THE RUSSIAN REGIME IS
Not improved Under the New Minister of Education.
St. Petersburg, April 13.—Hopes for reform which attended the appointment of General Vanoski, as minister of public instruction, have been blasted by the first act under the new administration. Two students in Kieff university having been sent to the military barracks for discipline, protested against punishment, and refused to obey orders. At once they were court-martialed and shot. Another student also was condemned to death.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may be relied upon as a perfect regulator. It stops encumbering details, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.
'Your letter just received,' writes Miss Kate Kitcher, of 43 West Broadway, St. Germain town, Philadelphia, Penna. 'Words fail to express how thankful I am to you for your advice. I must confess that for the length of time I have been using your medicine I have found it to be the most wonderful and best remedy for female trouble that I ever had tried. I did not know of your 'Favorite Prescription' years ago.'

RIPLEY PROSECUTION
CLOSES ITS CASE.
Wharton Golden Goes From Colorado to Testify.
HE WAS THE STAR WITNESS TODAY
Swore to a Plot to Kill Governor Goebel and Gave Many Particulars of the Affair.
Frankfort, Ky., April 13.—Wharton Golden was a star witness today in the closing hours of the prosecution's side in the case against Garnett Ripley, charged with complicity in the Goebel murder. Golden came from Colorado to testify. He said that Governor Taylor told him that Representative Hail and others were preparing to settle the fight in the legislature, and asked if he and his men would stand by them. Golden said they would. On January 20, witness and Caleb Powers took a walk to the cemetery. Powers said Goebel would have to be killed, and that Taylor would pardon the assassin. Powers said that the mountain army would have to be here when it was done. Golden saw Ripley in Adjutant-General Collier's office just prior to the assassination. Collier told Ripley that he could furnish guns for the Pleasantville company, and Ripley said that he would buy them Winchester, if they could not do better.
Judge Bruce, of Henry county, testified that no application was made to the county for the formation of Ripley's company, and that it was mustered in contrary to law.
The court overruled the motion of the defense for preemptory instructions to the jury, and Attorney O'Neill made the opening statement for that side.

PORTER TALKS TRUSTS.
Tells About English Combines and Their Extent.
New York, April 13.—Robert J. Porter, who arrived from London on the Deutschland, speaking of the English trade prospects, said:
'The principal industrial talk in England during my present visit centered around the great steel combination which has appalled the British manufacturers. However, John Bull will endeavor to keep up with the keener competition. The comment has taken the course that each trust is only possible with a high tariff, a somewhat amusing conclusion when one considers how honeycombed free-trade-England is with combinations of capital as formidable and strong in controlling trade as any in the United States.
'To begin with the entire railway industry of the United Kingdom is one gigantic combination, all rates being fixed at the center of fiscal management is the clearing house. Then, in banking, nearly all the smaller banks have been swallowed up by the big ones, Lloyds alone having taken in over 40, while Paris and Barclay's list is as numerous, and in the shipping business, industrial amalgamation is the order of the day. The price of coal is also arranged by a trust. Turning from these basic instruments of commerce to industrial combinations, we find about $600,000,000 of capital concentrated in some recently formed trusts, while the older combinations represent literally billions of dollars. Yes, in England you will find in all lines of industrial enterprise the very same trusts as in the United States. Consul Mason of Berlin recently showed the same of Germany. Concentration of effort and economy of production is the tendency of the times, and it is only by such methods that the rival nations can keep up the great commercial conflict.'

NO MORE MARTIAL LAW
GOVERNOR HUNT PROCLAIMS THE FACT OFFICIALLY.
Gives Reasons for Thinking Couer d'Alenes Now Will Observe the Idaho Laws.
Boise, April 13.—Gov. Hunt has abolished martial law in the Couer d'Alenes. Martial law was declared by Governor Steunenberg on May 4, 1899, following the destruction of the Bunker Hill concentrator during the sanguinary riot on the 29th of April. The actions of the state following the institution of military rule in the Couer d'Alenes are so well known as to render repetition unnecessary.
Gov. Hunt's proclamation says, in part:
'Upon assuming office I felt it my duty first to investigate conditions in Shoshone county. It was my object to observe whether there was still danger of further disturbance and riot. My investigation has convinced me that the citizens of Shoshone county are today law-abiding and law-loving, united in their desire for peace and friendly relations with their neighbors, and that no element that would bring again trouble and anxiety and suffering into peaceful and prosperous homes.
'Martial law is the spirit of force necessary in its employment to protect life and property, and applicable at any time for that purpose. Its operation in time of peace, after danger and peril are over, is repugnant to our form of government and menace to our institutions.
'Our constitution safely places the administration of law in the hands of the civil authorities, there to remain during their ability to maintain it. New officers have been elected and are in active performance of their duties since January, 1901, unopposed by violence of any description and outspoken in their ability to maintain order.
'Therefore, in consideration of the premises, I, Frank W. Hunt, governor of the state of Idaho, do, by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, declare that martial law in Shoshone county shall be and is hereby abolished, this proclamation to take effect and be in force immediately upon the signing thereof.'

Butte a Moving City.
Butte, April 13.—A portion of Butte, believed to embrace the larger part of the big hill upon which some of the Anasazi mines are located, has made a very perceptible movement southward during the past few days. At the foot of Anasazi hill the slide pushed the tracks of the street railway line about six inches for a distance of about 300 feet along the road.

Found the Missing Gold.
Bremer, April 13.—It is stated here on good authority that the bars of gold that were missing from the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm Grosse were discovered here this morning by the steward in the second cabin of the steamer, while the vessel was being cleaned.

Reported 200 Buried by Avalanche.
Denver, April 13.—No verification can be obtained here of the reported loss of life in Taylor Park. Two hundred persons are there, but it is said to be a physical impossibility that all were buried by an avalanche. The place is inaccessible.

An Heir to Holland's Crown.

New Orleans, April 13.—Judge Parland states that the court today dismissed the suit for an injunction to prohibit further transportation of mail by the British on the grounds that it was a private transactions.

A Seattle Defaulter.
Seattle, April 13.—F. H. Bengie, chief clerk of the Seattle and International railway here, has been missing some time. Examination shows that he had issued false returns amounting to $3000.
Rio de Janeiro Bank Falls.
Rio de Janeiro, April 13.—Banco de Bahia, one of the leading institutions of South America, has suspended payment.
PARK SUPERINTENDENT.
Washington, April 13.—Captain Jack Pitcher, of San Francisco, has been appointed superintendent of the Yellowstone National park.

UTILITY OF THE BICYCLE
It Meets the Wants of the Common People.
Wendell Phillips, with whom as an orator, only Pericles of the Greeks can be compared, and stand the comparison, once said, speaking of the hall, of Boston, at that time the largest auditorium in America, on the condition of the poor:
'Lift the price of bread half a cent a pound in Paris, and half its citizens would be compelled to steal or starve.'
And whether a thing be a luxury or a necessity, the cost to the individual measures its usefulness to him. Bring it within his reach financially, and he buys it and uses it, and the full benefit of the invention is produced to him. Let some discovery bring the cost of a trip to Liverpool and back to $30, and reduce the time to five days—that is, put it on the level of an economical outing—and ten millions of people would take the trip annually. In brief, it is the price of anything needed or craved by man that fixes the limits of its popularization.

Growing Popularity.
The growing popularity of the bicycle is chiefly beyond doubt due to the fact that it meets so forcibly the wants of the American people of all classes. The business man, the health seeker, the clergyman and physician, and lovers of outdoor exercise, all find in it what they need. No other invention ever had so many elements to win popular favor. But the price at which it is now offered to the public removes the only obstacle that ever existed to its universal adoption by the people as a whole. Its moderate cost puts it within the reach of all, even of those of a very limited income. The popular response to this state of things is truly astonishing. Every manufacturer is busy, and new agencies are being established everywhere. There is no "boom," but a legitimate expansion of the business in response to an actual and vast increase in the demand. The price settles it. The people of the whole country have discovered that they can afford to own a bicycle, and now there is no pleasanter, more effective means of obtaining the exercise they require, and that is why the supply can barely equal the demand. All hail to the wheel!
