EXPENSIVE WARS.

English people are aghast at the increase in the demands of the government, as set forth in the budget, shown in the preliminary statement made by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach before the House of Commons last week. It was indubitable proof that the South African war has cost more than the people expected it would. Up to the present time, the war has cost 148,500,000 pounds, or $742,500,000. And yet the struggle goes on, the English armies, larger than any ever before kept actively in the field, being unable to conquer those South African Boers. It may be an incorrect manner of looking at the subject, but when one observes that a return upon the money investment at three per cent would be $22,275,000 annually, and when it is taken into consideration that the English empire will probably never be able to secure any such return, it is difficult to see just where will come in the profit.

This is not counting the terrible cost of human blood, and it has been heavy for both sides in the struggle. Thousands have been killed, and more thousands have died from disease, while the loss of human efficiency by reason of wounds, has been enormous. Certainly, the war represents, from a commercial and financial standpoint, a very large enterprise, and the average person, not versed in the philosophy of the statesmen who support such wars of conquest, will wonder just why they should be waged.

It is misleading to quote figures showing that so many dollars of business is done with a given foreign country, and make the inferential claim that they represent the profit to the country plying the trade. If, for instance, the United States transact $50,000,000 of commercial business with the Philippines, annually, that by no means is the profit accruing to this country. For, the margin of profit cannot be much more than a small per centage, say, four per cent., which would amount to $2,000,000 profit on the investment. This reference to the Philippine war is germane to the subject. Inasmuch as the purposes are the same in the South African and Philippine wars, the facts in relation to one may be used as illustrations for a discussion of the other.

It is silly to contend that any but the commercial consideration urges to the expenditure of so vast sums of money. For any one with a grain of common sense knows that, unless the commercial and money magnates of the two countries had given assent, the wars would never have been fought.

Perhaps, this is the gist of the question: The government pays the bills, and the commercial interests reap the profit, leaving for the people glory and honor of a very low quality as their compensation.

SHOULD SEE THE RIVER.

It is exceedingly unfortunate that President McKinley decides that he will not view the Columbia and Willamette rivers, at the time of his visit to Portland. By this decision, he prevents the people of Oregon from showing him and his companions the greatest thing in the West—the magnificent waterway system of this state and Washington, two streams that which the United States has only one greater—the Mississippi.

It would almost be justifiable to force the president to see those rivers, and when the presidential party gets aboard the Hassalo to view Portland harbor, run him down the Columbia and up to The Dalles, in spite of his protests. If the people of the East will not voluntarily learn what is in the West, and of the wonderful possi-

Secretary Root has issued orders that the structures be prepared and every thing made ready for the competitive tests.

PROSPEROUS INDIANS.

A special correspondent of the Spokesman-Review who recently traveled across the Coeur d'Alene reservation in northern Idaho, presents an interesting and pleasing picture of the industrial life of the Indians. A large number have well improved farms, large farmhouses, well built and painted, with good barns and outbuildings. They are, as a rule, industrious and prosperous, and some of them employ white labor. This suggests the question: If one tribe has been brought to this degree of civilization, why not all the tribes? Have the different tribes differentiated to an extent that would make one of them susceptible of high and rapid advancement and another hopelessly irreclaimable? Or is the difference the result of different treatment by the white men?

Perhaps in some respects the Coeur d'Alenes have been favored above other tribes, sixty years ago they were brought under religious and industrial training, and it was their good fortune to receive missionaries of exceptional zeal, piety and practical mindedness. These soldiers of the cross have passed to their reward, but their great influence abides in this Indian land. Business men who have dealt with the Coeur d'Alenes testify to their high regard for financial obligations. "I will take the word of a Coeur d'Alene above that of a white man," once said a Spokane business man to the writer. "When a Coeur d'Alene promises to pay a debt on a given day, he will be there with the money or a straightforward plea for extension."

These Indians were also fortunate in their choice of a reservation. Their domain skirts the richest sections of the fertile Palouse. The world has no better soil, the climate is mild, and the country is beautifully wooded and watered.

It is a pity that all the Indian tribes are not so fortunate or so industrious and honest as these Coeur d'Alenes. The contrast between their thrift and moral standards and the miserable squalor and degradation of the blanket Indians is the contrast between civilization and savagery.—Spokesman-Review.

AGUINALDO.

I'm a dusky Filipino from the island of Luzon; A good-looking American from regions of the dawn; Although my dress is scanty, my manner meek I'll soon be "up" to all the tricks in which the Yankee vies; I'm glad to be admitted into Freedom's holy light— And as my powder is no more, I'd rather eat than fight.

My father was a Calabuan, a mild-eyed business man— And his tradition don't deceive, my mother was a Jap. My uncle lived in Boston and slew a hundred My aunt a witch in Madalay, who took a score of lives. My cousin owned a pirate fleet upon the China sea. Another sold his sister to a lord in Poo Chee. A great and trusted general was my grandfather bold. Who stole his neck and nose a dozen times of gold.

And proud am I of my grand-tan, the noblest of his kind; Who had a map of Sulu face tattooed upon his back; My brothers twelve are opium fiends, my sister in the same; And I have a pipe myself I am a trifle lame!

My mother, in a sportive mood, his elder brother slew. And stole his wife and buffalo and started life. They banished him from China, and the kingdom of his birth— That's how he came to populate this portion of the earth! I'm glad I am rescued from the error of their way— For I do not like that busy Yankee and his kind.

I gladly quit my native fare of pickled meats and pup. And come with melting heart to take the White Man's burden up. HERT HUFFMAN. Kamela, Oregon, April 26, 1901.

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily the cancer, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or the cancerous part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows: "A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it, but it began to enlarge and it would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very tender, or the cancerous part of the body, gives the first warning."

It occurred to an enterprising person who caters to the appetites of men the prime juice with just enough spirits added to give it some would make a pleasing drink. But a revenue agent asked Internal Revenue Commissioner Yerkes in Washington if the compound was subject to the special tax. The commissioner informed the agent that the enterprising drink-provider must not only pay a special tax but must also qualify as a rectifier of spirits.

It will cost the government $50,000 for a competitive test next June of the Gathmann gunboat torpedo gun and the regular army 12-inch service rifle. It is seldom the government conducts such an inquiry, and the result will be awaited with great interest. Inventor Gathmann is willing to stake his reputation that one shot from the gun bearing his name will equal in destructiveness ten fired from a 12-inch rifle.

There is a Gathmann gun at Sandy Hook which cost about $30,000. Beside this weapon will be placed a 12-inch army service rifle. The legislation enacted that similar targets shall be constructed, each representing the wide construction of the largest type of battleship. Each of these structures is to be faced with a Krupp armor plate 12 inches thick, 8 feet wide and 16 feet long. Not less than ten shots must be fired against one structure from the 12-inch rifle. Against the other structure one torpedo shell will be projected from the Gathmann gun. Careful examination of the two structures will then be made. If the results are not clear another shot may be fired from the Gathmann gun.

Baby's Coming

McDonald, Ga., July 18, 1900. I advise every suffering woman to take Wine of Cardui. While I was going with my other children I was compelled to stay in bed for days at a time, but this time I have taken Wine of Cardui and thus far I have been able to do all my housework without any trouble. I am expecting every day to be confined. My husband thinks Wine of Cardui is the best medicine in the world. He takes a dose of Theodor's Black-Draught every night and gives some to the children. He has not lost a day from work this year. He tells his friends about your wonderful medicine and I tell my lady friends to use your Wine of Cardui. Mrs. GEORGIA LEE.

WINE OF CARDUI

There are thousands of women who shrink in terror at the thought of the baby's coming. But childbirth is one of the workings of Nature and it was not intended to imply torture and agony to the heroic mothers of the race. The woman who suffers torture during pregnancy and at childbirth has usually, by some indiscretion, injured the organs which make her a woman. Neglect of menstrual irregularities leads to ovarian pains, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea, and the period of pregnancy is necessarily distressing under these conditions. Wine of Cardui will regulate the menstrual function perfectly and eventually make the generative organs strong and healthy. Pregnancy and childbirth have no terrors for the woman who takes this pure Wine. A strong healthy womb will bring its precious burden to maturity with little or no pain. A healthy woman need not fear childbirth. Wine of Cardui completely cures all these troubles familiarly known as "female diseases" and equips the sensitive generative organs for pregnancy and childbirth. It will save any mother much pain and suffering. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles.
