The First Lady of the Land Sinks Into Unconsciousness. Sombre Death Turning a Nation's Joy Into Deep Mourning.

San Francisco, May 16.—Bulletin—12 noon.—Mrs. McKinley is known to be near to death.

San Francisco, May 16.—1:30 p. m.—It is given out from the Scott residence, where the patient is during her San Francisco visit, that Mrs. McKinley's condition is not materially changed. She is gradually growing weaker.

San Francisco, May 16.—2:30 p. m.—Secretary Cortelyou reports: Mrs. McKinley's condition is unchanged.

At the Door of Death. San Francisco, May 16.—At 9:10 o'clock this morning, Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following alarming bulletin, which was taken as indicating that Mrs. McKinley was very near death's door:

"The physicians report that Mrs. McKinley's condition is not so favorable this morning, she having had a sinking spell at 5 o'clock. The president has cancelled the program scheduled for today, including the Ohio society banquet tonight."

Secretary Cortelyou at 9:30 o'clock admitted that the chances for recovery were very slight.

Drs. Rixey, Hirschfelder and Gibbons, who were all summoned early, did all in the power of medical science to revive the spark of life that was thought to be so fast waning.

In spite of the heroic efforts, the gentle patient continued to sink, and the president was informed that, unless a miracle intervened, the end was but a question of a few hours, perhaps a few minutes.

The members of the cabinet who are here remained in their rooms at the Palace hotel, awaiting with sinking heart the dread news of what was felt to be inevitable.

Miss Barber remained at the bedside of her aunt, the president being there, too, all the morning.

Neither of them slept during the night, but watched the frail form as it tossed uneasily on the bed.

Was Sinking at Noon. This noon, by the aid of artificial heat and stimulants, Mrs. McKinley still lingers alive.

Attending physicians express hopes of a rally, but this is not shared by others. At 12:15 o'clock, Secretary Cortelyou issued the following bulletin:

"The physicians who have been attending Mrs. McKinley during the most of the morning report that, while she has had no relapse since early morning, her condition continues grave. She is very weak."

Telegrams of sympathy from all parts of the country continue pouring in. During the morning, the members of the cabinet called, but the president did not see anyone.

Mrs. McKinley was unconscious during the most of the morning, and at noon was gradually sinking lower and lower.

Only the Launching is Left. San Francisco, May 16.—All the banquets and entertainments programed for the president this morning were declared off. The launching of the battleship Ohio is the sole event left.

AN INVALID MANY YEARS. Travel, It Was Thought, Would Aid Her, and So the Western Trip Was Planned, Her Comfort Being Sought in Every Manner Possible. But It Was All in Vain.

Washington, May 16.—To those in official life, the breakdown of Mrs. McKinley, although a severe shock, does not come as a surprise. She has been an invalid for years. Two little mounds in an Ohio cemetery mark the period when robust health left her.

From that time, her condition has ever given rise to more or less of anxiety. Since her arrival in Washington, as the first lady of the land, her health has not improved. When the presidential trip was planned, her health was very poor. Dr. Rixey thought the travel would benefit her. In the arrangements, nothing that could contribute to her comfort was left undone, but all the care taken seems to have been in vain.

STRIKERS AND SOLDIERS. Albany Hopes to End the Trouble Tonight. Albany, N. Y., May 16.—The people of Albany bestirred themselves early this morning in anticipation of another day full of excitement. All night long, the militia guarded the street car company's barns, but no violence was attempted.

the company intended resuming operations developed about 8 o'clock, when two battalions of infantry formed on either side of the roadway in front of the barns. A great crowd had gathered and another company came on double quick to disperse the crowd.

About fifty people rushed into a saloon and were followed by soldiers with fixed bayonets. Some in the crowd were hurt by the soldiers, who ordered the saloon closed and hustled the fugitives into the street. The first car left the barn at 8:30 o'clock.

Two motormen, two conductors, two Pinkerton men with loaded rifles and Col. Barnes, commanding the militia here, were aboard. A second car accompanied by a company of militia, left half an hour later. Details of soldiers were distributed at each corner along the line.

Almost Caused Trouble. The streets through which the cars passed were thronged with people and threats were heard on all sides, but no violence was offered. However, trouble was almost precipitated by a man who rushed after the car, urging the non-union men to join the strikers. The soldiers attempted to arrest him, but he fled into the crowd which pressed about him, preventing the soldiers from reaching him. A soldier loaded his rifle and threatened to kill the first man who laid a hand on him. The crowd then fell back. Several demonstrations were made along the line, but the crowds were always forced away from the cars by the soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Hope to Settle the Strike. Albany, May 16.—It is stated on good authority that, as a result of the negotiations pending between the city officials and the strikers, the street car trouble will be settled tonight.

Washington May Have a Strike. Washington, May 16.—Owing to a controversy over the price of uniforms, the street car employees of Washington threaten a strike.

BLEW UP THE SAFE. New York Woman's Coup While Her Husband Was in Europe. The wife of a merchant in New York was moved to attempt safe breaking by a desire to speculate. Her husband is in Europe. In his safe were 500 shares of Northern Pacific. The Wall Street man who had sold them to him rushed to the wife and offered her $80,000 for the bunch, which represented a profit of $40,000.

"But I don't know the combination of the safe," expostulated the wife in answer to the Wall Street man's frantic appeal for stock.

"Well, blow it open, and for professional cracksmen hire a safe expert. I'll pay any man $1000 to get the safe open."

The wife protested, but the Wall Street man finally induced her to consent to the burglary and he got the stock. The wife spent $15 cabling news of the transaction to her husband and got this reply:

"Good; give him the safe, too." Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you will get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. Tallman & Co.

"Nerve Waste." One of the most helpful books on nerve weakness ever issued is that entitled "Nerve Waste," by Dr. Sawyer of San Francisco, now in its fifth thousand. This work of an experienced and reputable physician is in agreeable contrast to the vast mass of false teaching which prevails on this interesting subject. It abounds in carefully considered and practical advice, and has the two great merits of wisdom and sincerity.

It is endorsed by both the religious and secular press. The Chicago Advance says: "A perusal of the book and the application of its principles will put health, hope and heart into thousands of lives that are now suffering through nervous impairment."

The book is $1.00 by mail postpaid. One of the most interesting chapters—chapter xx, on Nerves and Nerve Tonics—has been printed separately as a sample chapter, and will be sent to any address for stamp by the publishers, THE PACIFIC PUBLISHING CO., Box 568, San Francisco.
