more law, less palaver and more discipline, less sentimentalism and more exactness. Such is your prescription after a careful diagnosis of this case of painful disorder in the body politic. However, you offer it simply as "one remedy," leaving the inference that there are others. Now, allow me, if you please, to try a hand at this case myself. I freely confess that I am a younger and less experienced doctor than yourself, but I claim to belong to a different and perhaps sounder school. There are some elements in the case which seem to have entirely escaped your professional eye.

First—These Northern race riots are the growth of the last year or two. Second—One of the two, under consideration occurred in New York, the home of the "strenuous life." The other occurred in Ohio, the home of "benevolent assimilation."

Now, hasn't there been a certain Teddy going about the country blustering and swaggering, and roughly telling the young men that it is a noble thing to fight for the mere sake of fighting? Did not this same Teddy in a magazine article boast of having shot a Spaniard in the back while the latter was fleeing from the field? Did he not write to a committing magistrate in New York commending that official for having summarily discharged two boys brought before him on a charge of fighting? And is he not the first governor of a Northern state to attempt in public speech a justification of the lawless acts of "Cretch" Taylor and his associate in bringing armed mobs to the capital of Kentucky to prevent the legally constituted and elected legislature from assembling? And this man hath become a god! 'Tis even so. And thus has the strenuous life been glorified and fed among the youth of the land until it has festered and broken out in ugly sores upon the body politic at Akron—near Canton—and New York city. The remedy is obvious. A return to the traditional American view of the soldier. Let us teach our boys, in the past, that they should ever be ready to defend their country, if need be, to the extent of sacrificing their lives; that it is the part of the patriot to fight for sacred principle, but that of the bully to fight for the mere sake of fighting.

We need less bluster and more sense; less commercialism and more genuine patriotism; less talk about "planting down the flag," and more comprehension of what the flag stands for. The men who are responsible for the nihilistic mischief in this country these two years by their policy of militarism and imperialism, under the disguise of "strenuous life" and "benevolent assimilation," must be run to earth and buried beyond hope of resurrection. The first fruits of their sowing are seen at home in the New York and Akron atrocities. Those who believe in the fundamental principles of our government will see the point and be governed accordingly.

Henry Underwood Johnson, ex-republican congressman from the Sixth Indiana district, has announced his intention of supporting Bryan. Johnson is one of the most brilliant and forcible orators ever heard in congress. His father was Judge Nimrod Johnson, for years on the circuit bench in Indiana.

West Virginia and Maryland are reported to the democratic national campaign officials as almost sure to return their electoral votes for Bryan and Stevenson.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, formerly president of Northwestern university and recently called by the faculty of Yale, says he will vote for Bryan and Stevenson. Dr. Rogers supported McKinley in 1896.

Hon. Charles Denby of Indiana, ex-United States minister to China, and a member of the first commission to the Philippines, a life-long democrat, has written a letter endorsing the reelection of President McKinley. It is entitled, "Bryan's Attitude Toward the Philippines," and is made public by the republican national committee. He subscribes to the doctrine of imperialism as upheld by President McKinley.

On page 127 of Roosevelt's book, "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," the following sentence occurs: "Cattle men hate sheep, because they eat the grass so close that cattle cannot live on the same ground. The sheepherders are a nervous, melancholy set of men, generally stout, and with no companionship except that of the bleating idiots they are hired to herd. No man can associate with sheep and retain his self-respect." Roosevelt appears to be a sure enough rough rider.

"We do not object to the honest accumulation of wealth. What I object to is a government that protects a few men in their robbery of the masses and then denounces everybody as an anarchist that does not like to be robbed."

"I believe in the expansion of trade. I want this country to expand her trade, but I would not mount one American citizen on the auction block and sell him for all the trade of the Orient if I had to buy it by his blood."

Robert J. O'Neil writes to the Portland Oregonian as follows: "Recent phenomena in the way of race riots in Northern cities afford material for a timely editorial in this morning's issue of your paper. You wish to know the meaning of these strange things which have come to pass, and with a commendable spirit you set your mind to work thinking out the reasons therefor and the causes thereof. Proceeding to dig down for the root of the trouble, you hold as utterly untenable the suggested notion of a possible miscarriage of justice by the screening of the negro offender before a lawful tribunal. Nor will the usual explanation of such occurrences in the Southern states do in the cases of Northern riots. The outbreak at Akron you find to be as wanton as the one in New York are not labor riots. Nor, again, can we take refuge in ready excuse that has often served us under similar circumstances—it will not apply. We cannot charge these offenses up to the foreigners. No. At length we must put these Pharisians by. The New York and Akron mobs are to the 'manner' born."

Where, then, is the breeding ground of this monster which has lately shown its ugly head? Verily, 'tis a puzzle. But, ah! You have it. 'Tis the fond friend known as the Chicago platform. A plague upon it—'tis always up to mischief! Down with it, and stamp upon it! Let us have less liberty and
