JAMES SHARON WAS IN LUCK.

Discharged From Custody at Preliminary Hearing Monday Afternoon. There was a temperance lesson brought out in the preliminary hearing of James Sharon in Justice Fitz Gerald's court on Monday afternoon commencing at 3 o'clock. He was ar-rested early Sunday morning charged with the crime of larceny by taking the horse buggy and harness, property of Mrs. Nancy Ehrhart, who resides on the Wild Horse six miles northeast of Pendleton. Mrs. Ehrhart and the ac-cused had been in Pendleton on Saturday afternoon, the latter having been employed on the farm of the former for the past month. Sharon drank some intoxicating beverages during the day and took three bottles of beer out to the farm with him. He went to the barn and went to sleep in his blankets; but later in the night concluded that he needed more beer for Sunday. He thereupon arose from his resting place, hitched up the same rig which he had used the preceding day and drove Pendleton. He swore on the stand that he intended to get back home before daylight so that Mrs. Ebrhart would not know he had been away with the came to Pendleton and eded to drink more beer and whisky The hours passed pleasantly and he procrastinated going home until long after daylight. At last he brought his horse and buggy around to a Main street saloon and tied it in front to a atried saloon and tied it in front to a telegraph pole, while he went in for a small hot buttle of whisky. He tarried and lingered with friends for an hour or so, and when he got back to where he had left the horse hitched. t was gone. Marshal Heathman and Grant Ehrhart had found it and put it up in a stable. They then proceeded to search for Sharon and arrested him when they found him, Justice Fitz Gerald, after listening to the testimony of Mrs. Ehrhart, Mar-shal Heathman and the defendant, and the arguments of Colonel Parsons for the defense and District Attorney Hailey for the presention, discharged the prisoner on the grounds that the evidence, in his opinion, was not sufficient to cause a jury to bring in a verdict of guilty if he should be held and tried in the circuit court.

It was a narrow escape for the de-fendant. While it was apparently not a case of cold blooded grand lacreny, it was an offense. Had Mrs. Ebrhart lived four miles further from Pendleton, and Sharon had done as he did the Oregon statute would have reached him on another charge, that of taking property away ten miles or more from its rightful owner, although with no intention of committing grand lureeny.

THE ORDER IS OBEYED.

County Commissioner Steps His Paper and There is Reason Why. The following order has been reeived by the subscription clerk of the East Oregonian and complied with: Pendleton, Ore., March 12, 1901-Te the East Oregonian:-You will please stop mysubscription to the East Oregonian and take my name from your list and send any bill that I may owe you for subscription to the same, to Ukiah, Oregon, and oblige me. T. P. GILLILAND,

There is a reason for Mr. Gillilland's aversion to the East Oregonian. He with a little gathering of relatives came to the office the other day and and friends. Among those present desired to have printed for his own use before Fred had left home. That from her ranch three miles north of desired to have printed for his own use town. Mr. Gilliland has a right to "stop his paper" to it in any but he has no right to order anything for his own use on the county's account, and the East Oregonian will not permit it so far as it has the power, and he always a should be should

It required several hours on Friday and Saturday evenings to perform the necessary work of complete organization. Among the visiting knights were twenty from Walla Walla.

In the organization of this new 'temple not made with hands,' including the "brethren of the mystic tie" who were already Knights Templar Masons, there were nine candidates initiated into the Red Cross degree on Friday evening and advanced on Saturday evening to the Black

Cross degree The work was directed by Hon. A. Moore, of Salem, associate justice of the Oregon supreme court, acting in his official capacity as most eminent grand commander of the Oregon state commandery, Knights Templar. The new organization is known as Pendleton commandery, under dispen-sation, the number and other matters to be fixed by the higher action of the state commandery later on.

Pendleton is Improving. "We had a very pleasant two days" stay in Pendleton and we were royally entertained," said Sir Knight John D. Mathieson, one of the most efficient and best liked engineers on the O. R. & N. Co. system, when seen yesterday by a reporter. "Pencieton is showing marked improvement and is rapidly becoming a very handsome city of the smaller class," continued Mr. Mathie-son, "and I was especially surprised at the unusually large proportionate number of elegant and costly private residences. Two prominent citizens are now having constructed beautiful homes which will cost about $7000 and $10,000, respectively. And there are others.
