Everybody was well satisfied with Judge Hitchcock's scoring and the award of prizes.

He was thoroughly dissatisfied with soldier life, and expressed his disapproval of the manner in which the privates were treated. Mr. Crawford is an interesting talker and told his relatives and friends more about the actual conditions in the Philippines than they could otherwise have learned without considerable research.

A CHICAGO MAN LIKES CAT.

His Children Complain When He Tries to Make Them Eat it Too. J. Martin Dannecker, a Chicago tailor, has excited his neighbors and stirred up the health board of the Windy City by adopting a cat diet.

"Yes, I eat cat meat," said Dannecker when questioned about the matter. "I'm going to have it for supper. Come around and I'll give you some."

"What are all these people making this great fuss about, anyway? I've eaten dog meat for years, I've taken it to cure lung trouble. I found it hard to get dogs to kill that had tender meat. So I tried the cat. I killed one Wednesday and pickled it. I had some for supper last night and more for dinner today. It's tenderer than dog, and it's good."

"I know complaints have been made to the police and the board of health, but let them complain. It's my business what I and my children eat. It isn't true that I forced my children to eat it. My little girl tasted it but didn't like it."

The man brought out a big bowl which contained cat meat in a pickle of vinegar and oil. Regarding himself with the odor of the preparation he uttered a sigh of satisfaction.

"Ah, its good," said he, replacing the dish in the refrigerator.

Dannecker has two children, John, fourteen years old, and Louise, twelve.

The boy ran into the house of a neighbor, Mrs. George Hicks, and declared that his father had put him out of his home because he had refused to eat some of the cat at dinner.

John declared that his sister, in fear of her father, had taken some of the meat.

This particular cat was a big Maltese. Neighbors saw its carcass hanging at the back of the tailor's house before it was prepared for the table.

When they heard the boy's story they reported the affair to the health board, and are now investigating the complaint.

said Health Officer Chandler, "but I don't know of any law that prohibits a man from eating a cat if he wants to. As far as I can see the only thing I can do is to provide the children with a good meal."

Mrs. Nation on Parade. Chicago, Feb. 12.—This afternoon Mrs. Nation, followed by a howling mob of a thousand, drove to the city hall and the county jail.
