TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1903.

LARGE CROWD ASSURED.

Any Tickets Have Been Sold for Friday's Football Game. The members of the football team and Manager W. C. Guntter are hustling like leavers to make the closing sale of a season one to be pleasantly remembered. Walla Walla will compete against Pendleton. Some of the best boys they are coming down to fight for Walla Walla, and fight for the team if necessary. Next Friday, February 22, is the day, and at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the hour. Any tickets were sold for the game yesterday and the town is still being invaded. The money to guarantee the fares and expenses of the visiting players has been secured and nothing now remains but to wait with patience until the teams line up ready for the shock.

High License for Walla Walla.

There is a high license movement on foot in Walla Walla and it is likely the coming city election there will be fought out along that line. The project does not seem to have been fully matured as yet, but certain it is that the church element strongly favors the nominating of a ticket at the next municipal election which, if elected, will guarantee the raising of the city saloon license from $150 a year, where it stands at present, to $1000 per annum. In this the reformers count upon the aid and assistance of the more wealthy saloon men, who, it is thought, will lend their support in order that they may need out the cheaper saloons and force the trade to their own places of business.

Land Office Reversed.

The secretary of the interior has reversed a recent ruling of the general land office commissioner concerning location of claims across claims previously patented. The latter had refused payment to a Gilpin county, Colorado, company on the ground that part of their location lines were laid within or upon other patented lode claims. The secretary holds that extralateral rights are often the most valuable rights obtained in a lode location; that exterior lines of a location are not in themselves property, but mere boundaries of instruments of description, and that the junior locator has the right, where necessary, to place exterior lines on other patented claims.

Expensive Dining Cars.

The Burlington has placed an order with the Pullman company for five dining cars. The cost of each car, including chairs, linen, silver, etc., will be about $25,000. Each of the cars will have the new stripe roof, and will seat forty passengers. The furnishing will be rich, yet severely plain. Instead of using mirrors and filigree work to enhance the appearance of the cars, the builders will achieve the desired result by the liberal use of polished woods.

Sold His Hogs.

George L. Ward, of the Echo country, arrived in town Monday with a lot of fat hogs of his own raising. Mr. Ward sold the "pork on the hoof" to Swartz & Greenleaf at $5.10 per hundred pounds. Mr. Ward says he made a good profit in hogs and the Echo country is well adapted to the raising of them. He says Pendleton is an excellent market, yielding him a better price than he can obtain at other points.

IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION.

Estimated That Twenty-Five Houses Are Being Built.

A slight investigation of affairs discloses the fact that the building boom which has been going on in Pendleton for nearly two years is taking a spur this early in the season with the prospective result that the number of residences erected during the year 1903 will eclipse all previous records. The amount of money spent in construction will perhaps not equal that of a few other years, as the list does not include any large and expensive business houses, but a number of the residences are expensive and not only that, they are worth every cent they cost. The residence of T. C. Taylor, west of the court house, holds the list for beauty of design, excellence of finish and cost. A contractor well informed stated last evening that he would estimate the number of residences now in process of construction at 25. The new building to be used by the Y. M. C. A. will add an impetus to the boom. W. J. Sewell, manager for A. C. Shaw & Co.'s lumber yard, between lower Webb and Alta streets, states that business is very good and that the company he represents is furnishing the lumber for many of the buildings in course of construction.

R. Pommer, proprietor of the Pendleton planing mill and lumber yard, Webb and College streets, reports that business is good and that he is furnishing the material for several houses, and that the building of others is contemplated. A. J. Borie, of the firm of Borie & Light, proprietors of the Oregon Lumber yard, had considerable building information to impart when he was seen this morning at the office on Alta street directly south of the court house, as follows: Across the river, in North Pendleton, Peter Peterson is finishing up his residence. C. S. Collier, of the Boston Store, has his new building nearly finished. Joe Robinson is building a home. William Goddeck's new residence is just about finished. Jess Field is commencing the construction of a home just east of T. E. Fell's residence. George H. Richter is building at a point about half way from the end of the sidewalk on Jackson street, and Fred Walters' custom mill; Ralph Peleman has his new building finished; D. B. Bailey has his house completed and is completing the adorning of his property with fence, etc. On lower Alta and Webb streets, Lou Rhodes has just completed two new buildings; L. F. Dunlap is building.

"Cucumber" Davis was in the city this morning and loaded up three teams with lumber at the Oregon Lumber yard which he took out to his farm five or six miles south of town to use in building a house. He will also put up a barn and make other improvements.

MONTANA PEOPLE LIKE HEAT.

The testimony of Burlington Dining Car Conductor.

"One of the queerest things I have ever struck was up in Montana," said a dining car conductor of the Burlington this morning. "I used to run out of Chicago and have had run other parts of the country. I was always figured ahead in making orders for supplies certain proportions of steaks, chops, vegetables, fruit and pastries. On the Billings line we found that all proportions had to be revised, and that we had to order twice as many steaks, and chops, less vegetables and fruits, and scarcely any pastries or desserts at all. Those Montana people are the greatest meat eaters I ever saw. They give most orders almost exclusively with but very little vegetables or fruit, and do not care for pie or cake. Out of Chicago we could figure on selling about four $1.50 porterhouse steaks. In Montana it is eight. I do not know what makes it unless the Montana people live more in the open air, work harder, and get up more wholesome appetites than the people out of Chicago, who prefer pie, puddings and cake."

OPERATED IN UMATILLA COUNTY.

Ed Weston Arrested at Rossland, B. C., and Brought to Custody here.

The following telegram from Colville, Wash., contains information which will be read with interest, as it is believed the man referred to formerly operated throughout this section: Sheriff Ledgerwood on Saturday, February 17, brought Ed Weston down from Rossland, where he was arrested Thursday by the chief of police. He is now confined in the county jail. He was arrested on the charge of horse stealing, committed last September. He and his brother John were involved in the shooting scrape at Rossland, B. C., recently. He committed robbery in British Columbia without trouble. His parents live in Stevens county, where he is well known as a desperate character. He is wanted in Columbia county and in different counties both in Oregon and Washington.

SHOT A POLICEMAN.

But the Officer Killed the Desperate Man After He Was Wounded. Edolph Smith, a laborer on the Montana Central railroad at Great Falls, Sunday morning ended a violent quarrel with Carrie Bell, an inmate of a disorderly house in that city by shooting her in the left breast, below the nipple, inflicting a terrible and fatal wound. The bullet tore its way downward and through her body and passed out at the right hip. Clara Richards sounded the whistle for the police and Officer Hogan responded. He met Smith at the door of the woman's room. Smith immediately fired, the shot passing through Hogan's left thigh and the second entering the body near the naval. After the second shot Hogan dropped to his knees, but raised his gun and fired six shots in quick succession into Smith's body, every one penetrating near the naval and groin. Smith dropped dead, still grasping his gun, which missed fire. Hogan will recover, the bullets having been extracted, but the woman's life is despaired of. The woman's arms are black and blue, indicating that she had struggled with Smith before he shot her.

MRS. FAIRBANKS' MERRYNESS.

A La Grande Lady Establishes a Profitably Industry.

Mr. W. W. Fairbanks has the distinction of being the pioneer in sheep-raising which is destined to become of such importance as the country develops and becomes self-sustaining, says the La Grande Chronicle. The jumping of the grade at an adjunct of the farm is common everywhere, but the keeping of fowls as a business by itself and the proper development of its possibilities as a wealth-producing industry has been attempted by no one else in this section of the state. The shipping in of $1500 worth of eggs at one time last fall demonstrates the need of greater effort in this line. Mrs. Fairbanks has been in the line several years and has built it up from the most modest beginning. She now has over $2000 worth of buildings and appliances and has 400 hens and laying ducks. Besides young fowls she sold last year eggs to the value of $115.13, and poultry, $342.85. Her expenses for feed were $278.83, leaving $606.13, as the reward of her labor, and, as she does practically all her own work, she may well be pleased at the showing.

A few figures of last year's business are given: Number of hens January, 1900, 330; number of those hens remaining January, 1901, 200; number of eggs laid during 1901, 31,880; number of eggs from 36 Pekin ducks, 3252, value at 25 cents per dozen, $812.75.

The number of chickens grown and sold was over 1500; ducks, over 900.

A TOUR FOR PLEASURE.

Mr. and Mrs. Tassoy Stewart Will Extend Their Trip. Mr. and Mrs. Tassoy Stewart, of Healy, who have been on a trip to California and other sections of the coast since last October, will extend their trip and not return to Umatilla county for several months. In a letter from Portland, under date of February 16, Mr. Stewart says in part: "I have enjoyed your paper, not only the last year but for many years past, and ever since I left Pendleton I have been a great pleasure to receive the East Oregonian and have a good feast of home news. We have traveled over the greater part of this country and expect to go south soon. Enclosed you will find a check for another year's subscription. The first place I will ask you to send the paper is Port Antonio, Jamaica, West Indies. I expect to remain there about a month. We always depend on the East Oregonian for all our home news."

Successful experiments have recently been accomplished in wireless telegraphy, and its adoption will undoubtedly be a good thing, and revolutionary way of doing business. One writer has gone so far as to say that wireless telegraphy is the greatest discovery of the age. We beg to differ. Don't overlook Hostetter's Stomach Bitters when you talk about the great things of the world. This marvelous medicine is designed to promote health and settle stomach troubles than any other medicine in existence. It cures dyspepsia, indigestion, malaria and constipation. It never fails. Played "The Rivals."

Estel Hunter of Moscow was the guest of Will Lewis on Monday, and left for home this morning. He is a student at the university of Idaho, and a member of the theatrical troupe of that institution which has been on a trip to Boise. The company passed through Pendleton last week, played The Rivals at Boise on Saturday evening and passed through Pendleton this morning on their way home. The others of the company were joined here by Mr. Hunter who had preceded them one day in order to visit here with his friends and see the town.
