Under the laws of the state of Oregon a person who kills more than 15 grouse in any one day is guilty of a misdemeanor. True sportsmen are also of the opinion that any person who will kill more than that number of birds, in reality more than he can use comfortably, is also guilty of being considered a hog. It is no crime to be a hog.

A visiting exhibit at the coming Pendleton Street Fair and Carnival would be the best advertisement this section could possibly have, says the Lawton Standard. Pendleton feels a deep interest in this section for many of her people have large property holdings here, and will do everything in her power to aid the development of the mines and all other resources. Such an exhibit can be easily arranged and will repay us a thousand fold for all trouble involved.

She celebrated the occasion by shooting herself in the instep of her left foot. Fortunately the ball passed through my the flesh and no bones were broken. Dr. McFall dressed the wound and at last accounts Miss Rothrock was almost ready to go on another hunting trip.

The society columns of the Seattle Times of August 15, contain the announcement that C. O. White, formerly of Pendleton, and Miss Mary Shirley, of San Francisco, would be married in the Bronson hotel parlors on Sunday, August 19. Mr. White is the proprietor of the Bronson, having taken charge several months ago, immediately upon his arrival here from Pendleton. The only drawback to the information contained in the Times item is that it is contradicted by Mr. White in letters to relatives here. He declares that some of his progressive friends of Seattle had the item published for the purpose of a joke.

LODGING-HOUSE SNEAK-THIEF.

Harry J. Shirk Lost Nearly Sixty Dollars Monday Night.

The lodging house "sneak-thief" is abroad in the land. Monday night he was not abroad. He was rustling around seeking whom he might devour. Harry J. Shirk is the victim and he is loser nearly $60. He went to the Pendleton lodging-house, Main and Alta streets, secured room 31 and retired at a reasonable hour. He had his money, between $20 and $30, in a common cloth tobacco pouch, in his pants pocket. That article of apparel he placed under his pillow. The proprietor advised him to leave his money in the office, and notice to that effect are hung in every room, but he did not think it necessary to take the precaution. At a later hour "Rube Perkins" came in and registered, and was assigned to the same room, there being two beds in that apartment. Rube went out to get a drink or two, as he said and came back later and went into room 30, instead of 31. There was a man sleeping in that room, who was awakened by Mr. Perkins fumbling around under his pillow. Then Mr. Perkins disrobed and got into the extra bed in room 30, just as though he had a right to do so. He only remained there a few minutes when he went into his own room and proceeded to occupy his bed. Mr. Shirk does not know at what time Mr. Perkins left his room, but it must have been quite early. Neither does he know positively that some person did. The tobacco pouch, empty, was found in the hallway this morning, where it had been thrown after its contents had been secured. Mr. Perkins' real name may be "Rube Perkins," but it is a sure thing that he is no "Rouben," according to the vernacular of the Bowers district.

HAND CAUGHT IN MACHINE.

John Barker the Victim of a Serious Accident Monday Evening.

John Barker, the thrashing machine man, was the victim of a serious accident Monday evening. He had his outfit at work on Lee Beam's place in Stage Gulch, 15 miles northwest of Pendleton. He started in to oil the feeder at about 6 o'clock, and was wearing a pair of heavy gloves at the time. The glove on his left hand caught on the handle-pin and swung it in against the side of the cylinder. The central part of the back of his hand was ground to a pulp, so that he is almost certain to lose the middle finger at least, as well as the use of the index and third finger. The bones at the base of the thumb and little finger escaped being crushed. Mr. Barker came to Pendleton at once, arriving here at 7:30, accompanied by his brother-in-law, J. J. English, and by James Williams and Mark Shaeckelford. Dr. C. J. Smith dressed the wound, and Mr. Barker secured apartments at Pendleton's lodging house. He suffered considerable pain last night, but was resting comfortably today.

Mr. Barker has been a resident of Umatilla county for eight or ten years, residing on the Len Oliver place below Pendleton. This is his first season as a thrashing machine man. He has a fine steam-power outfit and up to this time no serious occurrence has had a good season.

Where Pearl Comes From

The pearl fisheries of the Red Sea extend the whole length of that water. About three hundred boats are employed by the Arab tribes, manned by crews of from five to twelve men, each provided with a number of small canoes. There are two fishing seasons of the year, and this treasure is said to be often times as exclusive as a far more precious treasure—Health, for which so many search uselessly. The surest guide to health is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invaluable remedy for stomach disorders, recommended by the best physicians for the past fifty years. It should be taken for constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, liver trouble, kidney weakness or any disorder resulting from impure blood or an overworked stomach.

John Wyrick's Wheat.

J. W. Faubian arrived in the city last evening after an absence of six weeks with John Wyrick's heading crew. Mr. Wyrick has finished heading and threshing his 200 acres of wheat in the Juniper district, and he is pleased to chronicle that it went 39 bushels to the acre. Mr. Wyrick will now head the wheat of Stephen Walker, one and one-half miles southwest of Pendleton. Mr. Faubian stated that the most of the heading had been done in Juniper, and that lots of it was in the stack, although threshing was progressing rapidly. Mr. Faubian did not apprehend that last night's rain would do any particular damage up there, unless it should continue so long as to prevent threshing and give the wheat time and cause to sprout in the stack.

HERPICIDE

Destroy the Cause, you Remove the Effect

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ which causes falling hair, and, finally, baldness. No other hair preparation kills the dandruff germ. Stop dandruff, there'll be no falling hair, no baldness.

DICKINSON, N. D., Nov. 8, '98. Have been using Herpicide, and have used about three bottles. It has done for me what I have tried for years to do. It does all, and even more, than you claim for it. It not only kills the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out, but promotes a new growth. Have only used the quantity mentioned, and have more hair on my head than I have had for years. I also find that it keeps the hair and scalp green.

Wound Around the Shaft.

George Brown, who resides in the Juniper country, met with an accident last Wednesday which came near being fatal. He was working with Henry Hill's thrashing-machine outfit, on Mr. Hill's grain. His jumper caught in the big cog wheel of the gearing to the cylinder and yanked him around pretty lively while it made seven or eight revolutions. The jumper was torn and considerably soiled by such rough usage, but Mr. Brown escaped almost miraculously to thank his lucky stars that he was not born to be killed in such a manner.
