The broader Henry Norman, a well known newspaperman, who has recently been traveling in Asiatic Russia, tells many interesting things of that far away country and speaks thus of one of its products. The carpets woven by Turkoman women in their moving tents, without any pattern to copy, the design being handed down by instinct and memory, was both for design and workmanship, the finest thing of the United States. Mr. Scott is a lover of Oregon, a believer in its future greatness. No man is more of an Oregonian than he is, nor more fitted to speak for Oregon in the great halls of statecraft. He is not a lawyer, but he is as capable as any lawyer in Oregon. He is not a great orator, and none is needed in this connection. If he were

Mery is a town somewhere near the Afghanistan frontier, also a station on Afghanistan frontier, also a station on the trans-Caspian railway, whose absorption by Russia in 1889 caused Gladstone to ask for and instantly receive from the English parliament a war grant of $55,000,000 to be ready for Russia's next step south. But Merv has long since ceased to be a Russian boundary, for in the dark you can see a branch line of railway stealing southward across the plain, this is the famous strategical line of one hundred and ninety miles to the one hundred and ninety miles to the very frontier of Afghanistan and eighty miles from Herat. The Rus-sians keep this line absolutely secret, sians keep this line absolutely secret, no permission to travel by it ever having been given to a foreigner. It is interesting as one stands here on the edge of the platform and looks down the few yards of this mysterious line visible in the dark, to reflect that if the future brings war between England and Russia, its roaring tide will flow over these very rails for the will flow over these very rails for the invasion of India, and that if it brings peace, this will be a station on the through line between Calais and Van Dran Bros., Props. Kandahar. Some day surely, though it may be a long time distant, and only when tens of thousands of Rus-sian and British soldier ghosts are
