SAYS SHEEP WILL DROP.
Douglas Belts Says, However, Sheep Men Won't Stand Too Much.

Douglas Belts, when asked today regarding the probabilities that sheep will be lower this spring than last, and regarding the reported announcements that Eastern buyers will pay no more than 75 cents less than they did a year ago, replied:

"Sheep will be lower this spring, but not so much lower as buyers seem to expect, that is, if any are sold. In my opinion, sheep breeders will not listen to any 75 cents drop from the prices of last spring, which were $2.50 for yearlings. Rather than sell at the low price of $1.75 a head for yearlings, they will hold until the market improves. Sheep men are in rather an independent attitude, and are able to wait for an indefinite period for better figures. In my opinion, 25 cents a head less than was paid last spring would be a price that would induce many to sell who, if a greater reduction is attempted, will hold their sheep."

"The past few days of sunshine and warmth have brought out the grass in good condition, and feed is now plentiful on the ranges. But range is rather scarce this year, the amount of sheep in the country being so great as to tend to crowd out the smaller sheep handlers."

Several representatives of outside buying concerns are here to attend the wool convention, and it is thought that some idea of the spring market may be obtained.

The talk of the hotel lobbies is that sheep are quite sure to be somewhat lower than they were a year ago, but on a question to be detailed appears to be how much of a reduction will be made. It is asserted that one man contracted for 5000 yearling sheep at $2.50 each, and is now offering the same lot for $2.25. The buyers and all the representatives of the railroads contend that the last year's prices must be shaved, and quote Chicago markets in substantiation of the contention.

Ed Crow, an Indian about 16 years old, son of Five Crow, was hurt while playing a practice game of football Friday afternoon at the agency school, after school hours. He was playing fullback and was the under boy in a scrimmage. When the boys had unguarded themselves it was discovered that Ed Crow had suffered a fracture of the right leg above the ankle. Dr.

LA GRANDE MAY LOSE SHOPS.

O. R. & N. COMPANY ENJOINED FROM THE USE OF A STREET.

This Action Has Caused the President of the Road to Talk Plain and Pointedly.

President A. L. Mohler was in La Grande Monday morning en route east. During the stop of the train there he made the positive statement that the O. R. & N. division terminal would not remain at La Grande under present conditions. This remark, refers, says the Chronicle, to the placing of an injunction on the proposed closing of Fourth street. In effect this proposition is now "up to the people." President Mohler considers that the closing of Fourth street to give the company additional yard room was a part of a contract entered into between the city and the railroad company, and that his company, in the building of the new depot, carried out its part of the contract, and that the city has broken faith in its part of the agreement.

The burden of the whole proposition, therefore, seems to be on the citizens, and the alternative is to end this difficulty in regard to the vacation of Fourth street or lose the shops and terminal division.

This decision on the part of President Mohler was reached a few days ago while he was in consultation with Superintendent O'Brien and Assistant Superintendent Buckley, and it is now open and public and that is all there is to it.

To one or two of the employees at La Grande, President Mohler made the same statement, in effect, that the company must be accorded the additional yard room according to contract or they would look elsewhere for terminal facilities, and in this connection he suggested that the division could be moved to Hilgard and also that the company had a proposal of a cash bonus of $50,000 and all the grounds required for the location of a division point at Baker City.

This is the essence of the case in a nutshell. What will the citizens of La Grande do about it?

The La Grande Journal in referring to the matter says it has the strongest sympathy for those individuals who, by reason of the recent ruling of the city council in favor of the O. R. & N. company, have experienced personal inconvenience and depreciation in the value of their property; but it cannot commend the judgment or the farsightedness of those who have enjoined the railroad from further action in the hope of securing themselves against loss. There may be a great depreciation in the value of some of this property, and the owners must feel that they are in the right. But there are times when it is better to digest one's spleen and practice discretion. It has already been fully demonstrated that the railroad needs the shops and that it has asked for, and it cannot now afford to be handicapped by an injunction. There are some very pregnant rumors current to the effect that both Pendleton and Baker City are making strong pulls for the shops now located here and one or the other may get them. A little horse play on the part of some of our citizens. Any one knows that it would be up to La Grande if she lost the railroad patronage she now enjoys. In a city of this size the distribution of $5,000 monthly is no small thing. Rather than lose it the citizens would better combine together and buy every piece of property which is now serving as a bone of contention.

THE WOOL MARKET.
It Closes Dull and in Favor of the Buyers.

"Finance," the St. Louis publication, has the following to say of the wool market:

The long expected movement in the wool trade has not materialized this month, and in consequence causes great disappointment among the traders. Yet there appears to be an undercurrent that there is a brighter future for the wool men near at hand, as the trade has suffered fully 13 months, and it is a long lane that has no turning, and certainly the wool trade will soon revive, without a doubt.

The principal transactions of the month have been in bright Missouri and Illinois 1 and 3-8's combed wools, and even on those lines have been on the light order. For what has been sold, however, fairly good prices have been obtained. The next best list is pulled wools in the grease and scoured, which have sold in moderate quantities during the month; also a good sized sale of 12 months Texas has gone forward to a prominent Eastern concern. Territories and Western wools in general, which are held in the largest blocks in this market, continue on the neglected order, as usual. Slight concessions have been made on this class of wool from time to time, and at present values look very reasonable and surely the manufacturer ought to make a drive for them yet they do not do so. In consequence we shall have to wait, as Macawler says, until something turns up, and trusting that the time is not far off when the wool men will once more wear a pleasant smile. The heavy weights did not turn out quite as favorable as was expected, yet they might have been considerably worse. Also the London auction sales did not help us to any extent, either. So, to sum up the market, it closes dull and in favor of the buyers. The stocks on this market of all descriptions are about 15,000,000 pounds.

NEW EXPERIMENTER.
Col. Judson Secures Prof. Rommel, of Iowa College.

Col. R. C. Judson, industrial agent of the O. R. & N. Co., announced today that he had secured the services of a man of considerable prominence to take charge of the experimental farm operated by him near Walla Walla, in connection with his department. Prof. Rommel, assistant of Prof. John A. Craig, of the department of animal industry at the Iowa state agricultural college, Ames, Iowa. Mr. Craig succeeds Richard McEahey. Mr. Rommel has been for years in this line of work, and Col. Judson regards Prof. Rommel as one of the best men he could have found in the United States.

During the coming season, at the farm, experiments will be made with sheep feeding, several varieties of grass being sown for that purpose. The new superintendent will take charge of the farm at the close of the wool convention here, having been substituted on the program for Prof. Craig.

WANT A RETURN GAME.
Pendleton Will Not Be Able to Accept the Offer.

W. C. Gunther is in receipt of a letter from Lucy L. Galbraith, manager of the Walla Walla football team, suggesting a return game in Walla Walla in the course of a few weeks. The Pendleton team is not in a position to accept the proposition as it is too vague and indefinite. The football season is over, anyway, and as spring approaches the fancy of the local boys turns lightly to baseball and field sports, and things of love, etc., and will play no more football games.

The jewelry lot in Pendleton by the Walla Walla football boys, at the time of the last game, will be forwarded in due season.

Perry's Flagship to Be Raised.
The man-of-war frigate Niagara, on which Commodore Perry won the battle of Lake Erie, in the war of 1812, may soon be recovered from the bottom of the lake. Many people who think that health is as surely lost as though it were also at the bottom of the ocean, should try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, when they will once more find themselves in possession of this precious blessing. The Bitters is especially effective at this season, to drive away winter impurities and refresh the system. It is good for any digestive trouble, and is a sure cure for headache, nervousness, belching, biliousness, colds, malaria, or fever, and ague. See that our private revenue stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

Death of Mrs. U. Van Dran.
Kaspar Van Dran, of the Hotel Pendleton, left on Monday night's train for Albany, to attend the funeral of his wife, Mrs. U. Van Dran, who died in that place Monday morning. Mr. Van Dran was advised of the death of his mother by his brother, George Van Dran, who telephoned the news in the afternoon. The latter went to Albany Saturday night. The funeral is to be held Wednesday morning, and Mr. Van Dran will return home here Thursday morning.

Mrs. Van Dran was 71 years old, and a native of Germany. Her husband died some years ago at the old family homestead near Albany. Of late years, she has resided in Albany. Mrs. Van Dran was born in the county, Oregon, 24 years ago, settling on a farm near Albany.

Tot Causes Night Alarm.
"One night my brother's baby was taken with croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Miller, of Crittendon, Ky. "It seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from croup and whooping cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Infallible for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles, 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Tallman & Co.'s.

Smallpox at Pilot Rock.
A. Miller, who is in Pendleton today, states that there are five cases of smallpox at Pilot Rock in which the patients are all broken out and a number of other cases where the patients are only having it very mild. A new word or term should be coined for the smallpox now prevalent throughout the Inland Empire. While it is smallpox, it is not of that robust, virulent type common many years ago. It is more an amateur kind, not fully developed, and should be given a different name so it would not cause such a scare, which is worse than the disease itself. The doctors might be able to suggest a suitable handle for it.

A Deep Mystery.
It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia. "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and although 73 years old, I now am able to do all my household work." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at Tallman & Co.'s drug store.

The Star Boarder.
The following is what the Evening Telegram of February 4 has to say of "The Star Boarder" which appears at the Frazer Thursday, February 7:

"While not the whole show Charles H. Royle carries the greater part of the responsibility, and manages to be before the footlights most of the time. He is an eccentric comedian, on the strong order, and is about as good a stage tramp as has been seen here in some time. His burlesque on "Othello," playing Desdemona, was a side-splitting feature, as was his take-off of John Philip Sousa, the latter causing him to receive two curtain calls. Dixon and Norton presented a strong card in their imitations of actors of the past decade. They were called upon for more until they simply had to decline from fatigue. A selection from Herne's "Shore Acres" was followed by imitations of Scanlon Kelly, the "Rolling-mill man," Sumner, each in representation being clever. The Esmeralda sisters introduced a dancing specialty of merit, which was enhanced by their good looks. Carrie Franklin, the possessor of a pleasing voice, sang many popular songs, and was assisted by the company as a chorus. Sue Helle Mead was another member having as her share of the entertainment a bunch of songs and some smart sayings.
