco and in visiting with Mr. Scalus' sister at Santa Rosa, sixty miles north of the Golden Gate city.

Dr. D. J. McFall, of Heppner, was an arrival in Pendleton last evening, having come down from Lehman springs, where he has been a great portion of the summer looking after his interests and enjoying himself. He took the night train for home to resume the disconnected thread of his professional practice.

J. J. and J. P. Shall returned Friday from a hunting and fishing trip to the head of Bear creek. That stream was named long ago, when different kinds of game was to be found there from that which can be caught, seen or killed at present. They were successful in bagging large numbers of grouse and catching fish, but failed to kill a bear.

La Grande Chronicle: J. D. Burns and party arrived in La Grande Friday morning in the private car of President Mohler, of the O. R. & N., on a tour of inspection of the various elevators on their line of road for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of wheat they have on hand at the present time and the amount they have contracted for of this season's yield.

FAIR PLANS ADOPTED.

Actual Work Will Commence on Monday Ladies Auxiliary to Be Organized.

The plans and estimates submitted by A. M. Stringer, the official designer and decorator, at the meeting of the Street Fair and Harvest Carnival at the headquarters, on Friday night, were adopted without alteration. They had been carefully wrought out and were very intelligently presented, so much so that the committee, after most careful consideration, decided to adopt Mr. Stringer's ideas in toto. His intimate knowledge of the subject, gained from years of experience in this line of work, have been found to be invaluable to the gentlemen who are planning the conduct of Pendleton's fair and carnival.

These plans are so plain and explicit and so easily understood that it will require only a moments time on the part of any one who desires to know just what the street fair will be and the manner of its conduct. The elevations and plans drawn by Mr. Stringer are of such a character that any one glancing at them can see just exactly what it is intended to construct.

The association took one more important action in the election of T. F. Howard as an honorary member of the board of directors. Mr. Howard has been of great assistance thus far and will do everything in his power to further the work of construction, which Mr. Stringer takes up at once.

Work will commence on Monday, actual work, and from that time on concrete results will show this as the preparatory advance.

The ladies have taken hold of the work of the woman's auxiliary with vigor and determination and are organizing. However, without waiting for final organization, they have taken up everything which demanded immediate action and have been busily at work securing the cooperation of the younger people of the town. This cooperation has been by no means difficult to secure, as there is a disposition on the part of all to lend any assistance possible. The young ladies and young gentlemen of the place, as well as the children who have been asked, are all anxious to contribute towards success and will do so in any way they are able.

The first week of actual work sees things advanced to a satisfactory stage. But, one week from today, the progress will be not only five times as great, but the results attained will be concrete, such as that every one can see there. And, one month from today, the gates of the fair and carnival will be thrown open to the public with everything in readiness.

THE WHEAT SITUATION.

Halfour-Guthrie Company's Representatives Visiting Umatilla.

D. Pattullo and Messrs. Scott and Burns, of Portland, arrived this morning in a private car and went on to Adams. They will return this evening, attach their car to the night train for Umatilla and go tomorrow to Colfax, in Eastern Washington. Mr. Pattullo is a special agent of the company, well known in Pendleton. Mr. Scott has charge of the company's warehouses and docks at Portland, and Mr. Burns is Portland manager of the company. They are in this county on a tour of inspection of their warehouses and to inform themselves by personal inspection regarding the wheat situation in Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington.

The visit of the above-mentioned gentlemen, together with a desire on the part of several others from outside cities to get a proper conception of Umatilla county's crop, has brought on a discussion. One warehouse man who claims to be as reliably informed as any other in the county, placed as yield this year at only 3,500,000 bushels, and says that in previous years, also, the crop has been placed entirely too high as compared with facts when verified by figures at the close of the statistical year.

VOTING FOR CARNIVAL QUEEN.

Miss Bertha Wells Leads in the List—Some New Candidates Appear.

The voting for candidates for carnival queen has incited considerable more interest. Miss Bertha Wells is in the lead today, and two new candidates announced, as will see from the following list:

The Mazama's Climb.

The Portland Telegram man, who was on the Mazama expedition to Mt. Jefferson, says that only about twenty of the party of thirty three reached the crest of Mt. Jefferson, and none of the top of the pinnacle, though Harry Young, of Salem, went part way up, not finishing the trip as his friends insisted on it being too dangerous. E. R. Parrish was first to the crest, Judge George, whom some thought too heavy for mountain climbing, was second, S. C. Spencer third, a boy named Riddle fourth, Routledge, the artist, and Freeman, the Telegram man. Miss Ulfell, Miss Thompson and Mrs. Mercer made it.

Inducements to Russian Settlers.

The cheapest railway rate next to the "pass" is the emigrant fare from Russia, to Siberia, says the Indianapolis News. To induce emigrants to settle in the eastern districts of Siberia the Russian railways have issued tickets, good for a family of any size, from any part of European Russia to Tobolsk at 2 roubles. From Tobolsk to any part east is 4 1/2 roubles. Hence for not quite 7 roubles, or about $3.50, a whole settler's family can travel about 400 miles.

"Light in the Window."

The Rev. Edward Dunbar, who wrote the old Sunday-school song "There's a Light in the Window for Thee, Brother," sleeps in a tannery's grave at Coffeyville, Kan., where he died a tramp in the town jail ten years ago. His name became a by-word in the places where he was known, and from a prison cell he went forth a vagabond on the face of the earth.

LEWIS' DOUBLE.

Jim Ham No. 2 Attended the State Republican Convention.

There was quite a joke played on the recent republican state convention at Tacoma, which is interestingly related by the Walla Walla Union, as follows:

Some of the delegates picked up a man down at Oyster Bay who looked so much like "Dude" Lewis that I doubt if Lewis himself could have told the difference. They dressed their find in a dark blue Prince Albert, a pair of light trousers, carefully creased, a stovepipe hat, tan gloves and a cane. They coached him to pull his blonde beard outward from the center and to lift his hat three times when any person of prominence passed him. He looked more like "Dude" Lewis than the dude does himself.

"When they became convinced their find could carry his part they escorted him into the convention hall. About 30 fellows who were in the play were scattered about the room and when the mock Jim Ham came in they started a perfect tirade of applause. The pseudo politician came up the aisle bowing and smiling, everyone who was not a part to the plot thinking the article genuine.

"Congressman Jones was speaking at the time the diversion occurred and when he glanced down the hall and saw what he thought to be James Hamilton Lewis, he paused and said, 'Will the gentleman have a seat on the platform?'

"That break cost Jones a great deal in drinks and cigars. The name of the fellow who impersonated Lewis I can't remember, but they called him the Duck of Oyster Bay."

Banker for Bryan.

Denis Deming, president of the First National bank, the largest bank in Terre Haute, Indiana, a republican who voted for McKinley four years ago, has come out for Bryan. Mr. Deming opposes McKinley's foreign policy and his vacillating conduct since he became president. He regards these as the issues of the campaign.

Tuck Favors Germany.

As a result of the recent trip to the United States of Admiral Achmond Pasha, of the Turkish navy, the Sultan has issued an irade ordering the minister of Marine, Hassan Pasha, to negotiate for the construction of six cruisers at the Germania Works, Kiel.
