TOY-TOY CASE SUBMITTED

MANY DECISIONS WERE CITED BY THE ATTORNEYS.

Justices Leave Tonight for Salem, the Docket Having Been Gone Through in 11 Days.

The most important and interesting cases before the supreme court at the May term in Pendleton, both on account of the gravity of the crime charged and the legal questions raised, were those of Toy-Toy and Columbia George, convicted of the murder of Annie Edna at the October term of the circuit court in Pendleton, and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, December 21, 1900. The principal contention of appellants is that the circuit court lacked jurisdiction. William Parsons, Robert J. Slater and James H. Raley, for the appellants, took up almost all of Thursday and Friday forenoon with their arguments. District Attorney T. G. Hatley occupied the rest of the time, and, if there are any decisions bearing on the case it is a safe assertion that they were referred to and portions of them read, at least. As the decision of the supreme court of the state of Oregon goes in the Toy-Toy case, so goes that of Columbia George. Although separate appeals were filed, the argument in the Toy-Toy case will go for both.

The Docket Cleared.

With the disposition of the following two cases, the docket has been cleared and the supreme court judges will leave tonight for Salem: Charles Altschul, appellant, vs. Emmet Clarke, respondent; Harney county; Williams, Wood & Lithium for appellants; L. R. Webster and Will E. King for respondent; submitted and transferred to Salem. J. J. Hecker, respondent, vs. Oregon Railway & Navigation company, appellant; A. S. Bennett, for respondent; Cotton, Teal & Minor, for appellant; transferred to Salem for argument, to be heard September 25.

The above two cases were placed on the docket since the supreme court went into session here, so that 43 cases were disposed of by that body in 11 working days. The supreme court is behind about two years in its work, but is gaining ground slowly. They know no rest or vacation, and have to work long hours in order to keep up with their work. They have filed a unanimous opinion that the supreme court should be increased to five members.

REVIEW OF CROP MATTERS

A Pleasant View Correspondent Says
Vegetation is Booming.

Pleasant View, May 16.—This has been by all odds the best growing week of the season, and vegetation which had been somewhat backward is booming. Grain of all kinds, whether fall or spring sown, is doing well. Fall barley has headed out and some of the earlier fall wheat will soon be in head. Gardens are doing much better than they had been doing. Probably 85 per cent of the summer-fallowing is done in this neighborhood, some farmers having finished a week and others two weeks ago. This is eight or ten days earlier than usual. While the ground is getting hard in some places from lack of rain, where it is plowed deep, the rain and plowing has done with stock during the winter the plowing is fair yet.

W. H. McCormack, who has finished plowing a half section on the home place and a section a mile south of Fulton, is now at work on a half section in the neighborhood of his brother Watter's place. The outfit consists of the big steam traction engine with which Mr. McCormack does his harvesting, attached to a 25 foot combined header and thrasher. The engine walks right along with five three-bottom Casady gang plows, making 15 1/2-inch plows drawn. The average day's work is 40 acres.

Some Big Plowings.

Rats and mice are more plentiful at wheat warehouses than they formerly were and do considerable damage to sacks. Frank Woodruff, of the Western Warehouse company at Fulton, has procured a number of Belgian hares. He says he has never sold any, but he has some good rat-catchers and mousers. Though he admits he has never seen them catch any. However, he didn't invest in them principally for that purpose, anyway.

RADER'S MAP OF OREGON

Statistics That Will Be Read With Great Interest.

M. A. Rader, the furniture man, has just received several thousand copies of a statistical map of Oregon which he has compiled and had printed for the benefit of his customers particularly and for all others who desire to inform themselves concerning many facts of Oregon. This map is a valuable reference work. The state of Oregon is shown up clearly by counties of different shades, together with their county seats, mountain ranges, lakes, rivers and principal cities. The statistical part embraces a church directory of the city of Pendleton; a Pendleton secret society directory, containing the name, number, meeting place and meeting night of 33 secret orders; population of Umatilla county by minor civil divisions is given, together with annual salaries of chief rulers of different nations and of army officers; population of the principal cities of Idaho, Washington and Oregon; statistics of counties and county seats, population of cities of the United States, etc.

PEOPLE HERE FOR A DAY.

Robert E. Wilson, of the Burlington, is at the Hotel St. George. Mr. Wilson says that after all the excitement in Wall street and the stirring up of a whole world over the flurries on the Stock Exchange, one fact remains undisputed and undisputable. It is this—the Burlington runs the finest train in the world, carries its passengers in the greatest comfort, in short, is the very best railroad in existence, a sort of B. O. E., Best Railroad on Earth.

John Fleming, known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as the representative of Evans, Snyder & Buell, Chicago livestock handlers, is at the Hotel Pendleton. Mr. Fleming is here again to look around among the sheep men and arrange for some shipments to the East.

Personal Mention.

George W. Hansen, a Portland lawyer, is registered at the Hotel St. George.

Henry F. Conner, of the O. R. & N. Co.'s legal department, is at the Hotel Pendleton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rubelow have gone to the White Pine, in Idaho, for two months.

Uta Slate, of Pendleton, is registered at the Sagamore hotel, says the Baker City Herald of Thursday.

Judge W. R. Ellis is a guest of the Hotel Pendleton. He is looking after the work of putting up his residence on Lewis street.

Dr. L. Dell, who has been a practicing physician for nearly half a century, was in Pendleton on Friday from his home at Athens.

Ralph Knapp, a newspaper man formerly of Albany, for the past year with the Astoria Evening News, is a visitor in Pendleton today.

Hugh McArthur, of Portland and Athens, came down from the latter place on Thursday afternoon and put the rest of the day visiting with old friends.

Chester A. Whitmore, president of the Irwin-Gordon company, blank book manufacturers of Portland, spent Friday in Pendleton on business and pleasure.

Henry F. Pierce arrived this morning from San Francisco, and will remain in Pendleton for about 10 days. He is interested in a number of big oil and mining deals.

William Willaby, of Athens, was in Pendleton on Friday. His business was in connection with the probating of the will of his wife, who died last Sunday at home near Athens.

At the state Sunday School convention at Salem, Miss Belle Wallace, of Pendleton, was elected state superintendent of the normal department, and Miss Marie Walker was appointed on the nominating committee.

Mrs. Louis F. Cook is a guest of Mrs. T. C. Taylor in this city. Mrs. Cook came from Baker City and is on her way to Dawson City, to join Mr. Cook, who went there so soon as the spring navigation permitted.

Mrs. Lillian Frederic will arrive in Portland in a few days from California and will come home to Weston from Portland with her sister, Miss Christine Probstel, who has been there during several months past.

Charles C. Berkeley has gone to Vancouver, Wash., where he will remain for sometime as supervising engineer during the construction of the big bridge there. Mrs. Berkeley, and her mother, Mrs. N. E. Despain, have gone to Spokane, stopping for a visit in Walla Walla. They will go from Spokane to Vancouver, joining Mr. Berkeley and making their home there during the summer, at least. They may remain for a longer period.

DOG POISONED ON THURSDAY

Wheat Set Out for Pigeons Did its Deadly Work.

Al Despain lost an Irish setter pup by poisoning at noon on Thursday, the particulars of which would indicate that some one had been very careless or has been handling poison with great recklessness. Three Irish setter pups, including Dupont, owned by Mr. Despain, and Belle, owned by George R. Lash, have their quarters in a kennel back of the Strahon lodging house. Some persons had apparently set out poisoned wheat for pigeons, at least five of those birds dropped dead in the yard after having partaken of the food. Dupont found one of the dead pigeons and eat part of it, and died within 15 minutes thereafter. The colored porter of Mark Patton's barber shop had obtained a couple of squabs in the same vicinity and had them dressed ready for cooking, when he learned that the pup had died as though from poison. He did not eat the squabs. Dupont was a valuable pup and highly prized by its owner.

HARRY CORSON CLARKE

Never a Buffoon, But Always a Kirth Provoking Comedian.

As a fun-promoter and a mirth-provoker, Harry Corson Clarke has no superior and but few equals. Yet Mr. Clarke's methods of inspiring merriment, while masterly, are strictly legitimate. He never descends to horseplay nor wins a laugh by other means than those of a most refined, artistic and genuine comedy talent. His make-up is eccentric, quaint or humorous as the case may be, but it is never a caricature of a caricature. More, he sinks his own individuality entirely in the role he assumes.

For the time being he is a faithful reproduction to the life, of the character he is portraying, and his facial expression, the tones and inflections of his voice, his diction and the mannerisms he makes use of are in absolute harmony with that character. And, incidentally, no two of his delineations are the same. But he is always a gentleman—never a buffoon, always delf and subtle, never clumsy nor coarse; a finished artist rather than a clever trickster in making his effects.

In this way he is a legitimate successor to Joseph Jefferson, William Crane, Stuart Robson, Ed Smith Russell and others of the older comedians of the American stage, whose laurels there seems every likelihood Mr. Clarke will assume, as theirs are, performance, laid aside.
